State Legislators Want $5,000-$8,000 Pay Hikes

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legislators who have suggested they should get raises of $5,000-$8,000 next year are wishful thinkers, veteran House Clerk T. Thomas Thatcher said Monday. Thatcher told a special state panel considering pay raises that though lawmakers should be paid more, the public just wouldn't stand for raises that large. "I think there's a little wishful thinking there," he said of suggestions by legislative leaders that their $19,000 annual salaries be boosted to $24,000 or $27,000 next year.

House Republican Leader Dennis Cawthorne cited those preliminary estimates earlier this year, saying that's what lawmakers would have to make to keep pace with the earning power they had in the late 1960s. Thatcher told the State Officers Compensation Commission that raises should reflect only cost of living increases. Cawthorne says his figures do that, but there are several different ways to measure higher costs of living.

Thatcher, a legislator in the '30s who served as clerk in 1937-38 and since 1965, also said legislators' $26 per day expense limit should be increased or abolished. He would favor, however, maintaining the current $3,500 a year ceiling on expenses.

Thatcher told the commission quite a few House employees make more money than lawmakers, including Roger Tilles, the top aide to House Speaker Bobby Crim. Crim, because he is speaker, earns an extra $5,000 a year. But Tilles, a state classified employee, makes $31,293. Legislators say pay raises are needed not only to reflect higher living costs, but also to attract high caliber people to serve in the legislature.

Most lawmakers say they are unable to hold other jobs because of the time required at formal House sessions and committee work. Legislative salaries were hiked from $17,000 two years ago.

The SOCC also must recommend raises for the governor ($45,000), lieutenant governor ($27,500) and Supreme Court justices ($43,500).

Commission chairman Francis (Mike) A. Jones said the commission's final report should indicate that the SOCC feels the setting of Supreme Court salaries should be removed from its jurisdiction, or it should also be asked to set salaries for Court of Appeals judges. He indicated salaries for those judges, set by the legislature, almost force the SOCC to raise Supreme Court salaries just to keep the high court jurists' salaries on top. Appeals court judges and some others in the state, for example, will be making more than $43,500 after Jan. 1.

Mao Tse-tung Widow Held In Coup Plot?

By ROBERT LIU
Associated Press Writer
HONG KONG (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's widow, Chiang Ching, and three other radical members of the Chinese Communist party Politburo have been arrested on charges of plotting to seize control of the Chinese government, according to unconfirmed reports circulating today in Peking.

Residents in the Chinese capital, contacted by telephone from Hong Kong, said the reports were first heard in the city Monday evening and were the topic of open conversation today.

No official confirmation of the reports could be obtained. The Japan Broadcasting Corp. reported from Peking that all was "quiet and normal" there.

But the open discussion of the reports emphasized that the power struggle between pragmatic moderates and revolutionary radicals which began with the death of Premier Chou En-lai last January is still raging.

Those reported arrested with Mao's 62-year-old widow were Wang Hung-wen, 38, the Shanghai "boy wonder" whom Mao elevated from a factory assembly line to a party vice-chairmanship for his services to the revolutionary cause in the 1960-68 Cultural Revolution; First Vice-Premier Chang Chun-chiao, 55, a member of the Politburo's standing committee; and Yao Wen-yuan, 51, a leading ideologist and polemicist since the Cultural Revolution purge 10 years ago.

The London Daily Telegraph's Peking correspondent, Nigel Wade, reported that reliable sources told him the arrests were announced to political organizers at special weekend briefings.

The London Financial Times said the four radicals were under house arrest, according to "unconfirmed reports from Peking." It said the reports suggested that "the power struggle which surfaced within the leadership before Chairman Mao died has since intensified."

Wade said few details of the alleged plot were known. He said the plotters apparently got little support from the army, and he speculated that they may be charged with such "treasonable" actions as forging statements and sayings attributed to Mao during the last months before he died on Sept. 9.

The Telegraph report said the four radical leaders' last known public appearance was on Sept. 30, at a meeting on the eve of China's national day.

Japanese correspondents in Peking reported that none of the four was at the airport Monday to welcome Prime Minister Thorne. Somare of Papua New Guinea when he arrived for a visit to China. Official airport welcomes are important occasions in Peking, and political significance is deduced from the lineup of officials present.

Somare was greeted by Premier Hua Kuo-feng and Vice-Premier Li Hsien-nien, 71, an expert in financial and economic affairs, according to the official Chinese news agency Hsinhua. There had been speculation that Chang would become premier if Hua succeeded Mao as Communist party chairman. But the London Financial Times reported that Li fulfilled the duties of premier at Somare's arrival.

Japanese reports from Peking reiterated that Hua had been chosen for the party chairmanship. This succession was announced in wall posters last weekend, but there has been no official announcement.

Chiang Ching, a one-time movie actress who became Mao's fourth wife, has wielded enormous influence both as the party chairman's wife and in her own right as a leader of the radical wing of the party.

She burst into prominence in the Cultural Revolution, and some observers credited her with much of the impetus for the purge of those who wanted to concentrate on industrial development and government efficiency rather than revolutionary eradication of the remnants of capitalism.

She was vice chairman of the purge group and dominated the Cultural Revolution, tangle-shedding Mao's opponents and urging the young Red Guards to violence. They assaulted foreigners, burned down the British Embassy, attacked the Soviet Embassy and destroyed many relics from China's

Porter Raps Proposal C But Expects It To Pass

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some school districts could face financial ruin if a ballot proposal to limit state spending and taxing is passed in November, says state school superintendent John W. Porter. Calling Michigan's education finance picture "an impossible situation," Porter said Monday the state needs quick action to overhaul its school funding methods.

Ballot Proposal C would limit the state's tax revenues over that limit and would forbid the levying of local taxes without a vote of the people.

Porter said he expects Proposal C to pass because Michigan taxpayers are fed up.

"They don't care. They're inclined to vote for Proposal C and then let the state figure out how it's going to wriggle out of it."

Porter said approval of the measure would cut the state's school funding ability, pressure districts to seek higher millages — at a time when taxpayers are defeating such proposals — and ultimately strain the quality of education.

The superintendent said he expects the proposal to pass. If that happens, he said, a constitutional amendment would be needed in 1978 to create a new school aid system.

If the 8.3 per cent limit had existed this year, Porter said, school aid would have dropped $76 million below the current $761.6 million general fund income. It also would require rebates of all revenues over that limit and would forbid the levying of local taxes without a vote of the people.

If the 8.3 per cent limit had existed this year, Porter said, school aid would have dropped $76 million below the current $761.6 million general fund appropriation for local school districts.

He proposes earmarking part of the state's income tax revenues for local school districts, and levying a statewide property millage.

All local districts would get the same basic amount of money per student, with some adjustments for districts with excessive costs, he said. Districts also would be able to go to the voters for more local millage money.

Even if Proposal C fails, Porter says the state still needs legislation that would let school districts levy a local income tax after residents twice reject property millages.

Porter said it's not feasible to have declining enrollments and increasing costs in a labor-intensive industry without being able to impose taxes when the cost goes up.

Porter said support for education funding changes will come only when school districts across the state — urban, suburban, and rural — are not making ends meet. He predicted that could come by 1980.

"As soon as these small school districts we've never heard of start closing their schools ... and taxpayers say 'We're not gonna pay,' then you have a crisis situation," he said.

Without a crisis, he added, no action is likely.

Farming Leaders Back Proposal A

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A throwaway bottle or can could cost a farmer $500 an hour in "down time" if he runs over it with a combine. It also could kill a cow.

Those "straight from the farm" facts were offered Monday by four Michigan farm leaders who voiced support for November ballot Proposal A, which would ban the sale of throwaway beverage containers.

"Broken bottles slash tractor and combine tires, and cans get picked by forage choppers and get into livestock feed, thereby endangering the lives of cattle which eat that feed," said

William Brook, president of the Michigan Agricultural Conference.

The farm officials said they're weary of litterers using their land as a dumping spot, and showed reporters four large bags of cans and bottles which they said were picked up one day along a 400-yard stretch of Ridge Road in Washtenaw County.

"Just the other day," said Brook, holding up a mangled soda pop can, "my son hit this with a pitchfork while he was pitching hay."

Brook was joined at a news conference by Glenn Lake, president of the Michigan Milk Producers Association; Elton R. Smith, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, and Richard M. Carnecross, master of the Michigan State Grange.

They had harsh words for opponents of Proposal A and said the consumer would save money, energy and resources if the measure passes.

"The scare-type propaganda used by opponents of Proposal A is nothing short of shameful in its inferences and implications of higher beverage costs ... inconvenience in returning bottles and cans, and other assorted distortions," Lake said.

Carnecross set up a display of soda pop bottles and cans he said he'd bought at local supermarkets. An eight-pack of 16-ounce soda pop in returnable containers cost about 45 cents less than an eight-pack of 12-ounce non-returnables, he said. "The real inconvenience," Carnecross said, "is in having to pick up the throwaways, whether they be in a rural area or on a suburban or city street or lawn."

Beverage dealers have argued that higher costs will result when manufacturing equipment must be changed to produce only returnables. Smith said this would be offset by savings in the cost of disposal.

Packer Changes High Command

Ray Floate has been named president of Michigan Fruit Canners, a division of Curtice-Burns, Inc., to succeed Robert L. Hutchinson, who has been named a corporate vice president of Curtice-Burns.

Hutchinson, 56, who lives in Fennville, will move to Rochester, N.Y., where Curtice-Burns has its headquarters. He has been president of the Benton Harbor processing firm since 1967.

In a third promotion announced by the board of directors of Curtice-Burns, James G. Wilson, 42, of Bangor, Michigan Fruit Canners' agricultural products manager, has been named vice president of the agricultural purchasing department.

From his new office in Rochester, Hutchinson will be responsible for three Curtice-Burns divisions: Michigan Fruit Canners; Brooks Foods, Collinsville, Ill.; and Nalley's Fine Foods, Tacoma, Wash.

Hutchinson began working summers at Michigan Fruit Canners in 1936. He joined the Floate, 61, of Hartford, was promoted from his position as vice president of industrial and public relations. He joined the company in 1947 as a horticulturist. He and his wife, Belva, are the parents of two children.

According to the company, Wilson played a major role in the development of Pro-Fac Cooperative, Inc. grower membership during the past three years since Michigan Fruit Canners became a part of Curtice-Burns and Pro-Fac. He joined the company in 1959 as a fieldman. Wilson and his wife, Jeannette, have two children.

The promotions were approved at the annual meeting of the Curtice-Burns board last month.

Injured Cyclist Listed 'Critical'

Kevin Dixon, 14, of 6033 Echo Ridge road, Stevensville, was reported in "critical" condition today at St. Joseph Memorial hospital with a head injury sustained in a motorbike accident Monday. Stevensville Police Chief Marty Watson reported Kevin was injured when he was thrown from the bike while riding on a dirt trail on private property north of John Beers road about 5:30 p.m. Monday. Watson said the bike apparently hit a rut in the trail. The hospital reported Kevin sustained a cerebral concussion. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Dixon.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some school districts could face financial ruin if a ballot proposal to limit state spending and taxing is passed in November, says state school superintendent John W. Porter.

Calling Michigan's education finance picture "an impossible situation," Porter said Monday the state needs quick action to overhaul its school funding methods.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

He'll Be Remembered When Blossoms Burst

Benton Harbor's Fred L. Granger Sr. spent 45 years buying, selling and packing the crops of Southwestern Michigan's orchards and fields. His highly successful career spanned an era which began when small lake steamers were transporting fruit from the local port in barrels. When he retired in 1961, airplanes were winging frozen fruits to distant places—fruits packaged by a process that Mr. Granger had encouraged and even helped to perfect.

It is an interesting facet of Mr. Granger's character that he never really grew old in his business. Near the end of his active business career, in 1955, he became the first recipient of the annual Meritorious Service to Agriculture award of the Michigan Frozen Food Packers Association. The award was given him for work he had done after his fiftieth year to aid in "the rapid progress of the frozen foods industry."

As president of Benton Harbor's Producers Service Corp., he was credited by other industry sources with having encouraged frozen foods research at Michigan State University, his alma mater, and with having pioneered practical techniques in his own plant.

His innovative approach to marketing problems included a suggestion that will be a monument to his memory long after his death last week at age 88. In 1923, in a letter to Stanley R. Banyon, editor of this newspaper, Mr. Granger proposed holding a Blossom Festival to advertise this area's orchard products.

"Across the lake (Michigan)," he wrote, "three million people in Chicago are hungering for the first sight and touch of spring. Why not invite them to come to Benton Harbor and St. Joseph to enjoy with us . . . all the wealth of nature we have to display?"

There was immediate, favorable response—but only a month remaining before the blossoms would show in May to get the festival going. That first year, the big parade was only a truckload of blossoms hauled through the streets of the Twin Cities. But by next year, it had become the long caravan of floats and bands that it still is today.

Before his death, Fred Granger was officially recognized as the founder of the Blossom Festival by Blossomtime, Inc. He was honored publicly on several occasions.

Until final illness claimed him, he was an enthusiastic participant in and supporter of the festival. He would be immensely pleased that his part will be recalled each year when his beloved blossoms burst forth in May.

something of the chore that faces a school board under the tenure laws in getting rid of a poor teacher.

A case coming up from Illinois is an apt illustration of how the law can be stretched beyond reason to protect a driver who probably never should have been licensed in the first instance.

Under Illinois law, a driver's license is suspended after the third conviction of a traffic violation within one year. Three of those suspensions within a 10-year period leads to outright revocation of the license.

The driver can exercise the right of personal appearance before the court on the traffic citations. There is also a procedure before and after a suspension or revocation to entertain hardship pleas.

Following the revocation of his license, which means at least nine convictions for traffic violations, a truck driver took the Illinois authorities into federal court claiming his constitutional rights were infringed upon because no hearing was held on the revocation itself.

The lower court accepted his argument and enjoined the authorities from pulling the license without further hearings.

The U.S. Supreme Court has accepted an appeal taken by the Illinois attorney general.

In agreeing to review the dispute, the Court is not necessarily telegraphing what its ruling may be, but consenting to examine into the record and the procedural system itself there is the hint the justices may feel there might be a difference between deactivating a highway menace and establishing criminal misconduct beyond a reasonable doubt.

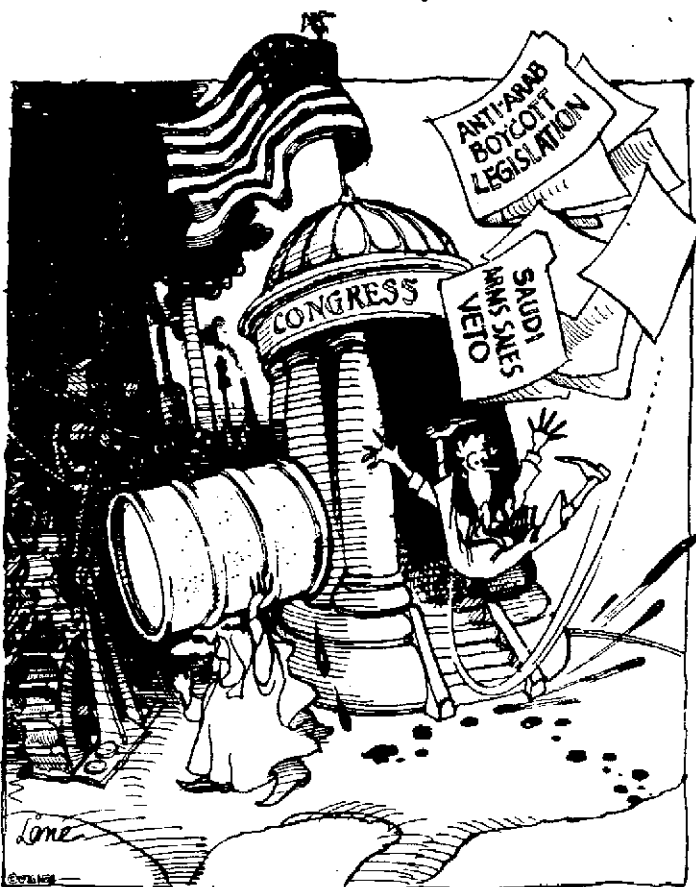

The automobile is no different than any other tool or mechanical contrivance. In the hands of a prudent person it is boon. Under the control of an unthinking individual it turns into a weapon against others on the roadways.

It is to be hoped the Supreme Court will take the opportunity to examine today's predilection to overreact in shielding the violator at the expense of his victim and all others.

SAYS SPEEDING POINT WAS MISSED

This letter is in reply to Mr. Weybright, Chairman of the Coloma police committee. He seems to have completely missed the whole point of my letter of Sept. 29th so I will restate this view once again. Coloma is not allowing enough distance between "25 AHEAD" sign and "25 SPEED" sign, to be able to slow down 20 MPH without applying your brakes. I am not disputing the 25 MPH zone, I am disputing the unfair warning distance.

On Sept. 23rd in the Watervliet Record, an article appeared, stating the new 25 MPH zone would take effect immediately and then only 4 days later on 9/27/76 at the Coloma Commission meeting (Herald-Palladium 9/28/76) it was reported that over 100 speeding tickets had been issued during the past 10 days enforcing the 25 MPH speed limit. Many, many more have been issued since that time. This large number of arrests should speak for itself. If the zone were posted properly and the notice placed in the paper before the zone was changed, this many people would not be making the same mistake.

My traffic summons was never mentioned in my letter of Sept. 29th but since Mr. Weybright chose to mention it I might say, my summons was issued at 3:45 P.M., not as school was being dismissed. High School dismisses at approximately 2:30 P.M., and why did Mr. Weybright avoid mentioning the very short warning distance at the beginning of the speed zone? Why did he fail to mention there is no "End speed zone" sign which the Highway Department informed me must be posted to make the zone legal?

The Coloma police have been observed parking right next to the 25 speed sign at Coloma High School driveway and making an arrest only 50 feet into the zone. They have also been observed making a U turn in the middle of the busy street in order to make yet another arrest. Are they exempt from the law?

If Coloma insists on using 25 MPH then lets post it properly and far enough out into the township so the motorist is given a chance to abide by your law.

The Benton Harbor city commission at its meeting yesterday afternoon laid plans for the immediate inauguration of a plan to organize a body of civilian "vigilantes" to assist the police in enforcing traffic rules in the city. According to the plan outlined, the commission will seek the cooperation of clubs in the city. Each of the three luncheon clubs, and the Women's Federated clubs, will be asked to appoint a committee of four members to act for a short period of time as a plain clothes squad to report minor traffic violations to Chief of Police Charles Johnson. The identity of the committee will be unknown even to the members of the clubs, and its personnel will be changed monthly, ac-

Business Needs Self-Regulation

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In a report soon to be published, a House of Representatives subcommittee makes allegations about financial and supervisory controls in U.S. corporations which should, if proven true, be of major concern to all of us.

Of 25 corporations examined in detail in one sample, 41 per cent "had recorded payments in accounts which did not reflect the true nature of the payment; 20 per cent maintained off-the-book accounts; and 12 per cent showed that books and records have been falsified."

The report by the subcommittee on oversight and investigations of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, says that a significant number of the corporations studied have ineffective internal financial controls. They were not adequate to prevent over-billing and over-invoicing, in which the excess is kicked back to purchasing agents or suppliers. They were insufficient to prevent laundering of money through off-the-book bank accounts. They are not even sufficient to catch and remedy repeated instances of out-and-out human mistakes. These practices and errors cropped up repeatedly in the subcommittee study.

The sad conclusion of those making this investigation was that some of our major corporations in too many cases did not have financial controls to provide reasonable assurance that corporate transactions were carried out in accordance with the desire or authorization of the top management, and most certainly no assurance that the will of the board of directors or the stockholders was being followed.

Where the illegalities were pursued by top management or carried out with their knowledge, there was no adequate system of checks by which either corporate directors, the stockholders or government-regulating bodies could have knowledge of irregularities in the normal course of events. In some cases, company directors did not even have power to bring illegal behavior under control.

The investigation was made after 150 companies disclosed illegal or questionable payments or practices — money given officials in foreign countries, political payments at home and commercial irregularities.

These are, to an important degree, well-known, respected firms in which, through pension funds, small investments of savings and worker profit-sharing plans, many Americans have an interest.

The subcommittee sees a need for greater independence by company directors from the management of the firm they are overseeing, and the need for having directors who will devote more time to their role of overseeing.

Committee members who have studied the matter feel corporate boards of directors must also have staffs which are free of company officer influence and control.

The subcommittee deplors the wide variation in accounting methods, the lack of stringent accounting standards, and a looseness in auditing methods as practiced — which combine to create a situation in which irregularities are difficult to uncover. They note that in too many cases independent auditors are not independent, having such close ties to the companies they audit, their objectivity is suspect.

The issue, of course, is not simply morality, but the protection of the interests of those whose pensions and savings are invested in a company, and the interests of the consumer, who pays through the nose when irregularities result in higher prices.

Businessmen complain — an rightly — of excessive government interference and regulation. It behooves business, therefore, to make certain that through its trade organizations it builds a system of self-policing which removes the need for so much government snooping. Otherwise our free enterprise system, in which so many of us have faith, will come on hard times.

Butz Violated Manners Code

To the proverbial man from Mars, it would no doubt seem preposterous that Earl Butz would be obliged to resign as Secretary of Agriculture because a bit of private barroom vulgarity found its way into the unhallowed pages of the magazine Rolling Stone.

Many people of discernment consider Butz to have been the most effective Secretary of Agriculture within recent memory; and, certainly by every known index, U.S. farmers have prospered mightily during his tenure.

Between 1960 and 1969, the Kennedy-Johnson years, while Orville Freeman had Butz's job, per capita farm income averaged 65 per cent of non-farm income. From 1971 through 1975, Butz years, it averaged 96 per cent of non-farm income, and in 1975 the figure actually rose to 107 per cent. During the eight years of Democratic administrations, total farm income averaged around $12 billion per year. From 1971 through 1975, it averaged nearly $27 billion.

Between 1970 and the present, farm exports have more than tripled, from $6.7 billion in 1970 to an estimated $22 billion this year. Total acreage devoted to crops has increased from 291 million acres in 1968 to an estimated 355 million in 1976.

For those concerned with long-range trends, the demographic figures are also encouraging. The mass exodus from agriculture appears to be ending, with the average annual decline in the farm population now standing at 1.2 per cent — a mere trickle after a 20-year loss of some 30 million people. Enrollment in agricultural schools is actually on the rise.

Though it would be preposterous to claim that Butz himself is personally responsible for these remarkable statistics, nevertheless such growth and unprecedented prosperity did occur under agricultural policies fostered by Butz and followed by successive Republican administrations. At least at first glance, therefore, it seems preposterous that Butz would have to resign because of a gross private remark.

Certainly Butz's columny against blacks — "coloreds," he called — was outrageous if taken seriously — except when writing rather pompous editorials about the incident.

The Butz episode does, however, point to something interesting and perhaps profound about American manners. The official and editorial reaction to Butz partook of an unendurable pomposity, but Butz had indeed really violated a highly important convention of American manners. That convention lays down an iron distinction between what is permitted in private (on ethnic matters) and what is permitted in public.

I suppose the enormous public restraint imposed is necessary. America is after all made up of a great variety of ethnic groups, differing in important ways, and in reality clashing with one another on different matters both stylistic and substantive. Without the public convention of almost infinite ethnic politeness, these conflicts would undoubtedly become more severe, perhaps to the point of national turmoil.

It is no accident, surely, that as we have become more sensitive in recent years to ethnic feelings and ethnic distinctiveness, that our public manners have become more deferential and polite, the ethnic joke has flourished in private as never before, as if by some law of compensation. What is repressed officially and in public nevertheless flourishes in private like the green bay tree. This might even be a healthy thing, a compensation for the official decorum.

Unintentionally, therefore, Butz had violated an important convention.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

He'll Be Remembered When Blossoms Burst

Benton Harbor's Fred L. Granger Sr. spent 45 years buying, selling and packing the crops of Southwestern Michigan's orchards and fields. His highly successful career spanned an era which began when small lake steamers were transporting fruit from the local port in barrels. When he retired in 1961, airplanes were winging frozen fruits to distant places—fruits packaged by a process that Mr. Granger had encouraged and even helped to perfect.

It is an interesting facet of Mr. Granger's character that he never really grew old in his business. Near the end of his active business career, in 1955, he became the first recipient of the annual Meritorious Service to Agriculture award of the Michigan Frozen Food Packers Association. The award was given him for work he had done after his fiftieth year to aid in "the rapid progress of the frozen foods industry."

As president of Benton Harbor's Producers Service Corp., he was credited by other industry sources with having encouraged frozen foods research at Michigan State University, his alma mater, and with having pioneered practical techniques in his own plant.

His innovative approach to marketing problems included a suggestion that will be a monument to his memory long after his death last week at age 88. In 1923, in a letter to Stanley R. Banyon, editor of this newspaper, Mr. Granger proposed holding a Blossom Festival to advertise this area's orchard products.

"Across the lake (Michigan)," he wrote, "three million people in Chicago are hungering for the first sight and touch of spring. Why not invite them to come to Benton Harbor and St. Joseph to enjoy with us . . . all the wealth of nature we have to display?"

There was immediate, favorable response—but only a month remaining before the blossoms would show in May to get the festival going. That first year, the big parade was only a truckload of blossoms hauled through the streets of the Twin Cities. But by next year, it had become the long caravan of floats and bands that it still is today.

Before his death, Fred Granger was officially recognized as the founder of the Blossom Festival by Blossomtime, Inc. He was honored publicly on several occasions.

Until final illness claimed him, he was an enthusiastic participant in and supporter of the festival. He would be immensely pleased that his part will be recalled each year when his beloved blossoms burst forth in May.

Overly Protective Of The Bad Driver

Because the 20th century person looks upon the automobile in the light of a cowboy regarding his pony, Americans hold an amazing ambivalence on the mechanical contraption.

Nowhere does this double standard in judgments twist upon itself more than when it gets around to the driver's license.

Though there is universal agreement a person should demonstrate some ability to handle an automobile before being turned loose on the streets and highways, no such demand is required to operate a tractor or a motorboat even though the potential between the three types of transportation for causing accidents is equal.

Once acquired, the license assumes the reverence in which scholars in constitutional law hold the Magna Carta, the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution.

Delisting the poor driver becomes

MELVIN FARMER JR.

Manager Blames Occupants' Errors In Fatal BH Fire

Benton Harbor City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said last night the deaths of two girls in a fire in Benton Harbor Friday resulted from "a series of mistakes by the occupants" and not the city's closing of the south-side fire station.

Farmer told city commissioners the police, fire and housing inspection departments are working on a joint report which will be turned over to the county prosecutor's office to determine if charges of criminal negligence will be filed.

Cynthia and Sabrina

Halliburton, 14 and 7 respectively, were pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy hospital following the early Friday morning blaze at their home at 553 Columbus avenue. Four others in the house, including the girls' mother, Mrs. Delores Halliburton, escaped the fire.

Referring to a report by Fire Chief Harold Gaddie, Farmer said there was a "series of mistakes made on the part of the occupants resulting in an estimated 15 to 20 minute delay in reporting the fire — trying to carry the burning material outside, thereby spreading the fire to other parts of the house instead of calling the fire department when the fire was first discovered and alerting the children upstairs at a point when they could have safely made their escape."

At the time of the fire, Benton Harbor Fireman Tom Fogarty said he believed the two sisters who died might still be alive if the city's southside fire station was still in operation.

The station, located at the corner of Columbus and Empire avenues — just two blocks from the scene of the fire, was closed by the city in April as a cost-saving measure and is now occupied by Rampart Ambulance service.

Fogarty, who said he was speaking as a "representative" and president of Local 685 of the International Association of Fire Fighters, said at the time "if the station were open we could have cut two to two and a half minutes off our response time and with everything working right like it did we might have gotten in and brought the girls out before the fire spread."

"That was an unfortunate statement made on the spot," Farmer told reporters last night. "Our investigation shows that not to be the case."

Farmer said the city conducts an investigation after every fire in the city and said the investigation of the Columbus fire showed "the two to three extra minutes (from the southside station) would have made very little difference. The fire station could have been across the street and I don't think it would have made a difference in this case."

Also at the commission meeting last night, Farmer announced the public works department will be picking up residents' raked-up leaves on the same day as their regular trash pick-up. Residents should sweep the leaves out to the curb on the day before their garbage is to be picked up, he said.

The commission approved a mutual aid agreement which provides cooperation between municipalities in supplying fire protection. The agreement is an update of a similar one adopted in 1958 that says neighboring fire departments will help each other during times of need. So far, the City of St. Joseph and four other municipalities in the county have signed the agreement.

Commissioners Edmund Eaman and Arnold Bolin, who were absent last night, are attending a conference as members of the Benton Harbor-Benton township housing commission.

Trick-Treat Hours Set In St. Joe

Hours for trick-or-treaters in St. Joseph will be from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 31, Halloween night, St. Joseph Mayor Franklin Smith announced at last night's commission meeting.

belonging to the DDA are the law firm of Hartwig, Crow, Jones & Postelli with offices at 206 - 208 Court street, and the St. Joseph Masonic Temple association. The association owns a building at 420 Main street. Both buildings are in the development district.

No one was present at last night's meeting from the law firm, but 10 members of the Masonic lodge were present and their case was presented to the commission. The law firm sent a letter last week stating its opposition.

Speaking for the Masonic lodge were Dr. Burton Weisberg, past master of the lodge and past president of the temple board association, and Jeff Keefe, present chairman of the St. Joseph Masonic Temple association.

They presented a number of arguments on why the building at 420 Main should not be in the development district. Among them were that the lodge is a total fraternal organization, existing on dues from members. The said rent received from leasing the first floor floor of the building is used to pay taxes.

It was reported at the meeting that the lodge pays property taxes of more than $4,000 a year and the state equalized valuation (SEV) of the building is approximately $75,000. Weisberg and Keefe did not report how much rent is received.

Speaking for the St. Joseph Business association, which petitioned the commission to establish the DDA, was Steven A. Reed, president of Telgroup, a St. Joseph-based marketing and public relations consulting firm.

Prior to the commission vote, Reed said if the DDA was not established as the boundaries are presently set it would be "a giant step backward for St. Joseph."

He argued that (1) the DDA will enhance property values and all those in the authority will benefit not just merchants and retailing, (2) unity is needed for the downtown to succeed and (3) fragmentation could destroy the necessary unity.

Reed said there is another fraternal organization (St. Joseph Elks) involved in the DDA, but they have not protested being a part of the authority.

The DDA, which will go into effect 10 days after last night's required second voted approval, has the power to levy up to two mills on real estate within the boundary of the district. It was reported at the meeting that the Masons would pay $150 a year if the maximum two mills were levied.

A letter from B.A. Phillips of Phillips Engineering Co., 721 Pleasant street, opposing being a part of the DDA was also read. However, Phillips was present at the meeting and said he did not object to being a part of the DDA as long as he was not a part of the proposed office district which is separate from the DDA. City Atty. Arthur G. Preston said Phillips' business could not be a part of both.

In other business, the city commission approved entering into a purchase agreement with Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Taylor, 2618 Lake View avenue, St. Joseph, to buy a two-unit apartment house at 319-321 Court street for $18,000.

City Manager Gerald Heppler said the purchase will bring the total to nine parcels of land owned by the city in the proposed office development district.

Heppler also announced the city will soon begin to make a changeover of pedestrian and traffic safety signs. Heppler said the sign changes will be done by city employees and the city will be reimbursed $32,250 in federal money. The changes are safety measures to get bigger and better signs.

The commission also approved interest subsidy grants to Patricia Peet, 900 Napier avenue, for $1,254 and to Avis Anderson, 723 Jones street, for $961, both for home improvements under the city's community development program.

SJ Reading Study Holds A Surprise For Officials

The St. Joseph school district does not have compulsory reading classes for its junior high school students, a fact that surprised several members of the board of education and Superintendent Burton Aldrich last night.

This information was presented to the board at its regular meeting in the form of a first draft report from a reading goals study being made in the district by Mrs. Linda Vingelen and several other reading teachers. The board was told that most other school districts continue teaching compulsory reading classes through eighth grade.

Mrs. Vingelen said that the 600 seventh and eighth graders at Upton junior high are taught "English," not reading. The English course includes literature, grammar, word usage and punctuation, she said. She teaches at Washington school and is a reading consultant.

The last compulsory reading course given is for sixth graders. Developmental reading is offered as an elective to 10-12th graders.

Mrs. Vingelen, chairman of the reading committee, suggested that a compulsory reading program be implemented for seventh graders in their first semester. Also, she said some type of reading course should be available for eighth and ninth graders.

The study also recommended that a K-12 reading coordinator be hired to insure "continuity" in the district, Mrs. Vingelen stated. Tony Belski, principal of Lincoln elementary school, said a reading coordinator might have already corrected the lack of seventh and eighth grade reading programs.

Superintendent Burton Aldrich thanked the committee for a full report and said he had not been aware that junior high students didn't have a reading program.

Ray Dumke, board president, said the report was "very well done." He added that the committee's suggestions will be considered by the board.

Curriculum Coordinator Daly Macgrayne said the reading committee is one of 10 now working on the district's curriculum. Other committees will report at later meetings, he added.

Mrs. Vingelen and several other reading teachers have been working for 18 months writing a list of reading goals for use throughout the district. A second draft of their report will be presented in a year and will include comments from teachers who are using the guide already this year, Mrs. Vingelen stated.

The board was told last night by Lincoln Principal Belski that chances of getting funds through the new federal Public Works Act for demolition of the Milton junior high building are "minimal". Belski is in charge of seeking grants for the district.

MELVIN FARMER JR.

Manager Blames Occupants' Errors In Fatal BH Fire

Benton Harbor City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. said last night the deaths of two girls in a fire in Benton Harbor Friday resulted from "a series of mistakes by the occupants" and not the city's closing of the south-side fire station.

Farmer told city commissioners the police, fire and housing inspection departments are working on a joint report which will be turned over to the county prosecutor's office to determine if charges of criminal negligence will be filed.

Cynthia and Sabrina

Halliburton, 14 and 7 respectively, were pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy hospital following the early Friday morning blaze at their home at 753 Columbus avenue. Four others in the house, including the girls' mother, Mrs. Delores Halliburton, escaped the fire.

Referring to a report by Fire Chief Harold Gaddie, Farmer said there was a "series of mistakes made on the part of the occupants resulting in an estimated 15 to 20 minute delay in reporting the fire — trying to carry the burning material outside, thereby spreading the fire to other parts of the house instead of calling the fire department when the fire was first discovered and alerting the children upstairs at a point when they could have safely made their escape."

At the time of the fire, Benton Harbor Fireman Tom Fogarty said he believed the two sisters who died might still be alive if the city's southside fire station was still in operation.

The station, located at the corner of Columbus and Empire avenues — just two blocks from the scene of the fire, was closed by the city in April as a cost-saving measure and is now occupied by Rampart Ambulance service.

Fogarty, who said he was speaking as a "representative" and president of Local 685 of the International Association of Fire Fighters, said at the time "if the station were open we could have cut two to two and a half minutes off our response time and with everything working right like it did we might have gotten in and brought the girls out before the fire spread."

"That was an unfortunate statement made on the spot," Farmer told reporters last night. "Our investigation shows that not to be the case."

Farmer said the city conducts an investigation after every fire in the city and said the investigation of the Columbus fire showed "the two to three extra minutes (from the southside station) would have made very little difference. The fire station could have been across the street and I don't think it would have made a difference in this case."

Also at the commission meeting last night, Farmer announced the public works department will be picking up residents' raked-up leaves on the same day as their regular trash pick-up. Residents should sweep the leaves out to the curb on the day before their garbage is to be picked up, he said.

The commission approved a mutual aid agreement which provides cooperation between municipalities in supplying fire protection. The agreement is an update of a similar one adopted in 1958 that says neighboring fire departments will help each other during times of need. So far, the City of St. Joseph and four other municipalities in the county have signed the agreement.

Commissioners Edmund Eaman and Arnold Bolin, who were absent last night, are attending a conference as members of the Benton Harbor-Benton township housing commission.

BH Bans 'Trick-Or-Treat'; Children's Parties Planned

The Benton Harbor city commission last night banned Halloween trick-or-treating in the city and set up a program to throw a number of Halloween parties for youngsters throughout the city Oct. 30. The commission voted unanimously to ban door-to-door visits and then directed Larry Nielsen, director of the Benton Harbor recreation program, to come up with a plan to sponsor several parties for the city's estimated 3,000 children in kindergarten through sixth grade. Nielsen said he is currently seeking adult volunteers to help supervise the children. He said he hopes to have Halloween parties on Saturday night, Oct. 30, at 10 different locations in the city.

Hepler said the purchase was made with money from the city's trust fund. He said the money has been accumulated over a number of years from various city transactions, such as property sales. The office district is to be centered at Pleasant and Court streets.

Hepler also announced the city will soon begin to make a changeover of pedestrian and traffic safety signs. Hepler said the sign changes will be done by city employees and the city will be reimbursed $32,250 in federal money. The changes are safety measures to get bigger and better signs.

Explanations Help Children To Cope

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — "If I were that little boy, I'd cry too," said Dr. Abraham Lurie of a scene he observed recently at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center. Dr. Lurie is head of social work services at that hospital.

A grandmother, mother and small child were sitting in the clinic waiting room when the mother was called for her appointment. She turned to her four-year-old and said, "Now be good." With that she disappeared into one of the inner examining rooms. Not a word of explanation to the child about where she was going or when she would be back.

The little one started to wail and his grandmother commanded "Keep quiet. Stop being a big baby."

"Here," says Dr. Lurie, "is a little boy surrounded by people he's never seen before, in a place he's never seen before, in a place he's never been before. His mother leaves. His grandmother is antagonistic. Nobody offers any explanation of his mother's absence. Is it any wonder the child is crying?"

"The best of us make mistakes. Perhaps the simplest advice I can give is: try to bring some objectivity to each stressful situation. Watch yourself and see just what you are doing," says Dr. Lurie, who offers these guidelines on disciplining children:

—It is important to give children full explanations and, what's more, to be sure to offer these explanations.

Guidelines For Discipline

—Do not delay discipline. If you wait, the child may not relate the punishment to his own misbehavior.

—And above all, listen to the message. When your child has a tantrum or uses other provocative behavior, he may be trying to tell you something — that he is perhaps frightened, worried, feeling threatened. Give him the emotional support he needs.

This does not mean that you should reverse a no to a yes. It does mean that you should allow him to work off his bad temper by himself and then let him know that you understand how he feels. Try a lollipop, a hug or some other small show of affection. If you don't show this empathy, he may have a longer, louder tantrum the next time in an effort to reach you.

Two To Attend State Meeting

Two members of Southwestern Chapter, Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary of Michigan, will be among approximately 200 women who will convene at St. John's Lutheran church, Midland, for the auxiliary's 15th annual convention.

Mrs. Elmer Bickel of Glendora and Miss Doris Frobel of St. Joseph will attend the convention, theme of which is "Love Isn't Love, 'til You Give it Away."

Featured speaker for the afternoon will be Robert J. Greene, Ph.D., administrator of the Midland Mental Health Center and associate professor of psychology at Central Michigan university.

Mrs. Sheldon Hepinstall of Midland is registration chairman.

As in previous years, the state auxiliary will present a Christian Merit Award to an individual who has given outstanding service to help others. A tour of the Dow Chemical gardens is planned after the meeting.

The Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary of Michigan which now totals 22 chapters was organized to create and maintain interest in the Lutheran Children's Friend Society, as well as to give material and financial aid. Two of the auxiliary's money making projects, the 1976 Christmas cards and Favorite Foods I and II cookbooks, will be on display and for sale at the convention.

Southwestern Chapter's activities have included an annual autumn opening style show and an office supply shower for the Grand Rapids offices of the society, which the local chapter supports. Gifts for children under the care of the Grand Rapids office were also presented during the past year.

Mrs. Dwight Hays of Stevensville is president of Southwestern Chapter.

ATTENTION!

Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

Sell ARC Yule Cards

Holiday greeting cards, sponsored by the National Association for Retarded Citizens, are being sold by the Berrien County Association for Retarded Children, according to Mrs. John (Sue) Burda of St. Joseph, president.

Persons wishing to buy cards may contact Mrs. Burda or the Maple Grove Center, 332 East Napier, Benton Harbor.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to develop and expand national programs such as prevention, research, employment, legislation, recreation and public information.

Berrien County Association receives part of the profit from the sale for use in this area.

Explanations Help Children To Cope

NEW HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — "If I were that little boy, I'd cry too," said Dr. Abraham Lurie of a scene he observed recently at Long Island Jewish-Hillside Medical Center. Dr. Lurie is head of social work services at that hospital.

A grandmother, mother and small child were sitting in the clinic waiting room when the mother was called for her appointment. She turned to her four-year-old and said, "Now be good." With that she disappeared into one of the inner examining rooms. Not a word of explanation to the child about where she was going or when she would be back.

The little one started to wail and his grandmother commanded "Keep quiet. Stop being a big baby."

"Here," says Dr. Lurie, "is a little boy surrounded by people he's never seen before, in a place he's never seen before, in a place he's never been before. His mother leaves. His grandmother is antagonistic. Nobody offers any explanation of his mother's absence. Is it any wonder the child is crying?"

"The best of us make mistakes. Perhaps the simplest advice I can give is: try to bring some objectivity to each stressful situation. Watch yourself and see just what you are doing," says Dr. Lurie, who offers these guidelines on disciplining children:

—It is important to give children full explanations and, what's more, to be sure to offer these explanations.

Guidelines For Discipline

tions in a way they can understand and at the time they are required.

—Use discipline by all means, but not punitively. Use it to teach.

—Set boundaries and be consistent but try to avoid being either too rigid or too permissive. In establishing limits, take into account your child's personality and emotional makeup.

—The hope is that over the years these boundaries become his social antennae, evoking immediate response to right and wrong. These firmly entrenched values will give him a later sense of security and freedom both in conducting his own life and in interacting with others.

—Objectional behavior often comes from the child's demand for instant gratification — "I want the candy, NOW." "I want to go out and play NOW." He will learn by your example that one must sometimes delay immediate gratification for later rewards. Be patient. This takes time.

—Do not delay discipline. If you wait, the child may not relate the punishment to his own misbehavior.

—And above all, listen to the message. When your child has a tantrum or uses other provocative behavior, he may be trying to tell you something — that he is perhaps frightened, worried, feeling threatened. Give him the emotional support he needs.

This does not mean that you should reverse a no to a yes. It does mean that you should allow him to work off his bad temper by himself and then let him know that you understand how he feels. Try a lollipop, a hug or some other small show of affection. If you don't show this empathy, he may have a longer, louder tantrum the next time in an effort to reach you.

Two To Attend State Meeting

Two members of Southwestern Chapter, Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary of Michigan, will be among approximately 200 women who will convene at St. John's Lutheran church, Midland, for the auxiliary's 15th annual convention.

Mrs. Elmer Bickel of Gledora and Miss Doris Frobel of St. Joseph will attend the convention, theme of which is "Love isn't Love, 'til You Give it Away."

Featured speaker for the afternoon will be Robert J. Greene, Ph.D., administrator of the Midland Mental Health Center and associate professor of psychology at Central Michigan university.

Mrs. Sheldon Hepinstall of Midland is registration chairman.

As in previous years, the state auxiliary will present a Christian Merit Award to an individual who has given outstanding service to help others. A tour of the Dow Chemical gardens is planned after the meeting.

The Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary of Michigan which now totals 22 chapters was organized to create and maintain interest in the Lutheran Children's Friend Society, as well as to give material and financial aid. Two of the auxiliary's money making projects, the 1976 Christmas cards and Favorite Foods I and II cookbooks, will be on display and for sale at the convention.

Southwestern Chapter's activities have included an annual autumn opening style show and an office supply shower for the Grand Rapids offices of the society, which the local chapter supports. Gifts for children under the care of the Grand Rapids office were also presented during the past year.

Mrs. Dwight Hays of Stevensville is president of Southwestern Chapter.

Bicentennial Beverage

Two hundred years ago much of the apple production went into cider and brandy.

Cider was bartered for other goods and services and often the wealth of a community was measured by the number of barrels of cider produced in a year.

As early as 1726 a village near Boston reported the production of 10,000 barrels of apple cider.

Consumers' savvy in the knowledge of food and nutrition is rediscovering these popular bicentennial beverages. Apple juice and cider contain natural fruit sugar and apple flavor is compatible with most other foods. Enterprising fast food chains now offer apple beverages and the eat and run diners have responded enthusiastically.

Decorating Trends

BY ORLANDO IANNELLI

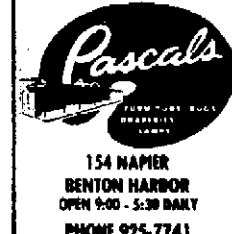

TABLES are among the items in decorating which give a room that "finished" look, the decorator look of beauty and unity.

One of the more interesting developments in tables in the past few years has been the gain in popularity of the "little table," used in pairs or groups to replace the large coffee table.

There are advantages to both the big and the little table-and disadvantages. Big tables are wonderfully convenient and effective in a large area. But they also tend to accumulate clutter (such as magazines, papers, books, etc.). They are also difficult to move about for new furniture arrangements.

Small tables provide useful surfaces for coffee, cigarettes and ash trays, trifling accessories. Yet they aren't large enough to gather in the usual clutter. They're more handy to move and rearrange, separated or put together to create a "big table" effect.

Available space and the rest of your room plan will probably dictate your choice of small or large tables. And to help your choice, take advantage of our free home decorating service and our handsome selection of tables in a variety of sizes and styles, with the look of fine craftsmanship, at Pascals.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Take Care When Moon Is Full

Dear Ann Landers: In a recent column someone asked if you believed that the positions of the stars (at the time of birth) or the phases of the moon had any effect on people's lives. You were noncommittal in regard to the stars but said the phases of the moon must certainly affect behavioral patterns and cited the word "lunatic."

I am a serious student of the relationship between cosmic influence and man's behavior. Recently I came across a fascinating study made in Florida from 1956 through 1970. The researchers also studied crime statistics in Cuyahoga County, Ohio, from 1958 through 1970.

Nearly 35,000 criminal offenses were examined and the findings prove you were correct.

Under a full moon there was a disproportionate number of robberies, rapes, assaults, burglaries, offenses against relatives, auto thefts and arrests for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Does this suggest something to you? — A Regular Reader

Dear Reg. Yes. People should take extra safety precautions when the moon is full. They should also be aware of their own tendencies to be a little "loony."

Give Him Chance

Dear Ann Landers: I have an urgent problem that I cannot recall ever seeing in your column. Please help me at once.

I was engaged to marry a man I thought the world of. I was certain he respected me completely. Now I'm not so sure. We aren't children. I'm a widow with four children. G has been divorced for five years and has a married daughter.

He knew I didn't approve of extramarital sex unless there was devotion, admiration and a commitment to marry. We went together for over a year before we became intimate.

I knew G was a man of the world and had known many women. But after we met he had no more affairs and spent all his free time with me and the children.

Last week G suggested that I invite one of my women friends (it didn't matter which one) to come to bed with us. My chin dropped to the floor. He said I shouldn't be upset because every man has a secret desire to do this.

I broke the engagement then and there and told him I never wanted to see him again.

He has been begging me to take him back. He swears he will never suggest such a thing again. I love him but I'm afraid he is not normal.

Are ALL men like this? Should I take him back? I really do love him and he is a fine person in so many ways. Please, Ann, give me some answers. I

Dear Un: All men are NOT like that, but this doesn't mean he isn't normal. Let's just say he went a little haywire.

You've made your position abundantly clear. Now be careful that you don't throw the baby out with the bath water. I believe Mr. G is sufficiently chastened and that he will behave himself from now on. Give him another chance.

CONFIDENTIAL to What's Happening in Our Country? Your guess is as good as mine. In 1975, the death rate was down — so was the birth rate and the number of marriages as compared with the previous year. The divorce rate was up, however. The number of legal splits has doubled in the U.S. since 1964. What does it mean? The scene is changing. It's a whole new world out there.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

The game was match-point duplicate and South felt that he needed a top score. Hence, his two-diamond response to the spade opening. When North raised to three diamonds, South bid three notrump.

If West had led anything but a diamond, South would rattle off 12 tricks for his top or at least a tie for top with any other who played three notrump and made six.

However, West decided that maybe South was trying something. He opened his fourth-best diamond. Dummy's 10 forced East's king and East returned his jack of spades.

South played his ace and West dropped the queen.

Now it was South's turn to do something and the results were disastrous. He decided that East had led the jack of spades from jack-10-duce. He entered dummy with a club and took a finesse against that 10 spot that East was supposed to hold.

West produced that card and led a second diamond, whereupon South, who was really mad at himself by then, hopped up with dummy's queen to wind up going down one at his notrump contract.

Ask the Jacobys

A Missouri reader wants to know if you pass as dealer and then bid two spades in response to your partner's one-diamond opening, your bid is a game force, a one-round force or just a strong bid?

We apply the bid as a game force based on a hand that is just below an opening bid in strength and has been improved by our partner's call. Something like:

Our son, who is at college, has had attacks of epilepsy since childhood. With medication, the epilepsy has been controlled. Yet he lives in terror that there will be a recurrence and that his classmates at college will abandon him. He insists on keeping his history secret. — Mr. and Mrs. J.R.D., Tenn.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. D.: Thousands of people who are victims of epilepsy have made complete adjustments in their social lives.

With modern drugs, epileptic seizures can almost always be controlled. Nevertheless, there is a marked overlay of anxiety that an attack may again occur even with adequate treatment.

It is unfortunate that your son has not yet been able to recognize that there is no shame or stigma in having epilepsy. It is no greater reflection on him than an attack of pneumonia or a leg fracture.

It is only with maturity, attained with psychological support, that these people can reveal to friends and colleagues that epilepsy does exist.

Once this is revealed to those close to your son, he will find sympathetic understanding without overindulgence and no loss of personal dignity. People with epilepsy are courageous and deserve the admiration they get for their accomplishments despite their handicap. Your son can, with psychological guidance, be liberated from the bonds of secrecy.

I have been exposed to mumps. I hear that in an adult of my age (25) this can be dangerous. How can I protect myself at this time? — Mr. A.R., Mich.

Dear Mr. R.: The urgency of your letter made it necessary for me to write directly to you. I feel that other readers, too, should know that mumps in a male adult can be complicated by inflammation of the testicles (orchitis).

After a definite exposure, the early use of a special type of hyper-immune gamma globulin is needed to prevent mumps and its complications.

Carter Denies Rumors; Ford Woos Ethnic Vote

By DAVE RILEY
Associated Press Writer

Estonians, Latvians, Poles and Ukrainians are among the American ethnic groups being represented at a White House meeting with President Ford, who is hoping he can "put the Eastern European matter behind him."

Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter, at home today in Plains, Ga., denied rumors about his love life amid charges that they were spread by the Ford campaign. And Ford campaign spokesmen denied spreading the rumors.

Ford scheduled meetings today with representatives of groups representing Americans of Polish, Hungarian, Lithuanian, Latvian, Estonian, Czech, Slovak, Serbian and Ukrainian descent.

Ford will attempt to make up for his remark during last week's debate with Carter when the President asserted, "There is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe."

That remark brought immediate outcries from leaders of various groups representing Americans of Eastern European descent. The next day, Ford began backing off the comment and later said he did not concede Soviet domination of Eastern European countries.

At a Columbus Day ceremony Monday in Washington, Ford again tried to smooth over the debate remark by saying: "People of the Old World still look to the New World as the champion of freedom, the champion of human rights. America has been their hope and their help and we will never let them down."

Carter, in Eau Claire, Wis., Monday, said rumors allegedly being spread by Ford campaign workers about his having had an extramarital affair are "seamy" lies.

"It's just one of those kind of seamy things that is distasteful, but it hasn't hurt us because there is no truth to any of these allegations," Carter said.

A spokesman for Ford's campaign committee denied any role in spreading the rumors about Carter, but columnist Jack Anderson, who first reported the story, said the rumors were fed to him by four staff members of the President Ford Committee.

Anderson, who refused to name the four Ford sources, said he had found no truth to the rumors.

Anderson said on ABC's "Good Morning America" show that "Ford's campaign aides have been searching Jimmy Carter's past for a sex scandal." He said the Ford campaign sources supplied him with the name of a woman they suggested had once had an affair with Carter and that they later offered him the names of four other women.

William Greener, a spokesman for the Ford committee, replied: "Speaking for the top people of the committee, I absolutely deny that they had anything to do with the story, nor would they. If anyone around here were found doing such a thing, he would be fired on the spot."

But Anderson said later that three of the sources in the Ford headquarters work for Greener. Informed of that, Greener said, "If someone can step up and tell me who they are, I will fire them on the spot." Anderson has declined to name his sources.

Greener said he checked with members of his staff who normally deal with the press "and they said they hadn't done it." He said a Ford volunteer in Georgia had sent the committee "a memo containing rumors" about Carter "and when it got here, it was thrown away."

Greener said he hadn't seen the memo but that campaign director James Baker had issued orders that "I don't want him (the volunteer) around any more."

Anderson said the rumor also was spread to other reporters and that some of them told him it had come from Republican sources.

October Is Fine Month For Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Octobers of United States presidential election years are becoming more and more provident months for the armed forces of Israel.

The Israelis won American approval for the acquisition of a new missile guidance system Monday. The guidance system will enable their missiles to find enemy tanks at night, a capability the Israelis have sought since the 1973 Yom Kippur War.

They got it, as they have other American weapons, on the eve of a presidential election. In October 1968, President Lyndon B. Johnson agreed to sell Phantom jets to Israel. In October 1972, President Richard M. Nixon announced a substantial increase in the number of Phantoms available.

Tradesmen's Vote Still Clouds Ford Settlement

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Chances for a quick end to the 28-day-old Ford Motor Co. strike remained clouded by the prospect of a possible skilled trades rejection as United Auto Workers officials began tallying vote totals from locals around the country today.

Union leaders have given the 25,000 tradesmen veto power over the new three-year accord even if a majority of the 145,000 UAW Ford production workers ratify the agreement.

"There's no question it'll be a close vote," one union official conceded after early returns showed tradesmen accepting the proposed pact by the slimmest of margins. But another UAW spokesman said, "It's not down the tube yet."

Most locals refused to disclose their votes, citing the official union position that totals would be withheld until all votes are counted, late tonight or early Wednesday.

"There's a blackout, totally," said Carl Mumma, president of Denver's Local 921.

However, some locals volunteered their tallies. And those results — representing only 10 of the 99 skilled trades units — showed a narrow margin of 2,657 votes for ratification against 2,622 for rejection.

That vote included tradesmen at the largest local in the country, Local 900 at the Rouge complex near the No. 2 automaker's world headquarters in suburban Dearborn. They rejected the accord, 2,209-1,703.

The local represents more than a quarter of the UAW tradesmen at 102 U.S. Ford plants. Union officials said production workers were voting about 2-1 in favor of ratification.

Highlights of the new agreement include seven additional paid days off by 1979, a 3 per cent annual wage hike plus another 20 cents in the first year, and improved fringe benefits. It also provides a special supplemental wage premium of between 25 and 35½ cents an hour over three years for the trades, which include electricians, repairmen, millwrights and tool and die makers.

Under the new package, hourly wages for the average assembly line worker would rise from the current $6.57 to $7.36 by 1979, while the average toolmaker's wage would go up from $8.15 to $8.34.

Many tradesmen have complained the wage increase is not sufficient. They also have griped about not getting adequate representation within the union, and bargainers' failure to protect them from losing their jobs to outside contractors.

The walkout, which began at midnight Sept. 14, has caused Ford to lose some $25,000 units — with a factory value of $1.8 billion — from production. In the last round of talks, in 1973, skilled tradesmen rejected the settlement, forcing bargainers to renegotiate provisions concerning a newly acquired right to refuse overtime work. The union then declared the pact ratified without submitting it to a second vote.

That sparked threats from tradesmen to split with the UAW and set up their own union. The leadership placated them by promising them a clear veto in the 1976 contract.

The UAW historically has been strained by antagonism toward its unskilled production workers from the better-educated, independent-minded tradesmen, who are outnumbered in the union, 7-1.

This year, the tradesmen's top demands included improved UAW representation and a restoration of the historic wage differential between them and production workers, which they say has narrowed.

Collapsing Mine Shafts Plague Wyoming Town

By ROBERT L. SCHRIER
Associated Press Writer
ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP) — People have willingly burrowed into the earth for years in this coal-mining community, but now residents of one subdivision fear they may be swallowed up involuntarily.

Streets are collapsing, walls are cracking and parents fear for their children's safety as the earth settles into abandoned coal mines.

The subsidence is not new to the 23,000 people here. But it recently began to plague a subdivision made up mostly of mobile homes mounted on concrete foundations.

"Our little boy just missed going under when the street started to crack," Sandy Kaumo said Monday after a 20-foot-wide hole appeared in a street near the family's trailer. "He stepped back just when it started up."

Some homeowners are afraid to let their children play outside or wander farther than their front yards.

"We have to spend most of our time inside," said Bonnie Fantin. "You're afraid to send them to school. You have to walk them across the street for fear the street is going to cave in."

Parts of the two main streets leading out of the subdivision have already given way, she said.

Some residents say they can feel the earth shift as they lie in bed at night.

"It's kind of spooky," said Mrs. Kaumo. "It's so slight. The house creaks and doors swing. You can see the lines where the ground is splitting and opening wider every day."

Five times in a week, she said, the buckling earth cracked water mains, leaving the area without water.

The subdivision is inside the city limits. But Mayor Paul Wataha said Rock Springs doesn't accept maintenance responsibility for the streets and water lines there and is under no legal obligation to help. Wataha said the problems belong to developer Howard Routh.

Routh blamed the subsidence on a U.S. Bureau of Mines project which pumped tons of water and sand into the old shafts. That was intended to stop the sinking, but Routh says he may sue to stop the back-filling.

Agency officials could not be reached for comment.

"Everybody keeps pushing the blame off on everybody else," Mrs. Fantin said. She estimated that $6,000 in damage has been done to her family's property, and she said eight homeowners in the area are consulting with an attorney about possible legal action.

"The land just keeps moving," she said. "It's a scary, horrible feeling."

Pooh Rich; Master Is Unhappy

LONDON (AP) — Winnie-the-Pooh will be 50 years old on Thursday, in good shape and rolling in money.

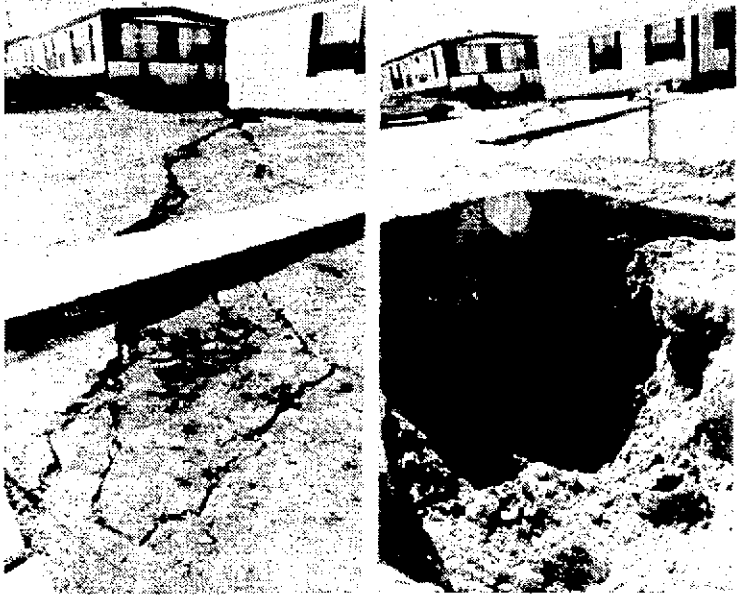

But Christopher Robin says he's not happy with the way things turned out for his teddy bear.

The famous bear made his literary debut on Oct. 14, 1926, when British author A.A. Milne's book "Winnie-the-Pooh" was first published.

With illustrations by Ernest Shepard, it told of the imaginary adventures of Milne's 5-year-old son, Christopher Robin, and his toys at Cotchford Farm, Milne's home in a Surrey wood about 30 miles southwest of London.

"Now We are Six," a collection of poems, followed in 1927, and "House at Pooh Corner" appeared in 1928.

Christopher Robin's other toys — Piglet, Tigger, Kanga and Eeyore the donkey — kept their innocence while the books were becoming childhood classics. But Winnie-the-Pooh, the teddy bear, crossed the Atlantic, met Walt Disney and has been earning money ever since.

Jane Pauley Debuts Like A Pro

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — She doesn't look like Barbara

JANE PAULEY
An intelligent sort

Walters, doesn't talk like Barbara Walters, doesn't earn as much as Barbara Walters and, for some reason, didn't mention Barbara Walters on D-Day.

Her name is Jane Pauley, 25. She's an attractive ex-Chicago newscaster with a four-year background in news. She began Monday as the new First Lady at NBC's "Today," succeeding Barbara Walters.

Miss Walters, lest we forget, is at ABC, having camped there in June after 16 NBC years to get $1 million a year, co-anchor the evening news with Harry Reasoner and do specials.

Miss Pauley, who'll be earning but $100,000 or so annually on "Today," came across in her debut as an intelligent sort who, despite her few years in TV, takes to the camera like a moth to flame.

Whether she suffers the moth's usual fate depends on how she handles the pressure of appearing on the nation's most-watched dawn show each day in that hamlet of hype called New York.

On opening day, marked by smiles and jovial noises from host Tom Brokaw, 36, she handled herself competently, both in ad-libbing and interviews with Democratic vice-presidential candidate Walter

F. Mondale and novelist James T. Farrell.

She didn't appear nervous and generally gave the impression of being a young old pro, just as assured an interviewer as her predecessor.

No whoopie for her brief self-introduction, a vaguely worded hello that seemed an attempt to avoid making viewers think NBC had gone off its nut and hired a raw rookie for a very big job.

She didn't specify she'd only been in broadcast news since

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A group of black legislators has charged that continued public appearances by former Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz constitute a "direct affront" to blacks.

Pair To Split Again; Cite IRS 'Incompatibility'

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. H. David Boyter are preparing for their second divorce, to be followed by their third marriage.

Boyter, 36, and his wife, Angela, 31, say they get along all right — it's just that they are incompatible with the Internal Revenue Service.

The Boyters say their divorces are a way to protest the "absurdity of the tax laws" which require married couples to pay higher federal income taxes than single persons in the same tax bracket who live together.

The Boyters, married for the first time in April 1966, had their first divorce in Haiti last Dec. 9. They remarried on Jan. 9, at the Howard County Courthouse here.

This year, they plan a mid-November vacation in the Dominican Republic, with a stop at the capital of Santo Domingo for a $350 quickie divorce. They will wait until after the first of the year to remarry.

A New York City couple will also be in Santo Domingo to get their second tax-protest divorce.

"We take the trip for a vacation," Mrs. Boyter said Monday. "People spend over $1,000 just to do what we are going to do — swim and get a sun tan on the beaches."

"Only, we are also getting a divorce and expect to pay at least that much less income tax as single adults."

Both Boyters work for the U.S. Department of Defense and earn about $23,000 each annually.

"They (the IRS) have not bothered us, even though we filed as single adults, paying $1,300 less than a married couple would," Boyter said.

He said the IRS ruled earlier this year "not recognizing divorces like ours."

"But, until that ruling is upheld in court, we have no plans to stop getting annual divorces until the tax law is made equitable."

Collapsing Mine Shafts Plague Wyoming Town

By ROBERT L. SCHEIER
Associated Press Writer
ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP) — People have willingly burrowed into the earth for years in this coal-mining community, but now residents of one subdivision fear they may be swallowed up involuntarily.

Streets are collapsing, walls are cracking and parents fear for their children's safety as the earth settles into abandoned coal mines.

The subsidence is not new to the 23,000 people here. But it recently began to plague a subdivision made up mostly of mobile homes mounted on concrete foundations.

Pooh Rich; Master Is Unhappy

LONDON (AP) — Winnie-the-Pooh will be 50 years old on Thursday, in good shape and rolling in money.

But Christopher Robin says he's not happy with the way things turned out for his teddy bear.

The famous bear made his literary debut on Oct. 14, 1926, when British author A.A. Milne's book "Winnie-the-Pooh" was first published.

With illustrations by Ernest Shepard, it told of the imaginary adventures of Milne's 5-year-old son, Christopher Robin, and his toys at Cotchford Farm, Milne's home in a Surrey wood about 30 miles southwest of London.

"Now We are Six," a collection of poems, followed in 1927, and "House at Pooh Corner" appeared in 1928.

Christopher Robin's other toys — Piglet, Tigger, Kanga and Eeyore the donkey — kept their innocence while the books were becoming childhood classics. But Winnie-the-Pooh, the teddy bear, crossed the Atlantic, met Walt Disney and has been coining money ever since.

JANE PAULEY
An intelligent sort

Walters, doesn't talk like Barbara Walters, doesn't earn as much as Barbara Walters and, for some reason, didn't mention Barbara Walters on D-Day.

Her name is Jane Pauley, 25. She's an attractive ex-Chicago newscaster with a four-year background in news. She began Monday as the new First Lady at NBC's "Today," succeeding Barbara Walters.

Miss Walters, lest we forget, is at ABC, having camped there in June after 16 NBC years to get $1 million a year, co-anchor the evening news with Harry Reasoner and do specials.

Miss Pauley, who'll be earning but $100,000 or so annually on "Today," came across in her debut as an intelligent sort who, despite her few years in TV, takes to the camera like a moth to flame.

Whether she suffers the moth's usual fate depends on how she handles the pressure of appearing on the nation's most-watched dawn show each day in that hamlet of hype called New York.

On opening day, marked by smiles and jovial noises from host Tom Brokaw, 36, she handled herself competently, both in ad-libbing and interviews with Democratic vice-presidential candidate Walter

Pair To Split Again; Cite IRS 'Incompatibility'

ELLCOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. H. David Boyter are preparing for their second divorce, to be followed by their third marriage.

Boyter, 36, and his wife, Angela, 31, say they get along all right — it's just that they are incompatible with the Internal Revenue Service.

The Boyters say their divorces are a way to protest the "absurdity of the tax laws" which require married couples to pay higher federal income taxes than single persons in the same tax bracket who live together.

The Boyters, married for the first time in April 1966, had their first divorce in Haiti last Dec. 9. They remarried on Jan. 9, at the Howard County Courthouse here.

This year, they plan a mid-November vacation in the Dominican Republic, with a

Rail Crash Victims Include 5 Yanks

By ISAAC A. LEVI
Associated Press Writer
CHIHUAHUA, Mexico (AP) — Five Americans, all of them believed to be from New York City, were among the 17 persons killed and 83 injured in the collision of a two-car sightseeing train and a freight train in the mountains of northwest Mexico, officials report.

'Tall Sign'
DETROIT (AP) — What's being billed as the "world's tallest sign" is being used to gauge collection progress in Detroit's United Fund Torch Drive.
The "sign" is actually 24 stories of lit windows in the city's new Renaissance Center riverfront complex.
Blue lights in office windows in the Center's yet-unoccupied northwest tower have been turned on in the pattern of a gigantic "U-F".
As the fund drive progresses toward its $36,100,000 goal, the blue lights will be replaced by red ones to produce a thermometer effect, organizers said.

Eight Contestants Vie For Big Prize

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Eight Michigan residents will vie in Thursday's Lottery drawing for a top $200,000 prize.
The drawing, the last in a six-week series of on-the-road spectacles, will be at the Lansing Mall. Winning numbers for the new 50-cent weekly "Michigan" also will be drawn and announced. Audience members who have losing Michigan tickets dated Oct. 14 will be able to exchange their losers for possible winners dated Oct. 21.
Those competing for prizes from $10,000 to $200,000 in the Super Play drawing are: Bernard De Meyer, 46, of St. Clair Shores; Willard Des Rosiers, 35, of Dearborn Heights; Judy Hand, 34, of Alpena; Howard Hansard, 49, of Southgate; Warren Luoma, 59, of Ishpeming; Steven Matijega, 45, of Flint; Judy Resko, 63, of Swartz Creek, and Edgar Strang, 53, of Livonia.

Policewoman Is Back In School

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — On her first day back on the job, controversial Flint policewoman Madeline Fletcher has been ordered back to officers training school.
Fletcher, a black, returned to work Monday for the first time since her suspension resulting from a shootout with a white, male officer last December, and her subsequent trial.
Police Chief Max Durbin said he was ordering Miss Fletcher back to school so she could "brush up" on procedure changes made during her 10-month absence from the force.
A jury found Miss Fletcher innocent of assault charges in the shooting of officer Walter Kalberer. During the trial her attorney blamed the incident on racism and sexism within the Flint department.
Durbin said he will wait until Miss Fletcher finishes her retraining before giving her a permanent assignment, probably in the patrol division where she served before the shooting incident.
Last week, Durbin overturned the recommendation of a police board of inquiry that the policewoman be dismissed. Durbin said he reduced that penalty to a 90-day suspension, which ended Monday.
Durbin said the retraining order had nothing to do with the fact that Miss Fletcher was 3½ hours late for a scheduled meeting with him Monday. He said she had misunderstood the appointment time.
In the shootout, the 20-year-old Miss Fletcher traded shots with her white male partner when an argument developed over who would drive their patrol car.
In the flurry of shots, she was wounded in the chest, and Kalberer, 34, was shot in the thigh. Both were hospitalized for brief periods.

Hunt's On For Slayer At Saginaw

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Saginaw County authorities have launched an around the clock investigation into the murder of a woman and her two young children.
The three bodies were found Monday in a wooded area of Thomas Township by children playing in the area west of Saginaw, police said.
Police said the woman was 25 years old and the children were 6 and 3 years of age. Saginaw County Prosecutor E. Brady Denton declined to release the victim's names pending notification of relatives.
All three had apparently been slashed with a sharp object, according to police. Authorities did not release a specific cause of death.
The three victims had last been seen Saturday near the area where their bodies were found. All three had been dead at least 24 hours, Denton said.
A Saginaw County sheriff's department detective said officers were pledging to work "24 hours a day" if necessary to find the killer. One resident of the area reported people were arming themselves and locking their doors following the discovery of the bodies.

Lebanon Peace Is Threatened

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Syrian threat to punish the Palestinians for attacks on Syrian property in foreign countries dimmed hopes today for a new truce agreement announced in the Lebanese civil war.
Arab League mediator Hassan Sabri Kholi said the accord was reached in secret deliberations Monday between Syrian, Lebanese and Palestinian representatives in the Syrian-occupied town of Chitoura.

passengers — most of them Mexican travel agents — were aboard the two self-powered, glass-domed railcars. They were en route to the Tarahumara Indian reservation and the Pacific coast via the scenic route from Chihuahua across the mountains.
The passenger train crashed into a 30-car freight on a hairpin curve in the Sierra Madre mountains near the village of Pito Real, about 200 miles west of Chihuahua and about 200 miles south of the Arizona border.
"There is no doubt about it," said Hector Flores, a spokesman for the federal railroad administration. "The conductor and the engineer on the passenger cars disobeyed both signals and standing orders to stop at Pito Real and wait for a freight train to come through before proceeding along the single track."
"This is definitely what caused the accident."
The first of the two coaches crashed into a 50-foot-deep canyon beside the track, turning over three times as it went down. Most of the casualties were in it. Many of the occupants were trapped in the car all night because leaking diesel fuel made the use of cutting torches to free them dangerous.
The other passenger car was knocked 600 feet backward into a tunnel.
Thirty-one of the injured were still in Chihuahua hospitals Monday night. About half of them were in serious condition, the district attorney's office said.

Mel Tillis Is Country Entertainer Of The Year

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Moments before the nationally televised 10th annual Country Music Association awards show, Mel Tillis was still trying to find his wife and his assigned seat.

It's a good thing he finally found them, because 90 minutes later he was chosen entertainer of the year — the CMA's top award.

But the most honors Monday night went to entertainers Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson, who shared three awards — single of the year for "Good Hearted Woman," vocal duo of the year, and album of the year for "Wanted — The Outlaws" along with Jessi Colter and Tompall Glaser.

Jennings was not present for the awards show at the Grand Ole Opry House because of "personal and private reasons."

The versatile Tillis — a singer, songwriter, comedian and television personality — was chosen over Jennings, Nelson, Dolly Parton and Ronnie Milsap for the most coveted award.

"I was completely surprised," said Tillis, known to country music fans as the entertainer who stutters except when he sings.

"I had no idea I had a chance with Waylon and Willie being so popular and Ronnie Milsap and Dolly being in there," the 43-year-old Tillis said.

Moments before the show began, announcer Ralph Emery noticed that Tillis couldn't find his seat.

"Would Mel Tillis' wife please stand so he can find his seat?" he asked over the loudspeakers. After much laughter, Tillis sheepishly sat down.

Milsap, blind since birth and a country singer for only three years, and Miss Parton were voted top vocalists, Miss Parton for the second straight year.

Nelson, generally considered the favorite for the top award, said he was "a little disappointed" that Jennings passed up the show.

"It was his decision and I respect it," said Nelson, a former door-to-door Bible and vacuum cleaner salesman.

"I kind of thought we might win something, but not this much," he said.

Kitty Wells, "the queen of country music," and the late recording executive Paul Cohen were voted into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Other winners were:

"Rhinstone Cowboy," written by Larry Weiss and recorded by Glen Campbell, song of the year; the Statler Brothers, vocal group of the year; Roy Clark and Buck Trent, instrumental group of the year; and blind pianist Burgus "Pig" Robbins, instrumentalist of the year.

This marked the third straight year Jennings was involved in a controversy.

Last year, he said he attended the show only because his wife, Miss Colter, was a finalist for top female vocalist and he wanted to be present if she won.

In 1974 he refused to perform on the show because officials cut his time on stage.

Last week, Jennings tried unsuccessfully to withdraw from the competition. CMA officials said it was too late because voting had been completed.

Milsap was selected over Jennings, Nelson, Conway Twitty and Don Williams for top male vocalist. Miss Parton's competition was Crystal Gayle, Emmylou Harris, Barbara Mandrell and Tammy Wynette.

THE WINNERS: Winners in last night's 10th annual Country Music Association awards show in Nashville, Tenn., were (clockwise, from top left) Mel Tillis, the "entertainer of the year"; Willie Nelson, who shared three awards with another entertainer; Ronnie Milsap, (shown with his wife) male vocalist of the year; and Dolly Parton, female vocalist of the year. Keep Drinking Age 18, Says State School Chief

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State school superintendent John W. Porter says the legal drinking should not be raised from 18, although student drinking is a "problem we have to deal with."

Porter said Monday he had not seen the "tremendous amount of evidence" he would need before concluding the current law needs a change. He said he would recommend to the State Board of Education that it not endorse a raising drinking age.

"It's pretty difficult for me to support the age of majority and then start to put bookers on the age of majority," Porter told reporters at a luncheon. "Either you're at the age of majority or you're not."

Meanwhile, a poll by the Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems concluded that legislators and would-be legislators now favor raising the drinking age.

The council, made up of church groups advocating moderate alcohol use, said its poll of candidates for House seats this November showed 71 per cent want the drinking age raised and only 17 per cent want it to remain at 18.

A similar survey by the alcohol council in 1972 found that 65 per cent supported a drinking-at-18 law, the council said.

The State Board of Education will review the question next Tuesday, and could decide to endorse raising the drinking age. Bills are pending in legislative committees to raise the drinking age to 19, 20 and 21.

Michigan lowered its "age of majority" in 1972 to allow 18-year-olds to vote and drink, as well as giving them other adult rights.

Though high school principals in general have supported raising the drinking age, Porter said he has not seen any "substantial" evidence from principals that 18-year-olds drinking have caused them more problems.

Principals have said the lowered drinking age has increased violence, vandalism and rowdiness in high schools.

School District Employees Form Unique Single Union

HEMLOCK, Mich. (AP) — The more than 100 employees of the Hemlock school district in Saginaw County have formed a single union in a move which union officials say is unique in Michigan.

Bus drivers, teachers aides, custodians, secretaries, food service personnel and maintenance workers have voted to join the Hemlock Federation of Teachers AFL-CIO. "It is the first time to our knowledge any union has organized all the workers of various classes into one union," according to Malcolm Wright, executive vice president of the HFT.

"I see it solving a lot of problems with school employees not being in competition with each other."

School superintendent Larry Gariglio said the workers "asked to bargain." Union officials said bargaining would begin next week.

Mel Tillis Is Country Entertainer Of The Year

By JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Moments before the nationally televised 10th annual Country Music Association awards show, Mel Tillis was still trying to find his wife and his assigned seat.

It's a good thing he finally found them, because 90 minutes later he was chosen entertainer of the year — the CMA's top award.

But the most honors Monday night went to entertainers Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson, who shared three awards — single of the year for "Good Hearted Woman," vocal duo of the year, and album of the year for "Wanted — The Outlaws" along with Jessi Colter and Tompall Glaser.

Jennings was not present for the awards show at the Grand Ole Opry House because of "personal and private reasons."

The versatile Tillis — a singer, songwriter, comedian and television personality — was chosen over Jennings, Nelson, Dolly Parton and Ronnie Milsap for the most coveted award.

"I was completely surprised," said Tillis, known to country music fans as the entertainer who stutters except when he sings.

"I had no idea I had a chance with Waylon and Willie being so popular and Ronnie Milsap and Dolly being in there," the 43-year-old Tillis said.

Moments before the show began, announcer Ralph Emery noticed that Tillis couldn't find his seat.

"Would Mel Tillis' wife please stand so he can find his seat?" he asked over the loudspeakers. After much laughter, Tillis sheepishly sat down.

Milsap, blind since birth and a country singer for only three years, and Miss Parton were voted top vocalists, Miss Parton for the second straight year.

Nelson, generally considered the favorite for the top award, said he was "a little disappointed" that Jennings passed up the show.

"It was his decision and I respect it," said Nelson, a former door-to-door Bible and vacuum cleaner salesman.

"I kind of thought we might win something, but not this much," he said.

Kitty Wells, "the queen of country music," and the late recording executive Paul Cohen were voted into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Other winners were: "Rhinestone Cowboy," written by Larry Weiss and recorded by Glen Campbell, song of the year; the Statler Brothers, vocal group of the year; Roy Clark and Buck Trent, instrumental group of the year, and blind pianist Hargus "Pig" Robbins, instrumentalist of the year.

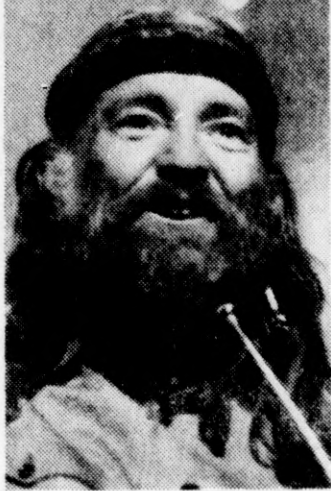

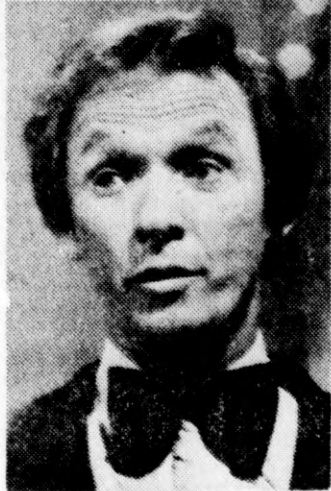

This marked the third straight year Jennings was involved in a controversy.

Last year, he said he attended the show only because his wife, Miss Colter, was a finalist for top female vocalist and he wanted to be present if she won.

In 1974 he refused to perform on the show because officials cut his time on stage.

Last week, Jennings tried unsuccessfully to withdraw from the competition. CMA officials said it was too late because voting had been completed.

Milsap was selected over Jennings, Nelson, Conway Twitty and Don Williams for top male vocalist. Miss Parton's competition was Crystal Gayle, Emmylou Harris, Barbara Mandrell and Tammy Wynette.

THE WINNERS: Winners in last night's 10th annual Country Music Association awards show in Nashville, Tenn., were (clockwise, from top left) Mel Tillis, the "entertainer of the year"; Willie Nelson, who shared three awards with another entertainer; Ronnie Milsap, (shown with his wife) male vocalist of the year; and Dolly Parton, female vocalist of the year. Keep Drinking Age 18, Says State School Chief

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State school superintendent John W. Porter says the legal drinking should not be raised from 18, although student drinking is a "problem we have to deal with."

Porter said Monday he had not seen the "tremendous amount of evidence" he would need before concluding the current law needs a change. He said he would recommend to the State Board of Education that it not endorse a raising drinking age.

"It's pretty difficult for me to support the age of majority and then start to put hooks on the age of majority," Porter told reporters at a luncheon. "Either you're at the age of majority or you're not."

Meanwhile, a poll by the Michigan Council on Alcohol Problems concluded that legislators and would-be legislators now favor raising the drinking age.

The council, made up of church groups advocating moderate alcohol use, said its poll of candidates for House seats this November showed 71 per cent want the drinking age raised and only 17 per cent want it to remain at 18.

A similar survey by the alcohol council in 1972 found that 65 per cent supported a drinking-at-18 law, the council said.

The State Board of Education will review the question next Tuesday, and could decide to endorse raising the drinking age. Bills are pending in legislative committees to raise the drinking age to 19, 20 and 21.

Michigan lowered its "age of majority" in 1972 to allow 18-year-olds to vote and drink, as well as giving them other adult rights.

Though high school principals in general have supported raising the drinking age, Porter said he has not seen any "substantial" evidence from principals that 18-year-olds drinking have caused them more problems.

Principals have said the lowered drinking age has increased violence, vandalism and rowdiness in high schools.

School District Employees Form Unique Single Union

HEMLOCK, Mich. (AP) — The more than 100 employees of the Hemlock school district in Saginaw County have formed a single union in a move which union officials say is unique in Michigan.

Bus drivers, teachers aides, custodians, secretaries, food service personnel and maintenance workers have voted to join the Hemlock Federation of Teachers AFL-CIO. "It is the first time to our knowledge any union has organized all the workers of various classes into one union," according to Malcolm Wright, executive vice president of the HFT. "I see it solving a lot of problems with school employees not being in competition with each other."

School superintendent Larry Gariglio said the workers "asked to bargain." Union officials said bargaining would begin next week.

Royalton 1976 Tax Rate To Be Slightly Higher

Royalton township Supervisor Harley Marschke told the township board last night that overall property tax rates in the township will be slightly higher in 1976.

The rate includes schools, county and township levies. He said township residents in the St. Joseph school district will pay taxes in 1976 based on a levy of 45.94 mills, compared to 44.97 mills last year.

Lakeshore school district residents will pay taxes based on a levy of 39.6 mills, compared to 38.572 mills last year.

Berrien Springs school district residents will pay taxes this year based on a levy of 38.676 mills, compared to 37.5 mills last year.

The increased millages were attributed to slightly higher levies this year in the three school districts.

In other areas, the board voted to purchase trees and shrubs for Spring Run cemetery from Nye's Blossomland Nursery, Stevensville, at a cost bid at $1,045.

That bid was $7 lower than the other bid of $1,052 submitted by Professional Landscape Maintenance & Supply Co., Stevensville.

The board accepted resignations from the planning commission, from Michael Callender, 1040 East John Beers road, and from Richard Prince, 4411 Chaparral drive. Both were due to business commitments.

Robert Brackenridge, 6130 Eidsen road, was appointed to replace Callender. Prince's resignation becomes effective Dec. 31.

Talks To Begin

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers will open new contract negotiations with Dana Corp. in Indianapolis on Wednesday, the union announced. The Toledo-based firm has 10,000 workers in six states and manufactures a variety of auto, truck and heavy duty parts in both the original equipment and replacement fields.

Enrollment Dip To Cost Fennville $45,000 In Aid

FENNVILLE — The Fennville school district is going to get about $45,000 less in state aid than the school board had expected because of a drop in school enrollment.

But Supt. James Tackmann told the Fennville school board last night that administrators had forecasted most of the loss before preparing the 1976-77 school budget.

Tackmann said the school on the fourth Friday count had 1,873 students, down 50 from last year's 1,923.

In other areas, Tackmann said the board scheduled a special Oct. 25 meeting to discuss the school's migrant education program.

"We just want to take a look at the program and perhaps limit the wide area from which we now draw migrant students," Tackmann said.

The board ordered the program review after the recent resignation of Harold Turner, the migrant program's director since 1969.

Tackmann said the year round (autumn) program usually has about 300 migrant students being taught language and math skills on a federally funded budget of about $250,000.

The summer program usually has about 600 students and a budget of nearly $350,000, he added.

The board also voted its opposition to Proposal C on the state's general election ballot this November.

Proposal C would limit all state taxes and spending to 8.3 per cent of the combined personal income in the state.

Tackmann said the board is opposed to the proposal because a drop in personal income would bring decreases in state funds for schools.

BH Crash Hurts Teen Motorcyclist

A Benton Heights motorcyclist was hospitalized Monday as the result of a collision with a car about 2 p.m. at the intersection of Riverview drive and Wall street, Benton Harbor police said.

Reported in "fair" condition today at Mercy hospital was Terence Lee Yerington, 19, of 707 Tower drive. Driver of the car was identified as Robert Kyle Luth, 51, of 7200 Red Arrow highway, Stevensville, who was unhurt and ticketed for failure to yield the right of way way, police said.

Berrien sheriff's deputies reported a rear-end collision involving a semi-truck and another truck occurred about 8 a.m. on Pipestone road at Nickerson avenue, Sodus township.

Deputies said the semi-truck driver was Denver Eugene Rash, 41, of 1315 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, who was unhurt. A passenger in his truck, Gordon Lee Ricketts, 18, of 1158 Britain avenue, Benton township, reportedly sought his own treatment for apparently minor injuries.

Driver of the other truck, James Charles Mahoney, 37, of 711 Ansley drive, St. Joseph township, was released after treatment at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor.

Deputies said Rash was ticketed for driving with a revoked drivers' license and for failure to stop in an assured, clear distance.

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan school board last night accepted a bid of $5,431, from Kennedy Motors, Inc., Buchanan, for a 12-passenger van truck.

Meeting in a special session to consider bids on either a van or eight-passenger station wagon, the board said it decided on the van because it could haul more passengers.

The Kennedy bid was the lowest of three submitted on the van. The board also reviewed seven bids submitted for station wagons.

The board said the van will be used to transport small groups of school system employees or students.

Cass School Budget Approved

CASSOPOLIS — The Lewis Cass intermediate school district board last night approved tentative budgets for the general operating fund and for the special education program for 1976-77.

The combined budgets envision expenditures of over $101,000 more than projected revenue, but will be kept in the black by fund equities from the past fiscal year.

The general fund budget calls for spending of $168,538. The special education budget comes to $207,170.

These amounts are higher by $38,936 and $62,670 respectively than expected revenue for the year.

However, a balance of $95,198 in the general fund and $190,851 in the special education fund will cover the differences, the school board said. It will still leave anticipated asset balances in both funds as of the close of the fiscal year next June 30.

In another area, the board authorized Supt. Arthur Towe to take two related actions involving the Brookside school on Dailey road in LaGrange township.

The school is the property of the Cassopolis school district which would like to sell it.

Towe was given permission to submit an application for 100 per cent federal funding under the recently passed public works act to renovate Brookside into a career-vocational education center for the handicapped along with additional construction on the site.

If accomplished, the action would permit the centralizing of several intermediate functions now scattered in various locations.

Since the district must own or have a long-term lease on property to be improved with federal money, Towe was also authorized to execute a lease-purchase agreement with the Cassopolis board. The agreement would become null and void should the funding application not be approved.

Discussion prior to the vote centered on whether the intermediate district could operate the Brookside facility within the framework of its normal budget.

Towe said that the consolidation with consequent reduction of certain present rental and other costs would allow the operation without asking voters for additional money.

Decatur School Tab $1.5 Million

DECATUR — The Decatur school board last night adopted a final budget for the 1976-77 school year calling for total expenditures of $1,511,753. The budget exceeds last year's by $75,733.

School officials have attributed the increases to salary adjustments and increased utility costs.

The budget calls for total revenue of $1,526,132. Of that, $495,845 would be raised from local property taxes and $1,007,737 in state aid is expected. Smaller amounts of revenue are expected from a variety of sources.

Some major expenditures included in the budget are $334,330 for elementary teacher salaries; $387,319 for high school teachers; $36,725 for special education teachers; $85,600 for administrators; $26,400 for heating costs; $13,800 for electricity; $48,300 for employee health insurance; $77,000 for custodian salaries; $54,750 for retirement payments; $59,900 for capital outlay, including purchasing two new school buses; and $40,610 for bus driver salaries.

The property tax levy for the district was set at 25.18 mills last July.

In other areas, Harry Vliek, board president, reported that a study he made showed that a Kalamazoo food equipment supplier could outfit the district to serve hot lunches at a total cost of $112,000. Of that amount, $52,000 would have to be paid from money raised locally, he said. The remainder would be paid from federal grants.

The proposal to provide hot lunches has been under study for over a year, but no action has been taken yet.

Acting on a recommendation from board member George Kusmack, the board agreed to apply to St. Paul Affiliates for liability insurance to cover board members, teachers, drivers, teacher aides and custodians. The estimated annual cost is $890. Kusmack is a member of the board's insurance committee.

At present the district does not have this type of insurance, board members said.

Louis Dudeck, superintendent of bus transportation, reported that 915 students ride the bus each day and there is no overcrowding. The district has 13 buses.

The board voted to add $250 to the salary of Jerry Sisson, assistant principal at the junior-senior high school. Sisson is to be paid the extra money for work he does as athletic director.

His salary had been set at $16,400 in August.

Board member Richard Mackellar said he will have an expert check the 3rd and 4th grade building to see if repairs are needed.

He said he had visited the building recently and noticed cracked plaster in several places and noticed it may need ventilation repairs.

Decatur Changes Heart, OKs Trick-Or-Treating

DECATUR — The Decatur village council has had a change of heart about banning door-to-door trick-or-treating in the village here this Halloween.

At a special meeting last night, the council voted to rescind an Oct. 4 motion that prohibited the parade of costumed children from house-to-house.

Apparently bowing to parental opposition to the ban, the council set trick-or-treating for Saturday, Oct. 30, from 6 to 8 p.m.

But the council also set some restrictions and asked for the cooperation of village residents in making Halloween safe.

Homeowners wishing to participate should turn on their porch lights and children are not to call on homes unless the porch lights are on. The children are also prohibited from asking for candy and gifts at the stores, according to council restrictions.

Local residents are also being asked to limit their driving in the community until the trick-or-treat period is over at 8.

Council trustees added that apple cider and doughnuts will be served at the fire hall from 7 to 9 p.m. and that the fire siren will be sounded to signal the beginning of the Halloween celebration and again to mark the end of festivities.

Holiday Means Galien Village Meets Tonight

GALIEN — The Galien village council did not meet last night because of the Columbus Day holiday. The council is scheduled to meet tonight, instead.

Gobles Okays School Party

GOBLES — The Gobles school board last night voted to give the elementary mothers' club permission to hold a Halloween party in the elementary school Sunday, Oct. 31, from 6 to 7:30 p.m.

The party will be for all students in grades 1-6.

In other areas, Totmie Saylor, principal of the junior high and high school, told board members that parent participation at last week's parent-teacher conferences had dropped markedly from last year.

He said each student will be given a progress report to take home to his parents.

It was announced that the school district's fourth Friday enrollment was 1,125 this year, a total of six more than last year's 1,119.

Board members voted to allow ninth graders to receive one-fourth of a credit for working part-time in the library or cafeteria. Until now, only students in grades 10-12 were eligible for the extra credit.

BRIDGMAN — The Mid-Michigan Telephone Corp. is sending new telephone directories, featuring the painting "William Penn's Treaty With The Indians" to its customers in the Western Michigan area, according to Ronald Christensen, district manager here.

Mid-Michigan's business office, 310 Red Arrow Highway, Bridgman, also is offering 18 by 24-inch reprints of directory cover art, which will be distributed without charge to those Mid-Michigan customers, who come in and request them.

Customers of other telephone systems who request prints will be charged $2. The office is also handling requests by mail. The cover will be featured on a million directories being published by Mid-Continent Telephone system, Mid-Michigan's parent firm, during the 1976-77 Bicentennial year.

Cass School Budget Approved

CASSOPOLIS — The Lewis Cass intermediate school district board last night approved tentative budgets for the general operating fund and for the special education program for 1976-77.

The combined budgets envision expenditures of over $101,000 more than projected revenue, but will be kept in the black by fund equities from the past fiscal year.

The general fund budget calls for spending of $168,538. The special education budget comes to $697,170.

These amounts are higher by $38,938 and $62,670 respectively than expected revenue for the year.

However, a balance of $95,196 in the general fund and $190,851 in the special education fund will cover the differences, the school board said. It will still leave anticipated asset balances in both funds as of the close of the fiscal year next June 30.

In another area, the board authorized Supt. Arthur Towe to take two related actions involving the Brookside school on Dailey road in LaGrange township.

The school is the property of the Cassopolis school district which would like to sell it.

Towe was given permission to submit an application for 100 per cent federal funding under the recently passed public works act to renovate Brookside into a career-vocational education center for the handicapped along with additional construction on the site.

If accomplished, the action would permit the centralizing of several intermediate functions now scattered in various locations.

Since the district must own or have a long-term lease on property to be improved with federal money, Towe was also authorized to execute a lease-purchase agreement with the Cassopolis board. The agreement would become null and void should the funding application not be approved.

Discussion prior to the vote centered on whether the intermediate district could operate the Brookside facility within the framework of its normal budget.

Towe said that the consolidation with consequent reduction of certain present rental and other costs would allow the operation without asking voters for additional money.

DECATUR — The Decatur school board last night adopted a final budget for the 1976-77 school year calling for total expenditures of $1,511,753. The budget exceeds last year's by $75,793.

School officials have attributed the increases to salary adjustments and increased utility costs.

The budget calls for total revenue of $1,526,132. Of that, $495,845 would be raised from local property taxes and $1,007,757 in state aid is expected. Smaller amounts of revenue are expected from a variety of sources.

Some major expenditures included in the budget are $354,330 for elementary teacher salaries; $367,319 for high school teachers; $36,725 for special education teachers; $95,600 for administrators; $26,400 for heating costs; $13,800 for electricity; $48,300 for employee health insurance; $77,000 for custodian salaries; $54,750 for retirement payments; $59,900 for capital outlay, including purchasing two new school buses; and $40,610 for bus driver salaries.

The property tax levy for the district was set at 25.18 mills last July.

capital outlay fund to apply towards the deficit (meaning less in building upkeep this coming year) and took another $27,000 from reserves to offset the remaining deficit.

While board member Ronald Bodtke voted against budget approval, voting for it were board members Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Raymond Melvin, Fred Rawson, James Muenzer and Roger Templeman.

Board member Gerry Duolittle was absent.

The Benton Harbor Citizens Advisory board will hold a public meeting Thursday to discuss city problems and hear proposed solutions, according to Walter Thomas, a board member. The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in the neighborhood center, 809 Territorial road. Thomas said a questionnaire has been distributed asking residents what they think of city government, school system, Dial-A-Ride, and should retail or commercial development be pushed. Thomas said the questionnaire has been distributed in the Fourth Ward so far, and plans call for a city-wide poll. Questionnaires will be distributed at Thursday's meeting. The Citizens Advisory board advises the city commission on programs funded by federal community development grants.

Bangor Limiting Parking

BANGOR — The Bangor city council voted last night to place no parking signs along Hamilton street and Black River road to try to avert traffic problems reportedly being caused by a large number of fishermen who park there.

Council action came after it was informed that as many as 65 cars have been parked along the two roads in the area where they intersect. The fishermen park along the roads to get to the Black River there.

In other areas, Mayor James McLarty read a letter from the state highway department rejecting an appeal for a stop and go signal at the intersection of Monroe and Center streets. The highway department instead suggested that the council either prohibit parking on each approach or build a two lane approach to the intersection. The council said it will study the matter.

The council rejected bids from two car dealerships on a council-sought lease on a full sized car for the public works department. The council decided to solicit bids on a compact economy car in order to hold down costs.

The council discussed the purchase of a new tractor and mower but made no decision on accepting bids ranging from a high of $9,571 to a low of $8,165.

The council also announced it is seeking bids for a new police car and a hand held radio unit.

A special council meeting was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday to decide whether to rezone property at 121 Center street from residential to business. A bookkeeping and tax service business would like to locate at the property, the council was told.

Hoosiers Held On Gun Counts

NEW BUFFALO — Two Michigan City, Ind., residents were arrested yesterday on charges of carrying a concealed weapon after an auto they were in was stopped near here.

Arrested on the charges were the driver of the auto, Hanne Burke, 31, and a passenger in her car, Randy Hoover, 18, according to state police at New Buffalo. Police said the auto was stopped on US-12 in New Buffalo township at 2:40 a.m. for allegedly having a license plate light that was not working. A loaded .22 revolver was confiscated, police said.

ENROLLMENT UP CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Enrollment at the nation's two-year colleges continued to climb in 1975-76.

Bloomington Cuts School Budget

BLOOMINGTON — The Bloomington school board last night approved a reduced budget of $1,950,661 for the 1976-77 school year by a 5 to 1 vote.

The new budget, nearly identical to the 1975-76 budget, includes program cuts and austerity measures made necessary by a carryover deficit from the 1975-76 school year and a reduction in state aid this year produced by a 93-student drop in enrollment.

Enrollment this year is 1,414, compared to 1,507 last year.

Last week, the board presented a proposed budget of $2,027,000 and said that figure would bring an $89,000 deficit ($56,000 less in state aid and the $33,000 1975-76 carryover deficit).

In steps to offset the projected deficit, the board:

- Trimmed $35,910 in programs last week, including cuts in the summer band program, ninth and tenth grade sponsors, three and possibly four teaching positions, the head teacher position at the Grand Junction elementary school.

- Cut about $9,470 last night by eliminating two secretarial positions and transferring two secretarial aide jobs to a federally funded program.
- Cut another $3,000 last night by eliminating free spectator bus rides to school events and field trips. Students are now to be charged 50 cents.
- Took $15,000 from the capital outlay fund to apply towards the deficit (meaning less in building upkeep this coming year) and took another $27,000 from reserves to offset the remaining deficit.

While board member Ronald Bodtke voted against budget approval, voting for it were board members Mrs. Kenneth Johnson, Raymond Melvin, Fred Rawson, James Muenzer and Roger Templeman.

Board member Gerry Doolittle was absent.

New Eau Claire School Budget Is Up $87,404

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night adopted a final budget of $1,725,768 for the 1976-77 school year, an amount $87,404 higher than last year's final budget. According to Dr. William Horie, superintendent, the increase in anticipated expenses is due to higher costs for employee health insurance, utilities, employee retirement, transportation, and salary adjustments.

The major sources of expected revenue are $423,340 from local property taxes; $1,071,360 in total state aid; $122,808 from five approved federal programs; and $38,860 in fund equity carried over from the previous year.

The budget is based on a total property tax levy in the district of 32 mills, the same as last year.

The budget calls for spending $1,047,971 on teacher salaries this year, an amount about $30,000 more than last year, according to Dr. Horie.

Health insurance this year for 96 employees and their families is budgeted to cost $79,500, up about $24,000 over last year, Dr. Horie said.

Other budgeted expenditures which have risen over last year include $138,550 for transportation, an increase of $20,000; $81,500 for utilities, an increase of $25,000; and $66,000 for retirement payments, an increase of $6,500.

In related areas, the board approved contracts for six teachers who had been working as substitutes on a daily basis since the beginning of the school year. Dr. Horie said that until last night, it was not known if financing to cover their salaries would be available.

There are now 68 teachers and a total of 1,309 students, Dr. Horie said.

The board set tuition rates for this school year $10 higher than the rates last year.

The tuition rate for elementary students will be $100 and for secondary students, $250.

Dr. Horie told the board there are 189 tuition students enrolled this year. He said he would soon provide the board with a breakdown of what school districts the tuition students live in.

In other areas, the board voted to participate in the state's right-to-read program which is offered free to the district. Under the program, Eau Claire will send a staff member to eight workshops throughout the year which deal with improving local reading programs.

The board voted to hire consultant Leslie Cripps of Berrien Springs to apply for a federal grant under the recently passed public works act. The act, which is aimed at increasing jobs, provides grants of up to 100 percent for certain public works projects.

Dr. Horie said the amount sought and the proposed projects are still under study.

It's NEWS TODAY in MICHIGAN

Some Hookups Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Customers of Michigan's smaller phone companies may now hook up some of their own communications equipment — but not extension phones — to their regular telephones. The state Public Service Commission authorized the hookups Monday for all except customers of Michigan Bell and General Telephone, the state's largest phone companies. Those companies are expected to be included eventually. The major equipment items covered by the order include answering devices, automatic dialers, toll restricters, call diverters, speaker phones and alarm systems. The PSC action is in line with a 1975 Federal Communications Commission order that residential and business customers be allowed to connect their own telephone and communications equipment to company lines.

Underground Paper Sues

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Lansing underground newspaper has filed suit against the Tri-County Narcotics Squad, charging a Jan. 27 raid of the paper's office by narcotics agents was illegal. The Lansing Star suit in Ingham County Circuit Court asks $2 million damages and an injunction against further "harrassment" of the newspaper. The narcotics agents seized eight ounces of cocaine that had been mailed to the newspaper, but a prosecutor refused to issue warrants on grounds there was no proof that the person receiving the package knew what it contained. Two staff members were arrested in the raid. The suit said the raid violated rights to privacy, freedom of the press and due process.

Blind Oppose Right-On-Red

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Blind people say the right-turn-on-red law in Michigan is dangerous to those without sight because they can no longer cross the street by depending on the sound of traffic. Blind persons and their representatives even favor repeal of the new law, which state highway officials assert has helped speed up the movement of traffic. "Blind people are taught to listen for the traffic pattern," said Harold Payne, director of the state's Services for the Blind Program. "Right turns on red break the pattern. With cars sometimes coming from four directions at once, they can't tell when it's safe to cross."

To Drill Or Not To Drill

The Michigan Audubon Society is voting this week on whether to permit the Mobil Oil Co. to explore for oil on the society's seven bird sanctuaries in the state. The voting by the group's 4,500 members stems from a controversy surrounding Mobil's petition to search for oil on the Bernard W. Baker Sanctuary in Calhoun County. Audubon officials say there are three general attitudes about the Mobil proposal, which was first introduced in early 1975. Some members feel oil exploration will not be harmful if it is strictly regulated. Others feel the oil exploration should be permitted even on an unregulated basis and that revenues which would result could help bail the organization out of financial difficulties. The third attitude, Audubon officials say, is not to permit oil exploration under any circumstances because it would harm wildlife.

Drivers Ed Fee Ruled Out

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Proposed legislation to permit high schools to charge a fee for driver education courses is unconstitutional, the state attorney general has ruled. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said a driver education course is an essential part of the program provided by public schools. He said the state Supreme Court has interpreted a constitutional provision requiring "free" schools to extend to any essential school activity or function. Kelley was responding to a question from Sen. Bill Huffman, D-Madison Heights. Huffman has sponsored a bill, now in a Senate Committee, to permit schools to charge such fees. Driver education courses are required for public, parochial and private high schools. A student must pass such a course in order to obtain a driver's license, Kelley noted.

When the revolution ended in 1969, Chiang Ching was one of the leading figures in China. But her influence was curbed by Chou En-lai, the late moderate premier, who worked to restore stability. When Chou died, foreign observers believe Chiang Ching influenced Mao against Teng Hsiao-ping, Chou's choice for his successor. Teng was stripped of his titles and thrown into disgrace last April. Hua, named Chou's successor, was considered a compromise between the moderates and the radicals. Many foreign observers believed he would eventually be replaced when one side or the other in the power struggle got the upper hand.

Middle Schools To Be Checked In River Valley

THREE OAKS — The River Valley school board last night ordered extensive safety studies of its two, 50-year-old middle school buildings. According to Supt. Charles Williams, the board wants bids obtained for a structural safety study by a construction engineer and wants fire and health officials to look at the buildings in New Troy and Three Oaks as well.

The studies were ordered after Dr. Williams read the results of a preliminary study of the buildings made by Dr. Lloyd Fayles, a staff member of the state department of education.

Dr. Williams said Dr. Fayles suggested two alternatives: — Consider remodeling one of the middle schools into a school big enough to hold the 500 students in the middle school grades of six through eight.

— Construct a new middle school at an estimated cost of $2.2 million which would require an estimated 2.83 mill tax levy to pay off construction bonds over a 30-year period.

But in his letter, Dr. Fayles implied that he does not think that either the Three Oaks or New Troy middle school building or site would be adequate for renovation.

School district voters in the past year have twice turned down $3.5 million bond issues that would have financed construction for a new middle school and improvements to elementary schools.

In other action, the board purchased four buses from next to low bidders. The frames were purchased at $10,249 each from Houseman GMC of Three Oaks and the bodies at $6,955 each from the McFadden Corp.

It is board policy to buy locally where possible, Dr. Williams said in explaining why the board did not take the low bids.

The low bid was about $200 lower per bus, he added.

Children Blamed For Fire

DECATUR — Children playing with matches were blamed by John Brigham, Decatur fire chief, for a fire that caused an estimated $10,000 damage to the Brian Wolff residence, CR-215 at 53rd street northwest of Decatur yesterday morning.

Brigham said the second story of the frame structure was destroyed in the fire reported shortly after 11 a.m., and that the first story was extensively damaged by the blaze.

Mrs. Wolff and several members of the family escaped injury in the fire, Brigham said.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan taxpayers would no longer foot any part of the cost of giving examinations to prospective pharmacists, osteopaths, architects, engineers, surveyors or nurses under bills that have won final House approval. But the measures would hike examination fee for those professions. Under current law persons wishing to be licensed pay a certain fee, but it does not reflect the cost of administering the examination. So the difference in the cost and the fee was paid from the state's general fund, money collected in tax revenues. Under the bills, which need the governor's signature to become law, exam fees for pharmacists would go up from $25 to $35; for osteopaths from $55 to $105; for nurses from $20 to $45 for first exam and $20 for repeats. Architects, engineers and surveyors would pay at least $30, but those fees could be raised by their examining boards to reflect the administrative cost of the exams.

Swine Flu Clinic Closed After Three Elderly Die

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A county health clinic was shut down today as a precautionary measure following the deaths of three elderly persons hours after they received swine flu shots at the clinic.

Allegheny County Coroner Cyril Wecht said his office had no evidence of a direct connection between the immunization shots and the deaths. He added, however, that the stress of getting the shots may have contributed to the deaths.

The victims, who died within hours of receiving their inoculations Monday, were Charles Gabig, 71, of Mount Oliver; Julia Bucci, 75, of Whitehall; and Ella Michael, 74, of Mount Washington.

They had been immunized at the South Side clinic with the combination vaccine used for older people and high risk cases, people with chronic illnesses. The combination vaccine is designed to protect against both swine flu and the Type A Victoria flu that was prevalent last winter.

The closing of the clinic is "to be on the safe side pending further investigation," a Health Department spokesman said. The clinic was closed late Monday and remained closed today.

Officials from the federal Center for Disease Control at Atlanta were dispatched to Pittsburgh today to investigate the deaths.

The center, which is administering the government's $135 million program to immunize most of the population against swine flu, reported late last week that it had received no reports of severe reactions to the flu shots.

Wecht said that a preliminary autopsy indicated Gabig, who died at home, suffered a heart attack. No autopsy was to be done on Mrs. Bucci at the family's request, he said.

Mrs. Michael, a widow who lived alone, was found dead in her home Monday evening. A Health Department spokesman said she had a history of heart trouble.

tion grant, he explained, are low because the priorities appear to favor projects that involve construction and, consequently, the hiring of skilled workers.

In other business at the meeting, held at North Lincoln elementary school, the board asked the Citizens Advisory committee to continue its study of the "last in, first out" policy. The issue was raised at last month's board meeting by a parent of a child who lives near Jefferson elementary school but is bused to Washington school. The parent, James Rahfeldt, 2009 Veronica, was present last night. He didn't address the board, but said afterward that his daughter is still being bused to Washington school.

"Last in, first out" means that if classes are overcrowded transfers will be made of students who have most recently enrolled at that school.

The board voted to shift its November meeting from the usual second Monday date to Nov. 15, which is the third Monday. It will be held at 7 p.m. at Clarke elementary school. Several prior commitments were cited as the reason for the change.

Pastor Criticizes Board On Covert School Census

COVERT — Questions concerning a 1976 Covert school district census, including why there was no advance notice the census was being taken and who authorized specific questions, were raised at last night's school board meeting.

Rev. Josephine Morgan of Covert told the board that the public was not given advance notice of the census taking and also raised questions about what was asked in the census.

Donald Quinn, school board president, told Rev. Morgan that the board authorized the census and board secretary Bernard Lucas authorized census takers and the question forms.

Rev. Morgan said questions asked in the census included whether adults in a specific household were registered to vote; how many adults in the household were over 60; and the telephone number for the household.

In other areas, Quinn told board member Jerry Foster that the board had authorized the purchase of swim suits to be used by students only during school hours and school activities. The suits will be issued as soon as professional laundry equipment to clean the suits is installed, Quinn told Foster.

The board was notified by the state highway department that a 55 mile-per-hour speed limit sign on M-140 near the elementary school will be moved farther south at the request of the board, and that flashing caution lights in front of the school will be installed soon.

In response to questions from Mrs. Robert Smith, Covert, Quinn said that action has already been taken to have a public telephone installed in the school parking lot; that newspapers will only publish semester honor rolls, and that the board will consider a request that students be issued certificates for participation in extra curricular activities. The board approved payment of $12,446 in work modification orders to various contractors for new school construction including wire cages for workshops, swimming pool lights and elementary school library lights and ceiling tiles.

A policy that school principals will be sent notices of board meetings as the same time as school board members was approved by the board.

The board voted to apply for a $59,000 loan from the state school bond loan department to cover bonded indebtedness on the 1974 school building program.

The action rescinded an action taken in June which specified that the loan be applied for through the state municipal finance commission.

According to Supt. William Randall, the board in June had been mistakenly advised by its attorney to apply to the finance commission.

New Eau Claire School Budget Is Up $87,404

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire school board last night adopted a final budget of $1,725,768 for the 1976-77 school year, an amount $87,404 higher than last year's final budget. According to Dr. William Horie, superintendent, the increase in anticipated expenses is due to higher costs for employee health insurance, utilities, employee retirement, transportation, and salary adjustments.

The major sources of expected revenue are $423,340 from local property taxes; $1,071,460 in total state aid; $122,608 from five approved federal programs; and $58,860 in fund equity carried over from the previous year.

The budget is based on a total property tax levy in the district of 32 mills, the same as last year.

The budget calls for spending $1,047,971 on teacher salaries this year, an amount about $30,000 more than last year, according to Dr. Horie.

Health insurance this year for 96 employees and their families is budgeted to cost $79,500, up about $24,000 over last year, Dr. Horie said.

Other budgeted expenditures which have risen over last year include $138,550 for transportation, an increase of $20,000; $81,500 for utilities, an increase of $25,000; and $66,000 for retirement payments, an increase of $6,500.

In related areas, the board approved contracts for six teachers who had been working as substitutes on a daily basis since the beginning of the school year. Dr. Horie said that until last night, it was not known if financing to cover their salaries would be available.

There are now 69 teachers and a total of 1,309 students, Dr. Horie said.

The board set tuition rates for this school year $10 higher than the rates last year.

The tuition rate for elementary students will be $160 and for secondary students, $250.

Dr. Horie told the board there are 169 tuition students enrolled this year. He said he would soon provide the board with a breakdown of what school districts the tuition students live in.

In other areas, the board voted to participate in the state's right-to-read program which is offered free to the district. Under the program, Eau Claire will send a staff member to eight workshops throughout the year which deal with improving local reading programs.

The board voted to hire consultant Leslie Cripps of Berrien Springs to apply for a federal grant under the recently passed public works act. The act, which is aimed at increasing jobs, provides grants of up to 100 per cent for certain public works projects.

Dr. Horie said the amount sought and the proposed projects are still under study.

Some Hookups Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Customers of Michigan's smaller phone companies may now hook up some of their own communications equipment — but not extension phones — to their regular telephones. The state Public Service Commission authorized the hookups Monday for all except customers of Michigan Bell and General Telephone, the state's largest phone companies. Those companies are expected to be included eventually. The major equipment items covered by the order include answering devices, automatic dialers, toll restricters, call diverters, speaker phones and alarm systems. The PSC action is in line with a 1975 Federal Communications Commission order that residential and business customers be allowed to connect their own telephone and communications equipment to company lines.

tion grant, he explained, are low because the priorities appear to favor projects that involve construction and, consequently, the hiring of skilled workers.

In other business at the meeting, held at North Lincoln elementary school, the board asked the Citizens Advisory committee to continue its study of the "last in, first out" policy.

The issue was raised at last month's board meeting by a parent of a child who lives near Jefferson elementary school but is bused to Washington school. The parent, James Rahfeldt, 2809 Veronica, was present last night. He didn't address the board, but said afterward that his daughter is still being bused to Washington school.

"Last in, first out" means that if classes are overcrowded transfers will be made of students who have most recently enrolled at that school.

The board voted to shift its November meeting from the usual second Monday date to Nov. 15, which is the third Monday. It will be held at 7 p.m. at Clarke elementary school. Several prior commitments were cited as the reason for the change.

Pastor Criticizes Board On Covert School Census

COVERT — Questions concerning a 1976 Covert school district census, including why there was no advance notice the census was being taken and who authorized specific questions, were raised at last night's school board meeting.

Rev. Josephine Morgan of Covert told the board that the public was not given advance notice of the census taking and also raised questions about what was asked in the census.

Donald Quinn, school board president, told Rev. Morgan that the board authorized the census and board secretary Bernard Lucas authorized census takers and the question forms.

Rev. Morgan said questions asked in the census included whether adults in a specific household were registered to vote; how many adults in the household were over 60, and the telephone number for the household.

In other areas, Quinn told board member Jerry Foster that the board had authorized the purchase of swim suits to be used by students only during school hours and school activities. The suits will be issued as soon as professional laundry equipment to clean the suits is installed, Quinn told Foster.

The board was notified by the state highway department that a 55 mile-per-hour speed limit sign on M-140 near the elementary school will be moved farther south at the request of the board, and that flashing caution lights in front of the school will be installed soon.

In response to questions from Mrs. Robert Smith, Covert, Quinn said that action has already been taken to have a public telephone installed in the school parking lot; that newspapers will only publish semester honor rolls, and that the board will consider a request that students be issued certificates for participation in extra curricular activities.

The board approved payment of $12,446 in work modification orders to various contractors for new school construction including wire cages for workshops, swimming pool lights and elementary school library lights and ceiling tiles.

A policy that school principals will be sent notices of board meetings as the same time as school board members was approved by the board.

The board voted to apply for a $59,000 loan from the state school bond loan department to cover bonded indebtedness on the 1974 school building program.

The action rescinded an action taken in June which specified that the loan be applied for through the state municipal finance commission. According to Supt. William Randall, the board in June had been mistakenly advised by its attorney to apply to the finance commission.

LMC Rushes Community Center Planning

Federal Jobs Act Eyed As Source Of Funds

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm and Features Editor
Lake Michigan college administrators and trustees and their new architect are in an "intensive planning stage" aiming for a federal grant that could put the school into a new building program right on the heels of completion of the original campus building program.

A community center building that encompasses a 2,500 to 3,000-seat auditorium, a little theater, exhibition halls, classrooms, and local headquarters for four-year universities that offer programs on the LMC campus is the focus of the planning. The structure, described as a multi-million dollar project, was called for in a second 10-year master plan for the campus unveiled by the Citizens Advisory committee last February.

The recently enacted federal Public Works Employment act to provide jobs in areas of high unemployment could be the source of 100 per cent of the cost of the structure, according to LMC President James Lehman.

He said LMC could be eligible for a grant up to $5 million.

The big new federal melon will be cut quickly and plans for the project must be completed by Christmas, with Michigan's tentative $157 million slice to be passed out as individual grants by about Jan. 1. And in another 90 days after that, according to a tentative timetable indicated to college officials, men must be hired and actual construction work started.

The college president said a squeeze is developing already for existing classroom space on certain evenings of the week, as enrollment has grown. He suggested the proposed new center probably should contain some classroom space. Specifically, he noted a need for music classrooms and practice rooms.

The idea of a community auditorium on campus was raised years before the Citizens Advisory committee came along, according to Robert P. Small, chairman of that committee and former longtime chairman of the college board of trustees.

Lehman and Small said the exact size and cost of the proposed multi-purpose community center structure will develop out of studies the architect is making in meetings with community organizations and industrial leaders. Among organizations being consulted on the uses they could make of a joint community-college auditorium include the Twin Cities Arts council, Twin City Players, Twin City Symphony and others that might have interest in a performing arts facility.

Small said industrial leaders have indicated a strong need for exhibition space. He stated over 12,000 non-students made use of campus facilities last year for conventions, meetings and seminars.

Lehman said officials of Michigan State university and Western Michigan university, which already conduct some advanced classes on the LMC campus, have indicated they would like room on campus for headquarters for their extension centers in this area and also would like more classrooms than LMC now can let them use in existing campus facilities.

Small and Lehman stressed that while the possibility of winning 100 per cent funding for a community center has intensified the planning now, the college will continue to work toward building a community center even if the Public Works act application doesn't succeed. Other sources of necessary funds will be pursued, they said, although realization of the center then likely would take more years.

The Citizens Advisory committee recommended for the campus' second 10-year plan that not only a community center be built, but also that a complete physical education building be added to the campus. Purchase of land to "square off" the Napier avenue front of the 259-acre campus, along Napier avenue from I-94 to Yore avenue, also was a recommendation from the advisory study. Added land is not needed for the projected community center and physical education plant, Small noted, but added that property should be added for the long-range future.

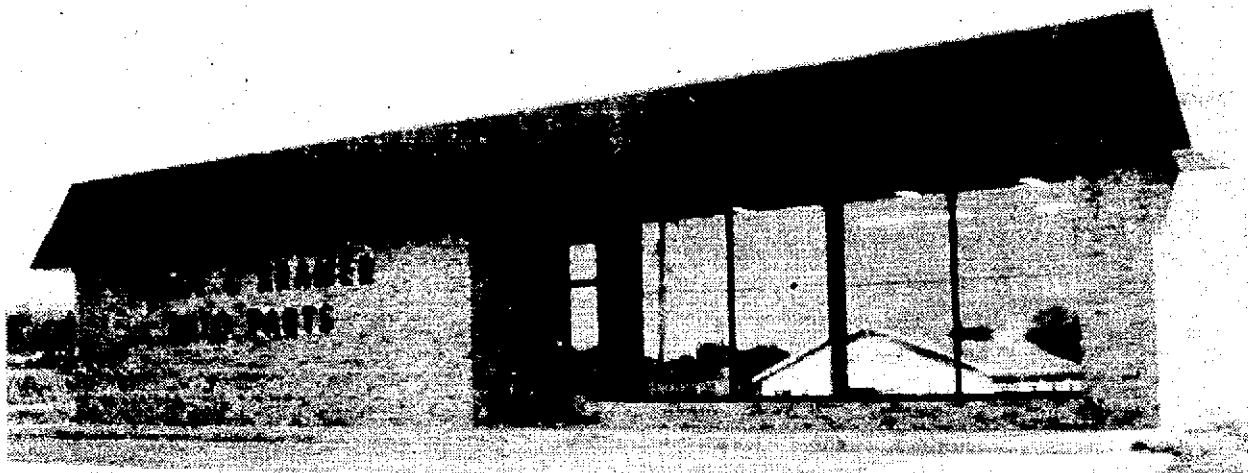

The LMC board of trustees dropped Harry Weese & Associates of Chicago, the architectural firm that designed and supervised construction of the beautiful "island" campus, as planners of the new round of construction. Hired in its place is Warren Holmes & Associates of Lansing.

Asked why the change was made, Dr. Lehman noted what he called "supervision problems" and "staff follow-up" delays that he said resulted in several considerable delays in construction in the initial building phases. Much more important, however, he said, was the desire to get a Michigan architect, and especially one located in Lansing and equipped to work more readily with the various state agencies that have a finger in public construction and grant monies.

Lehman added that he was told in so many words by an important figure in Michigan government that the legislature looks more favorably toward projects that have "in-state" architects. He declined to identify the source.

Serving as resident architect for Warren Holmes to draw together the needs that must be planned into the proposed community center is Malcolm H. Williams. Assisting to line up the plans with the grant guidelines as they develop under the new Public Works act is Scott Hilleary, also of the Holmes firm.

Williams said the firm has handled big projects for the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, as well as a number of community colleges in the state, along with a variety of K-12 building programs. Hilleary added the firm has built at least five multi-purpose auditorium buildings for educational institutions.

Bridgman School Conflict Gets Hot

Bridgman correspondent

BRIDGMAN — Dr. David Lechner, Bridgman schools superintendent, last night denied he had a financial interest in a cleaning firm under contract with the district and said he would resign if an interest in the firm was verified.

Lechner was responding to one of several questions posed in a letter to the board by Donald Reed, a resident of the school district and principal at the Boynton and Martindale elementary schools in the Benton Harbor school district.

The superintendent "categorically denied," all statements made by Reed in the letter.

Lechner told this newspaper late this morning that he intended to "file suit against Mr. Donald Reed for personal damages," based on the statements made in the letter presented to the board. He also asked the Herald-Palladium to check out what he described as "hearsay" allegations concerning Reed's character and his conduct during the recent middle school bond issue vote.

Lechner, in a telephone interview with this newspaper, said Reed was a member of a citizens committee opposed to a new middle school being planned by the district and added that the Benton Harbor school system has "incompetent administrators."

The firm under contract is Ross Cleaning Service, St. Joseph. Lechner said the payment to the firm this year would be "roughly" $36,000 out of a $46,000 appropriation and he said most of the amount would be for cleaning supplies.

In his letter to the board, Reed asked:

"What is the board's position on the alleged conflict of interest in the contracting of Ross Cleaning Service for the school year 76-77. The superintendent is said to have a monetary interest of some description in this firm. This has caused adverse public comment, and probably will continue to do so, unless in the district's best interest, the matter is clarified."

Reed, who is the son of the late Fred C. Reed, superintendent at Bridgman from 1922 until 1950, was told by Robert Roth, board president, that answers to the questions would be given in writing at the board's November meeting at Reed's request.

Contacted this morning, Reed said he raised the questions to "clear the air," and added there was, "no intent to demean anyone." He said there were "vicious rumors" concerning the matter in the school district and he thought a written response to the letter would clear them up.

Reed said he had no knowledge of any involvement by Lechner with the firm.

Dr. Lechner, contacted by telephone this morning, said he was not now, nor ever affiliated in any manner with the St. Joseph cleaning firm, nor with its owner, Ross Hadley, in any business venture. He said he was, "not a stockholder...never signed any documents," nor had he received any compensation from the cleaning firm or any other business associated with Hadley.

Lechner said he was associated with two Waukegan, Ill., firms that were not connected with providing services to school systems.

The question concerning the Ross contract was part of one dealing with board policy over the contracting of services for the district. Reed said that as a fourth class district, the Bridgman school board was not required to let bids for items such as contracted services. He noted that the 1976-77 school budget included $46,000 for cleaning service and $41,000 for custodial salaries, asking if the school custodial supplies and personnel should be expanded instead.

Other questions posed by Reed included what was the board's "philosophy of education," saying "we have heard the board," has indicated that buildings come first and educational quality will come as a result of the buildings; what was the board policy over public use of buildings and was information available to the public regarding the policy; and did the state department of education "mandate the demise" of the Reed Middle school.

Voters in the district on Sept. 13 approved a $2.6 million bond issue to finance construction of a new middle school.

In other areas, the board named Stauder Barch & Associates, Grosse Pointe Farms, lowest of two bidders at $6,500, as marketing consultants for the middle school bond issue. Richard Barch of the firm said sale of the bonds is about three months away.

In other moves related to the middle school, the board authorized issuing the bonds; passed a resolution to apply to the state to give final qualifications for the bonds; set a payment schedule for the bonds of $275,000 in May of each year; instructed its attorney to close the option for purchase of the land for the new school, and named Farmers & Merchants bank, Bridgman branch, depositor of the district's 1976 debt retirement and 1976 building and site funds.

The board approved the purchase of bleachers for 342 additional seats at the football field from Standard Steel, Three Rivers, at a cost of $7,318.

Installation of a concrete slab for a sundeck at the swimming pool, by Erdman Linke, Bridgman, at a cost of $1,720 was also approved.

Director Selected By Berrien Action

The board of directors of Berrien County Action, Inc. (BCA) voted in a special meeting last night to hire John R. Harris, a 29-year-old native of Benton Harbor, as the new executive director of the anti-poverty agency.

Harris, a former legal assistant for the Benton Harbor city attorney's office, will fill the three-month vacancy created when Mrs. Helen Ford was fired as executive director by the board July 12.

Harris told the Herald-Palladium today he will accept the job.

Mrs. Nora Jefferson, board chairman, said the salary for the executive director's position will be under $15,000 and will be determined in a meeting between Harris and the board's personnel committee.

Mrs. Cecilia Burke, board secretary, said the board voted 9 to 1 to hire Harris with one abstention. Two other candidates for the position, Wilbur Brown, director of Dial-A-Ride, and Leonard Anderson, who works for Berrien county's deferred prosecution program, were also considered, she said. Silas Legg is currently acting BCA director.

Present at last night's special meeting, according to Mrs. Burke, were Lee Auble, Rev. M.D. Forrest, Victor Greer, Harvey Robinson, Ken Platt, Dennis Keller, Nora Jefferson, Harry Reynolds, Ruby Wynn, Edna Jones, and Mrs. Burke. Absent were Melvin Farmer, Jr., Mrs. Ben Schoun, Vance Shaw, and Nancy Christian.

Harris worked for former City Attorneys Carl Cooper and Yvonne Hughes from 1974, until 1976.

Harris, a 1966 graduate of Benton Harbor high school, lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Harris, at 666 Thresher avenue. He received his bachelor's degree from New York university in 1970, majoring in public administration, and received his master's degree from Columbia university, also in public administration. He is the author of a book, "Voices From Slavery," which was published in 1970 by Tower Publications of New York City.

BCA's vote to hire Harris comes as the agency is expected to be named as Berrien county's official anti-poverty agency.

Berrien county Commissioner Nancy Clark, the chairman of the board's planning and social services committee, said earlier the agency will probably receive the designation this month.

The designation entitles the organization to receive direct funding from the federal government. Currently, federal funds are sent to the state, which then turns most of the money over to BCA.

Probe In Camp Death Is Ended

PULLMAN, Mich. (AP) — Allegan County authorities said today they have closed their probe into a 19-year-old Tennessee man's death at a training camp.

Sheriff's detectives said they halted the investigation of the death of Robert Van Dusen of Collegedale, Tenn., after it an autopsy listed the cause of death as due to natural causes. The death originally was described as "suspicious."

Dr. William Schock, county medical examiner, ruled Van Dusen's death Saturday was due to pulmonary edema, or fluid in the lungs. Once Schock made his ruling, "there was nothing more we can do," one detective said.

Van Dusen was one of 60 students attending the Oak Haven camp near Lake Michigan.

Dr. Schock said he also found bruises on the buttocks of the body, apparently inflicted by a rubber hose a week and a half before the man's death. "It was a disciplinary measure. He was hit on the butt. But it was not related to the death," Schock said.

Camp director Sidney Sweet refused to comment on the rubber hose marks. "I don't have anything to say about that," he said. "This boy was not in good shape when he arrived. He was not in the best mental condition. He was very diluted mentally."

A spokesman for the camp, Daniel Thomas, speculated the dead man may have succumbed to influenza. "We have 85 people here, and a lot of us have had the flu," Thomas said.

Originally, authorities described the camp as run by the Seventh-day Adventist church. But James Hayward, executive secretary for the church's Michigan Conference, said the camp is not church-sponsored.

He described it as a rehabilitation center run by individual members of the church, although with no formal affiliation.

Federal Jobs Act Eyed As Source Of Funds

Lake Michigan college administrators and trustees and their new architect are in an "intensive planning stage" aiming for a federal grant that could put the school into a new building program right on the heels of completion of the original campus building program.

A community center building that encompasses a 2,500 to 3,000-seat auditorium, a little theater, exhibition halls, classrooms, and local headquarters for four-year universities that offer programs on the LMC campus is the focus of the planning. The structure, described as a multi-million dollar project, was called for in a second 10-year master plan for the campus unveiled by the Citizens Advisory committee last February.

The recently enacted federal Public Works Employment act to provide jobs in areas of high unemployment could be the source of 100 per cent of the cost of the structure, according to LMC President James Lehman.

Yanks Hope Errors Over

NEW YORK (AP) — It is said that if you are going to make mistakes, it is best to make them all at once and get them out of your system. If that's the case, then the New York Yankees should be in good shape for tonight's third game of their American League playoff series against Kansas City.

Duck Ellis, a 17-game winner, gets the start for New York against Andy Hassler, 5-12, of the Royals.

The teams are tied 1-1 in the best-of-five playoff that will send the survivor into the World Series. The Yankees barely survived Sunday's 7-3 second-game loss.

There were a season-high five errors of commission and at least one error of omission. There were pop flies falling all over the place. There was a missed cutoff throw and base-running blunders. It was a team loss in the truest sense.

"Did you ever see anybody look good when they lose?" wondered New York catcher Thurman Munson, who made two of the errors of commission, both bad throws on stolen bases.

"I don't pay attention to errors," said Yankees Manager Billy Martin. "My players are human. It was just one of those games."

Although the five Yankees errors cost only one unearned run, they were symbolic of the sloppiness of the game. Kansas City's go-ahead rally in the sixth inning was ignited by George Brett's triple, a hit that started out looking like a routine fly ball.

"I thought I was going to catch it," said Yankees centerfielder Mickey Rivers, who plays his position notoriously shallow. "It took off and there was no chance."

Brett gambled trying for the triple and barely beat the throw. He might not have if Rivers had hit the cutoff man. But the throw sailed past second baseman Willie Randolph, and shortstop Fred Stanley had to make the relay. That was the error of omission.

Earlier, Royals' shortstop Freddie Patek had fanned Chris Chambliss on the basepaths. Chambliss was on first base in the third inning with New York leading 3-2. Carlos May bounced a single into right field and Chambliss took off for second. Waiting for him was Patek, faking a play that sent the runner sliding in, safe by 200 feet as the ball bounced into right field. Another mistake. In the eighth inning, the Royals wrapped up their victory with a three-run rally on a pop-fly attack of looping singles by Frank White, Patek and Buck Martinez, a trio of hitters who never will be confused with Murderers' Row.

"It's about time," decided rookie Tom Poquette, who drove in two of the Royals' seven runs with a single and double. "Things had to start evening out. We haven't been getting any breaks."

Brett thought the victory might be a turning point for the Royals, who staggered into the playoffs with nine losses in their final 11 regular-season games.

"We had to beat them Sunday," said Brett, who had four hits in the first two games. "That's pretty obvious. If we lost that one, we'd have to win three in New York. I'm a confident guy but that would have been kind of ridiculous."

Phils 'Out-Luckied' In Playoffs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Danny Ozark discovered what was wrong with his Philadelphia Phillies, but it may have been too late to save the Eastern Division champions from elimination in the National League playoffs.

"We've been out-luckied," explained Ozark, the master of the malaprop.

Ozark hoped the Phils' luck changed in today's third game of the best-of-five series in which they trailed the Cincinnati Reds 2-0. Left-hander Jim Kaat, 12-14, pitched for the Phils, and Gary Nolan, 15-8, tried to put the Reds in the World Series for the second straight year.

The Phils, who won 101 games enroute to the East 101 with the help of an often spectacular defense, have fallen apart in the field during the playoffs. They made only two physical errors in the first two games, but mental miscues — throwing to the wrong base against the aggressively running Reds was very damaging.

Ozark insisted at Monday's workout at Riverfront Stadium that the Phils had not been intimidated by Cincinnati's tactics. He pointed to his players, who were bantering as they worked, and asked if it appeared they were tight.

"If they were standing around (quietly), I'd be very embarrassed having them out there," he said.

The Reds' Joe Morgan, however, disagreed with Ozark.

"When we're doing our thing we create pressure," said Morgan, who walked five times in two games but has yet to get a hit.

"It's not the pressure of the playoff that has been forcing Philadelphia to make mistakes. It's been us," Morgan said.

Morgan said the Reds' strategy would be different for the third game. "We can play for the big inning now, because we're two games up. That doesn't mean we'll take it easy. We're going to play like it's the seventh game of the World Series. But we can take more chances."

The 37-year-old Kaat, who at Minnesota pitched in one championship series and one World Series, believed the Phils were in a relaxed position.

"We're two down, and nobody gives us a chance to win (the series) now," Kaat said. "No one expects us to win three here. We just might shock a lot of people. If we win tomorrow (Tuesday), we have a good chance of going all the way."

Kaat was prepared for the Reds' base-stealing game.

Kaat was 2-1 against Cincinnati during the regular season, but gave up 39 hits and 14 runs in 25 2-3 innings.

The 28-year-old Nolan was Cincinnati's biggest winner in the drive to the Western Division championship. He was second on the staff in complete games with seven, and was involved in three shutouts. Nolan was 1-1 against the Phils this season. He was, however, battered for 22 hits and 12 runs in 20 innings against the East champions.

49ers' Hart Gets Six Sacks

Silent Giant Dumps Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tommy Hart proved the silent giant of the San Francisco 49ers as he smashed through the line, tossed Los Angeles quarterback James Harris for losses on six occasions and didn't say a word.

"I didn't say anything to him and he didn't say anything to me," was the response of the 251-pound Hart after his 49ers had upset the Rams 16-0 in their nationally televised National Football League battle.

San Francisco quarterback Jim Plunkett threw touchdown passes of 36 yards to Willie McGee and six to Tom Mitchell in a third quarter blitz, but few defensive lines have done the job of the 49ers' front four.

They tossed the 210-pound Harris for losses 10 times, a 49ers' club record, and reminded the big quarterback of when he was playing for the embryo Buffalo Bills.

"That," said the 6-foot-4 Hart, "was the greatest game of my career," and no one would argue with the nine-year pro veteran from Morris Brown College who has been the starting defensive left end for the 49ers the past six years.

His greatest game propelled San Francisco to a 4-1 record and ahead of the 3-1-1 Rams in the NFC West. The Southern California team had been favored by 13 points.

The Rams dominated the first quarter but picked up four penalties for holding. As Plunkett saw it, "That was the only way they could keep our defensive guys out."

Coach Chuck Knox of the previously undefeated Rams admitted, "They have one of the most active defensive lines in the league. They just got us in situations they would like us to be in. We tried adjustments in our blocking, but it just got to be third and 12 and here they come."

"We knew if we could stop the Rams' running game, particularly on the first down, we could beat them," Hart explained. "They have the best running in the conference and usually are good for four to six yards on that first down. We stopped them, and that is the difference."

In the first two league games, both Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti, the 1-2 running attack of the Rams gained more than 100 yards each per game.

The 49ers stopped McCutcheon at 72 yards on 16 carries and throttled Cappelletti at 12 yards in seven carries.

San Francisco, after a 0-4 first half, whizzed 73 yards in four plays after taking the second-half kickoff. A Plunkett to Del Williams pass gained 20 yards and another eight when the receiver tumbled out of bounds. On the next play, Plunkett hit McGee for the touchdown.

Then Hart's sacks on Harris with resultant fumbles set up the second touchdown and an 18-yard field goal by Steve Mike-Mayer — all the scoring in 5 minutes 36 seconds of the third quarter.

The game marked the first time the Rams had been shut out at home in a regular season game since they came to Los Angeles from Cleveland in 1946.

Mustangs Topple Eddies

EDWARDSBURG — River Valley's girls basketball team rolled out to a 22-6 first-quarter lead and were never headed in bombing Edwardsburg 60-36 here Monday in the battle of Blossomland conference unbeaten.

The Mustangs, now 5-0 in the league and 8-0 overall, got double figure scoring from Deb Lundin (16), Ruth Simmons (14) and Wendy Schwark (12).

Pat Reed tossed in 14 for Edwardsburg, which fell to 4-1 and 7-1, respectively.

"We played real good team defense and got good balance in scoring," River Valley coach Fred Knutel said. "We pressed them all over the floor and it eventually got to them."

River Valley hosts Coloma Thursday, while Edwardsburg travels to Buchanan.

Move To Deprive Canada Of Sports Events Starts

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Charles Palmer, outspoken president of the International Judo Federation, claims he is gathering support for a plan to deprive Canada of all international sports events for the next 10 years.

He seized the initiative during meetings of the 26 Olympic sports federations with the Executive Board of the International Olympic Committee, which opened Monday.

Palmer wants to slap sanctions on Canada because the Canadian government shut out the athletes of Taiwan from the Montreal Olympics last July — an act which the IOC claimed was a breach of faith.

"I think we must take the Commonwealth Games away from Canada in 1978," Palmer said. "I don't like hypocrisy. If we apply sanctions, we should make them stick properly."

"At least a half-dozen federations have told me they will support my plan. Another half-dozen are violently opposed to it. All the others presumably are somewhere in the middle, and we shall have to wait and see."

Palmer is an Englishman of growing influence, because he is the secretary of the General Assembly of Federations (GAIF).

He put his plan for Canada before Monday's opening session of the IOC's Tripartite Commission, on which representatives of the federations and the national Olympic committees sit.

"It was not the place to discuss my plan at length, because this committee merely advises the IOC and does not make decisions," Palmer said. "But at least I aired it, and I am glad to say nobody fainted and fell on the floor."

"This would hurt a lot of people in Canada. I don't like hurting people, but I feel we have to take action to prevent what happened in Montreal happening again in the future."

The IOC has no jurisdiction over the Commonwealth Games, which are scheduled for Edmonton. But the federations could force the games to be moved, Judo, Palmer's sport, is not a part of the Commonwealth Games program.

The Canadian government refused visas to the Taiwanese because they would not abandon their chosen name of the Republic of China.

Meanwhile, Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, said he has had repeated promises from the Soviet Union that athletes from all countries recognized by the IOC will be free to compete in the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

The IOC protested loudly when Canada shut out the Taiwanese, but resisted pressure from some quarters to cancel the Olympics.

Now the IOC has to decide what to do about 29 African countries which walked out of the Montreal Games at short notice in protest against a New Zealand rugby team touring South Africa.

Palmer wants all the African nations involved in the boycott banned from international events for five years.

The IOC will listen to the views of the federations but will make no decision on the Africans until its annual assembly in Prague next June.

PAT PEPLER

GM Pepler Interim Falcon Coach

ATLANTA (AP) — General Manager Pat Pepler, who never has served as a head football coach above the high school level, was on the practice field today as the new coach of the Atlanta Falcons.

Pepler, 54, was named Monday night as the field boss of the faltering Falcons for the remainder of the National Football League season, succeeding Marion Campbell, who was fired by owner Rankin Smith.

Pepler, who has not actually coached on the field since serving as an assistant at Wake Forest in 1962, also will continue as general manager, a position he will return to when the season ends.

"He's got a thankless task," said Smith, who called the dismissal of Campbell "the most difficult decision of my life."

Smith said he would name a new coach for the 1977 season "as soon as I can after this season ends."

Campbell, 47, moved up from an assistant's post when Smith fired outspoken Norm Van Brocklin in November, 1974.

During his tenure, Campbell had a record of 6-19, with the end becoming apparent Sunday when his team was embarrassed 30-0 by the New Orleans Saints. It was Atlanta's fourth defeat in five games this season.

Atlanta never got untracked this year, having trouble during both the exhibition and regular seasons. The team faced what many considered its most favorable schedule in years.

with the Reds' front office and is considering a move that could land him with the Phils.

"Sure I'm unhappy. But it didn't just come up. I've been unhappy with my salary a long time," said the 10-time All-Star.

Rose, who ironically has been the chief tormentor of the Phils during the regular season and in postseason play, could wind up in a Philadelphia uniform. Under major league baseball contract rules Rose holds the right to select where he would like to be traded. A player with 10 years experience in the major leagues and five with the same club can veto a trade to another club.

The 35-year-old third baseman-outfielder, who was raised in Cincinnati and became one of baseball's biggest drawing cards with his hustling, aggressive style, has been a thorn in Philadelphia's side all season.

He hit .442 against Phils' pitching during the season and went into today's game with a 5-for-10 effort.

Rose is reportedly irritated over the Reds' initial contract offer which called for a two-year contract at $200,000 a year. He is currently receiving $190,000 a year. Teammates Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan are the highest paid players on the world champions, both at a reported $250,000 a year.

Rose would neither confirm nor deny the report, saying:

"My lawyer has met with them and we're still talking. I don't want to get into it now. This is not the right time to discuss it."

When pressed on the trade possibility, he told The Associated Press: "Philadelphia is the only other team I'd like to play for. I could play left field there."

A Reds' spokesman, who asked to remain anonymous, said the report "is strictly rumor at this point."

Yanks Hope Errors Over

NEW YORK (AP) — It is said that if you are going to make mistakes, it is best to make them all at once and get them out of your system. If that's the case, then the New York Yankees should be in good shape for tonight's third game of their American League playoff series against Kansas City.

Dock Ellis, a 17-game winner, gets the start for New York against Andy Hassler, 5-12, of the Royals.

The teams are tied 1-1 in the best-of-five playoff that will send the survivor into the World Series. The Yankees barely survived Sunday's 7-3 second-game loss.

There were a season-high five errors of commission and at least one error of omission. There were pop flies falling all over the place. There was a missed cutoff throw and base-running blunders. It was a team loss in the truest sense.

"Did you ever see anybody look good when they lose?" wondered New York catcher Thurman Munson, who made two of the errors of commission, both bad throws on stolen bases.

"I don't pay attention to errors," said Yankees Manager Billy Martin. "My players are human. It was just one of those games."

Although the five Yankees errors cost only one unearned run, they were symbolic of the sloppiness of the game. Kansas City's go-ahead rally in the sixth inning was ignited by George Brett's triple, a hit that started out looking like a routine fly ball.

"I thought I was going to catch it," said Yankees centerfielder Mickey Rivers, who plays his position notoriously shallow. "It took off and there was no chance."

Brett gambled trying for the triple and barely beat the throw. He might not have if Rivers had hit the cutoff man. But the throw sailed past second baseman Willie Randolph, and shortstop Fred Stanley had to make the relay. That was the error of omission.

Earlier, Royals' shortstop Freddie Patek had fanned Chris Chambliss on the basepaths. Chambliss was on first base in the third inning with New York leading 3-2. Carlos May bounced a single into right field and Chambliss took off for second. Waiting for him was Patek, faking a play that sent the runner sliding in, safe by 200 feet as the ball bounced into right field. Another mistake. In the eighth inning, the Royals wrapped up their victory with a three-run rally on a pop-fly attack of looping singles by Frank White, Patek and Buck Martinez, a trio of hitters who never will be confused with Murderers' Row.

"It's about time," decided rookie Tom Poquette, who drove in two of the Royals' seven runs with a single and double. "Things had to start evening out. We haven't been getting any breaks."

Brett thought the victory might be a turning point for the Royals, who staggered into the playoffs with nine losses in their final 11 regular-season games.

"We had to beat them Sunday," said Brett, who had four hits in the first two games. "That's pretty obvious. If we lost that one, we'd have to win three in New York. I'm a confident guy but that would have been kind of ridiculous."

Phils 'Out-Luckied' In Playoffs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Danny Ozark discovered what was wrong with his Philadelphia Phillies, but it may have been too late to save the Eastern Division champions from elimination in the National League playoffs.

"We've been out-luckied," explained Ozark, the master of the malaprop.

Ozark hoped the Phils' luck changed in today's third game of the best-of-five series in which they trailed the Cincinnati Reds 2-0. Left-hander Jim Kaat, 12-14, pitched for the Phils, and Gary Nolan, 15-9, tried to put the Reds in the World Series for the second straight year.

The Phillies, who won 101 games enroute to the East title with the help of an often spectacular defense, have fallen apart in the field during the playoffs. They made only two physical errors in the first two games, but mental miscues — throwing to the wrong base against the aggressively running Reds was very damaging.

Ozark insisted at Monday's workout at Riverfront Stadium that the Phillies had not been intimidated by Cincinnati's tactics. He pointed to his players, who were bantering as they worked, and asked if it appeared they were tight.

"If they were standing around (quietly), I'd be very embarrassed having them out there," he said.

The Reds' Joe Morgan, however, disagreed with Ozark.

"When we're doing our thing we create pressure," said Morgan, who walked five times in two games but has yet to get a hit.

"It's not the pressure of the playoff that has been forcing Philadelphia to make mistakes. It's been us," Morgan said.

Morgan said the Reds' strategy would be different for the third game. "We can play for the big inning now, because we're two games up. That doesn't mean we'll take it easy. We're going to play like it's the seventh game of the World Series. But we can take more chances."

The 37-year-old Kaat, who at Minnesota pitched in one championship series and one World Series, believed the Phillies were in a relaxed position.

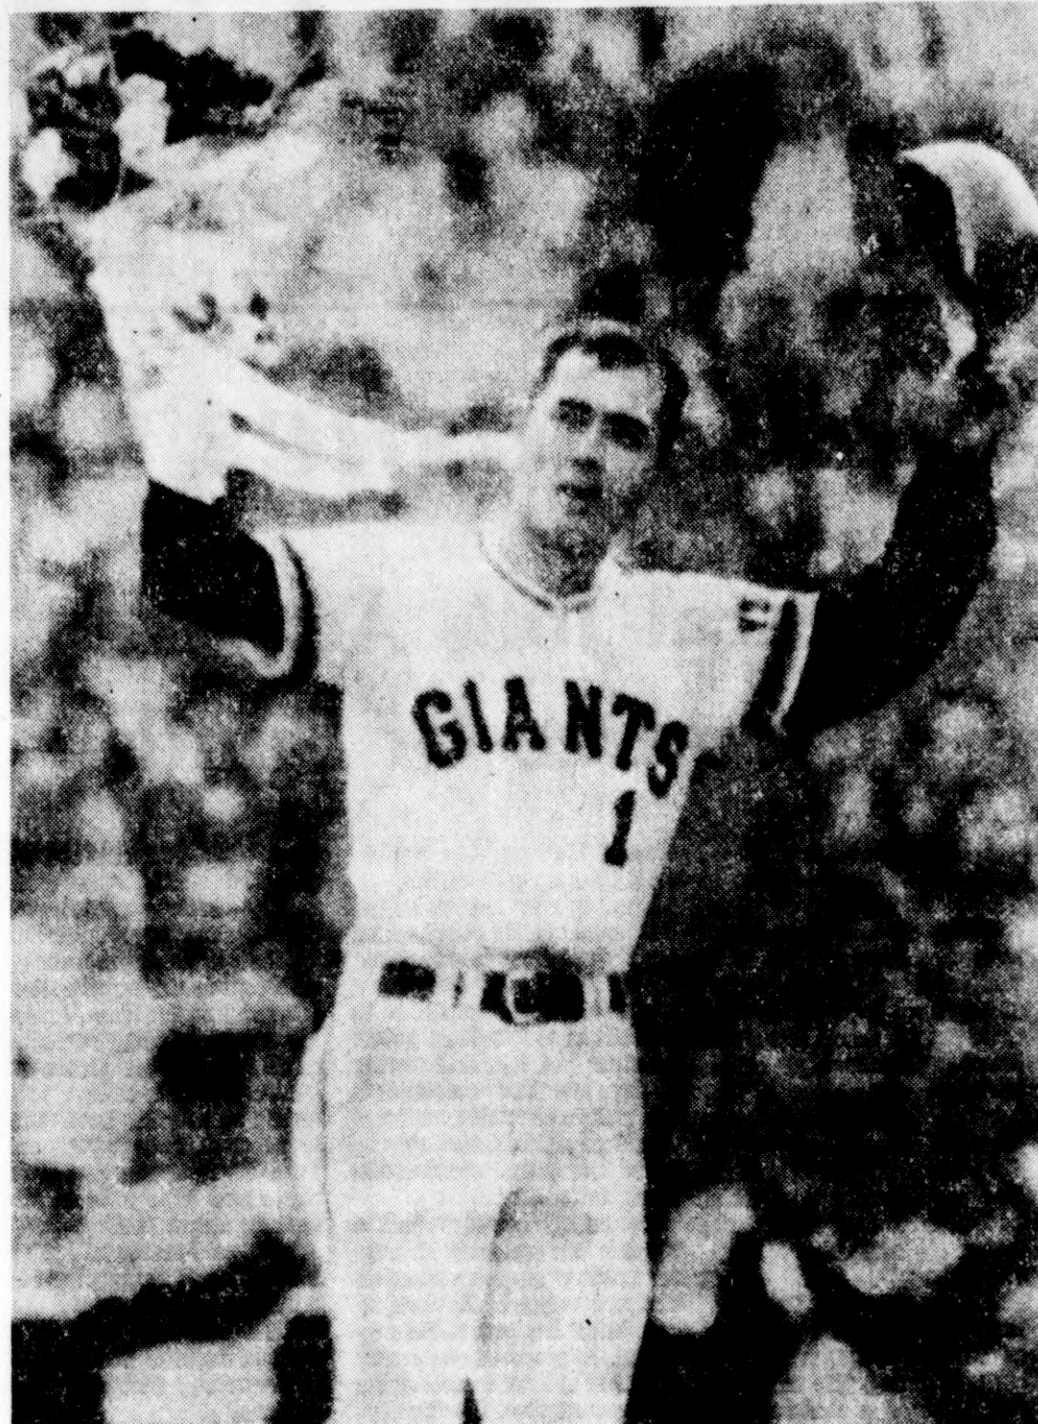

"We're two down, and nobody gives us a chance to win (the series) now," Kaat said. "No one expects us to win three here. We just might shock a lot of people. If we win tomorrow (Tuesday), we have a good chance of going all the way."

Kaat was prepared for the Reds' base-stealing game.

Kaat was 2-1 against Cincinnati during the regular season, but gave up 39 hits and 14 runs in 25 2-3 innings.

The 28-year-old Nolan was Cincinnati's biggest winner in the drive to the Western Division championship. He was second on the staff in complete games with seven, and was involved in three shutouts. Nolan was 1-1 against the Phillies this season. He was, however, battered for 22 hits and 12 runs in 20 innings against the East champions.

49ers' Hart Gets Six Sacks Silent Giant Dumps Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tommy Hart proved the silent giant of the San Francisco 49ers as he smashed through the line, tossed Los Angeles quarterback James Harris for losses on six occasions and didn't say a word.

"I didn't say anything to him and he didn't say anything to me," was the response of the 251-pound Hart after his 49ers had upset the Rams 16-0 in their nationally televised National Football League battle.

San Francisco quarterback Jim Plunkett threw touchdown passes of 36 yards to Willie McGee and six to Tom Mitchell in a third quarter blitz, but few defensive lines have done the job of the 49ers' front four.

They tossed the 210-pound Harris for losses 10 times, a 49ers' club record, and reminded the big quarterback of when he was playing for the embryo Buffalo Bills.

"That," said the 6-foot-4 Hart, "was the greatest game of my career," and no one would argue with the nine-year pro veteran from Morris Brown College who has been the starting defensive left end for the 49ers the past six years.

His greatest game propelled San Francisco to a 4-1 record and ahead of the 3-1-1 Rams in the NFC West. The Southern California team had been favored by 13 points.

The Rams dominated the first quarter but picked up four penalties for holding. As Plunkett saw it, "That was the only way they could keep our defensive guys out."

Coach Chuck Knox of the previously undefeated Rams admitted, "They have one of the most active defensive lines in the league. They just got us in situations they would like us to be in. We tried adjustments in our blocking, but it just got to be third and 12 and here they come."

"We knew if we could stop the Rams' running game, particularly on the first down, we could beat them," Hart explained. "They have the best running in the conference and usually are good for four to six yards on that first down. We stopped them, and that is the

In the first two league games, both Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti, the 1-2 running attack of the Rams gained more than 100 yards each per game.

The 49ers stopped McCutcheon at 72 yards on 16 carries and throttled Cappelletti at 12 yards in seven carries.

San Francisco, after a 0-0 first half, whizzed 73 yards in four plays after taking the second-half kickoff. A Plunkett to Del Williams pass gained 20 yards and another eight when the receiver fumbled out of bounds. On the next play, Plunkett hit McGee for the touchdown.

Then Hart's sacks on Harris with resultant fumbles set up the second touchdown and an 18-yard field goal by Steve Mike-Mayer — all the scoring in 5 minutes 56 seconds of the third quarter.

The game marked the first time the Rams had been shut out at home in a regular season game since they came to Los Angeles from Cleveland in 1946.

Move To Deprive Canada Of Sports Events Starts

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Charles Palmer, outspoken president of the International Judo Federation, claims he is gathering support for a plan to deprive Canada of all international sports events for the next 10 years.

He seized the initiative during meetings of the 26 Olympic sports federations with the Executive Board of the International Olympic Committee, which opened Monday.

Palmer wants to slap sanctions on Canada because the Canadian government shut out the athletes of Taiwan from the Montreal Olympics last July — an act which the IOC claimed was a breach of faith.

"I think we must take the Commonwealth Games away from Canada in 1978," Palmer said. "I don't like hypocrisy. If we apply sanctions, we should make them stick properly."

"At least a half-dozen federations have told me they will support my plan. Another half-dozen are violently opposed to it. All the others presumably are somewhere in the middle, and we shall have to wait and see."

Palmer is an Englishman of growing influence, because he is the secretary of the General Assembly of Federations (GAIF).

He put his plan for Canada before Monday's opening session of the IOC's Tripartite Commission, on which representatives of the federations and the national Olympic committees sit.

"It was not the place to discuss my plan at length, because this committee merely advises the IOC and does not make decisions," Palmer said. "But at least I aired it, and I am glad to say nobody fainted and fell on the floor."

"This would hurt a lot of people in Canada. I don't like hurting people, but I feel we have to take action to prevent what happened in Montreal happening again in the future."

The IOC has no jurisdiction over the Commonwealth Games, which are scheduled for Edmonton. But the federations could force the games to be moved. Judo, Palmer's sport, is not a part of the Commonwealth Games program.

The Canadian government refused visas to the Taiwanese because they would not abandon their chosen name of the Republic of China.

Meanwhile, Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, said he has had repeated promises from the Soviet Union that athletes from all countries recognized by the IOC will be free to compete in the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

The IOC protested loudly when Canada shut out the Taiwanese, but resisted pressure from some quarters to cancel the Olympics.

Now the IOC has to decide what to do about 29 African countries which walked out of the Montreal Games at short notice in protest against a New Zealand rugby team touring South Africa.

Palmer wants all the African nations involved in the boycott banned from international events for five years.

The IOC will listen to the views of the federations but will make no decision on the Africans until its annual assembly in Prague next June.

PAT PEPPLER

GM Peppler Interim Falcon Coach

ATLANTA (AP) — General Manager Pat Peppler, who never has served as a head football coach above the high school level, was on the practice field today as the new coach of the Atlanta Falcons.

Peppler, 54, was named Monday night as the field boss of the faltering Falcons for the remainder of the National Football League season, succeeding Marion Campbell, who was fired by owner Rankin Smith.

Peppler, who has not actually coached on the field since serving as an assistant at Wake Forest in 1962, also will continue as general manager, a position he will return to when the season ends.

"He's got a thankless task," said Smith, who called the dismissal of Campbell "the most difficult decision of my life."

Smith said he would name a new coach for the 1977 season "as soon as I can after this season ends."

Campbell, 47, moved up from an assistant's post when Smith fired outspoken Norm Van Brocklin in November, 1974.

During his tenure, Campbell had a record of 6-19, with the end becoming apparent Sunday when his team was embarrassed 30-0 by the New Orleans Saints. It was Atlanta's fourth defeat in five games this season.

Atlanta never got untracked this year, having trouble during both the exhibition and regular seasons. The team faced what many considered its most favorable schedule in years.

Smith said he did not offer Campbell another spot in the organization "because he doesn't need it." He said Campbell should have no trouble getting another job and, besides, his contract with Atlanta runs through the 1977 season.

Peppler said that his first move was to ask Bill Walsh, the offensive line coach, to remain in that capacity and also as an assistant head coach.

"I would be foolish to say I'm ready right now to step on the field," Peppler said. "That's the reason I want Bill Walsh to stay."

His task became even more difficult when it was announced earlier Monday that quarterback Steve Bartkowski, last year's NFL Rookie of the Year, would be out for the rest of the season. Bartkowski underwent surgery on his right knee following an injury in the second quarter of the game at New Orleans.

Peppler's only head coaching experience was between 1948 and 1953 at East Lansing, Mich., High School. He played football, basketball and baseball at Michigan State University and served as an assistant coach at North Carolina State and Wake Forest.

He became general manager of the Falcons in February, 1975, after serving as director of scouting for the Miami Dolphins. He was an assistant general manager and director of player personnel for the Green Bay Packers during their world championship era under Vince Lombardi.

Disgruntled Pete Rose Could Leave Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose, a red-blooded member of the Cincinnati Reds, talking about switching uniforms?

That possibility surfaced Monday as the Reds were attempting to eliminate the Philadelphia Phillies in three straight for their second National League playoff sweep.

Unhappy over references to his age during recent negotiations with the Reds, Rose has told friends he is disgruntled with annual contract haggling with the Reds' front office and is considering a move that could land him with the Phils.

"Sure I'm unhappy. But it didn't just come up. I've been unhappy with my salary a long time," said the 10-time All-Star.

Rose, who ironically has been the chief tormentor of the Phils during the regular season and in postseason play, could wind up in a Philadelphia uniform.

Under major league baseball contract rules Rose holds the right to select where he would like to be traded. A player with 10 years experience in the major leagues and five with the same club can veto a trade to another club.

The 35-year-old third baseman-outfielder, who was raised in Cincinnati and became one of baseball's biggest drawing cards with his hustling, aggressive style, has been a thorn in Philadelphia's side all season.

He hit .442 against Phils' pitching during the season and went into today's game with a 5-for-10 effort.

Rose is reportedly irritated over the Reds' initial contract offer which called for a two-year contract at $200,000 a year. He is currently receiving $190,000 a year. Teammates Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan are the highest paid players on the world champions, both at a reported $250,000 a year.

Rose would neither confirm nor deny the report, saying:

"My lawyer has met with them and we're still talking. I don't want to get into it now. This is not the right time to discuss it."

When pressed on the trade possibility, he told The Associated Press: "Philadelphia is the only other team I'd like to play for. I could play left field there."

A Reds' spokesman, who asked to remain anonymous, said the report "is strictly rumor at this point."

State Finals Nov. 27 At Pontiac Playoff Ratings To Start

This week, the Michigan High School Athletic Association begins its point rating system which determines the four schools from each class who will battle for the state football championships.

The system, where teams are awarded points for a win and for any wins by an opponent, ran into some criticism last season with some coaches wanting more teams to be involved in the post-season games.

But the only change this year will be in the site for the final games. They will be held at the Lions' new playpen in Pontiac on Nov. 27.

Points for determining regional champions in each class are as follows:

- 80 points for beating a class A team.
- 64 points for beating a class B team.
- 48 points for beating a class C team.
- 32 points for beating a class D team.
- In ties, the points are divided.
- A school will get eight bonus points for each game won by an opponent it defeated and one point for each game won by a team that defeated it.
- Total points are divided by the number of games played to determine the final rankings.

Just because a squad is undefeated, doesn't mean it gets a berth in the playoffs. Hartford is unbeaten in class C and has 52 points after the first four games. Last year at this time, the Indians had 56 points and were fourth in the region, so chances are they may not make the top four in the first rating.

Undefeated Marcellus looks like it could get the top rating this week in its region in class D. The Wildcats have amassed 51 points, which would have been tops at this time last year.

Meanwhile, in area action this week, it is really a make or break situation for Lawrence (2-1 in the league). If the Tigers lose to host Decatur (2-0) Friday night, it will surely knock them out of the SAC race.

Other SAC games find Martin (0-2) at Lawton (0-3) and Gobles (1-2) hosting Bloomingdale (1-1). Marcellus, the league leader at 3-0, travels to Hopkins for a non-conference battle.

South Haven (3-1) will try and keep its three-game win streak going when it hosts Wolverine Conference foe Guil Lake (1-2) for homecoming. Paw Paw (0-4) will try and get its first win when the Redskins host Allegan (0-3). Bangor (0-3) will host Springfield (1-2) in a KVA battle.

The next two weeks will be crucial for Decatur, as the Raiders play the Tigers, then take on old foe Marcellus on Oct. 22. Decatur and Marcellus have been the dominant forces in the SAC, except last season, when Lawrence topped them both to take the league title.

Raiders' head coach Don Raterink has been pleased with progress his defense has made this season. "Our defense has improved since the beginning of the season," Raterink states. "The entire unit as a whole looks good."

"We gave up 160 yards rushing last week against Hopkins, but we did make a goal line stand in the second quarter that was quite impressive."

The Raiders gave up 21 and 22 points, respectively, in their first two games but have shut out Lawton and Hopkins the past two weeks.

Raterink is worried about Lawrence's two-pronged attack. "I guess we will have to be concerned with both their running and passing attacks," he says. "They attempted 28 passes last week, and if they could have completed a few more, it might have been a different game."

The Tigers' loss to Bloomingdale snapped a 12-game SAC winning streak.

South Haven's head coach Gary Steudle knows Guil Lake will be no pushover, even though the Blue Devils only sport a 1-3 overall mark. "Guil Lake is a good ball club," Steudle declares. "It has been in every game this season."

The Blue Devils' two league losses both came in the last minute of the game. They lost to Onego 20-15 and to Three Rivers 17-14.

Something which keeps a team happy is when everybody gets into the scoring act. And so far, eight different gridriders have scored points for the Rams. "Each week we are seeing something different, as to who people are keying on," Steudle indicates. "So a lot of different people are scoring."

"Now we are starting to come along as a team. But we still have five games to play, and we've got to play them one at a time."

Bangor has had its problems with Springfield in the past. The Vikings have lost all eight games to the Rams while scoring only 20 points in the process.

Lytle Big Ten Offensive Player Of Week

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan fullback Rob Lytle, who averaged a record 18 yards per carry against Michigan State last Saturday, has been named the Big Ten Player of the Week on offense by The Associated Press.

Lytle, a senior from Fremont, Ohio, gained 180 yards in 10 carries to lead the top-ranked Wolverines to a 42-10 victory over Michigan State.

Lytle's performance erased the previous Big Ten per game rushing average record of 17.9 yards set two years ago by Mike Pruitt of Purdue against Iowa.

Pruitt had 179 yards in 10 carries.

"If that guy isn't All-American, I don't know who is," said Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler of Lytle.

Lytle won the honor over tailback Mike Harkrader of Indiana, fullback John Skibinski of Purdue and tailback Harlan Huckleby of Michigan.

Harkrader, a freshman whose father played at Ohio State in the 1950s, gained 179 yards in 22 carries in Indiana's 7-0 victory over Northwestern.

Skibinski gained 133 yards in 20 carries in Purdue's 18-16 triumph over Wisconsin and Huckleby rambled for 126 yards in 23 attempts and scored three touchdowns as he and Lytle shredded Michigan State's defenses.

Cullings New Hartford Coach

HARTFORD — Leonard Cullings has been named the new head wrestling coach at Hartford.

Berrien Fishing Peaking

The best fishing of the year is underway on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam.

"The fish are coming in now...they are jumping," said

Alvin Aldridge, the ranger at Berrien Springs' Shamrock Park, on Monday. "The fishing is better than it has ever been. And from now to the end of the month will be the best."

Aldridge is expecting from 3,000 to 3,500 fishermen this coming weekend in the area immediately below the dam.

An indication of the growing interest in the Berrien Springs fishery is revealed by the fact that Fisherman's Haven, located near the dam, sold almost 1,000 daily fishing licenses in the past week.

On Sunday, Aldridge checked 700 fishermen with 59 chinook, 32 coho, 26 steelhead, 11 brown trout and 3 walleyes. Saturday's survey showed 900 fishermen with 43 chinook, 26 coho, 32 steelhead, 11 browns, and two walleyes. A total of 100 anglers Friday had 59 chinook, 19 coho, 33 steelhead and 9 browns.

Aldridge says the best lure has been the J plug.

Downstream, some of the best fishing on the St. Joe has been in the Pipestone Creek area, according to a report by B-J's Sports of St. Joseph. A 23-pound chinook even jumped into the boat of a pair of out-of-state fishermen in that area.

Fishermen on the St. Joseph piers have been taking some steelhead on spawn. And Lake Michigan trollers picked up some lake trout close to shore last week.

Other good salmon rivers have included the Black and Kalamazoo.

Big Chinook

Barb Ransbottom of Stevensville caught her first chinook and it was a lunker. While casting off the bank of the St. Joseph River with a tadpole lure, she caught a 41¾-inch chinook.

Petznick Wins

The winner in the big fish contest at B-J's Sports in St. Joseph was Robert Petznick of Baroda with a chinook salmon which was 42¾ inches long.

Fish Ladder Tourist Spot

The fish ladder at the Berrien Springs dam should become a tourist attraction late this week.

Indiana & Michigan Electric, which owns the dam where the ladder is located, is moving the fence around the facility right up against the ladder.

It's also removing the grates on the dam, so interested persons will be able to watch salmon and steelhead move up the ladder. About the final seven steps will be in view.

Up until this time, the retaining fence and ladder grates kept the leaping fish out of view.

"It will give people what they have been looking for," declares district Department of Natural Resources fish biologist Dave Johnson. "It's by far the best view you could have any place on the ladder."

The ladder was built last year with I&M and state funding.

Duck Hunting Success Good

Early-season duck hunters have been having good success in southwestern Michigan, according to a Department of Natural Resources report.

"We figure success was up from year, while the bird population was the same or in some cases at little less," notes district DNR wildlife chief Bill Bartels.

Opening day checks in some of the district's best waterfowl areas revealed kills of two to three ducks per hunter. That dropped to about 1.4 per hunter on Saturday, when pressure was about the same as opening day. "The ducks are wising up in a hurry," states Bartels. The hunter turnout dropped sharply Sunday.

Bartels said the increase in success, with the population being the same or smaller, was probably partly the result of the ducks being concentrated more because dry weather left a lot of potholes without water. The weather was also gloomy and wet on opening day, which made for better hunting than a year ago.

"The bulk of the kill has run heavily on mallards and teal, low on woodducks and almost non-existent on black ducks," continues Bartels.

"The thing that intrigues me is the very low kills on wood ducks, because there are plenty of them around. I really think hunters are being more selective. They can tell woodducks, and they are not going to take 70-point ducks."

The teal bagged have been almost evenly divided between the blue-winged and green-winged, and Bartels believes this is a result of green-winged ducks moving in from the north.

The population of 8,000 Canada geese at the Allegan state game area is also evidence that the waterfowl migration is underway.

Biologists running waterfowl surveys also found little opposition among hunters to the new state duck stamp.

Elsewhere on the southwestern Michigan hunting scene, squirrel hunters are finally beginning to get the edge with cover changes allowing better observation. Pressure has picked up, according to the DNR, and most hunters have a squirrel or two in their bags.

Archery deer hunting pressure has been light, but the DNR says whitetail numbers are good.

Hunting pressure is also low for raccoon. And put-and-take pheasant hunting continues to improve as the cover becomes more sparse.

The regular pheasant season will open Oct. 20.

DNR Offers Safety Tips For Waterfowl Hunters

Although last week's start of Michigan's 50-day duck season has many waterfowl hunters smiling, at least one of their colleagues is reserving his grin for awhile.

He's Jim Walker, a Department of Natural Resources recreational safety specialist, who frankly worries about hunters' well-being.

"More often than not," says Walker, "duck hunters go hunting in very small boats, which are packed with decoys, lures, guns, equipment. They travel to deep water blinds and off-shore islands, traversing deep waters in shallow-water boats in one of the worst seasons of the year for boating. In case of an upset, other boaters — who could be a potential aid — are just not out on the water."

In the last 10 years, Walker says 30 hunters have drowned and 22 others were injured in boating accidents. He's optimistic for a safe 1976 hunting season afloat and offers these tips for hunter-boaters:

Free Firewood

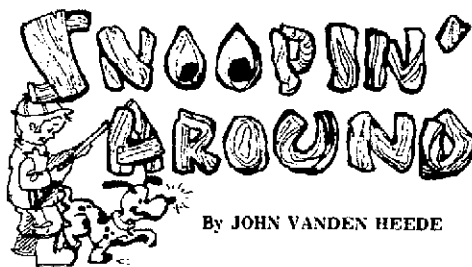

Michigan residents are reminded of this energy conservation tip by the Department of Natural Resources — free firewood is available by permit in all state forest lands. But only dead and downed timber may be taken and citizens must do their own cutting.

Torn Mathias of Decatur is back in the sled dog racing news. Mathias, 37, is coming out of retirement to compete in next year's 1,049-mile race over Alaska's historic Iditarod trail. The March event is the biggest sled dog race of the year, with a $50,000 purse.

Mathias retired in 1975 after winning about every title available in the Midwest over a 17-year span. In 1974 alone, he took the Midwest International Championship; the All-American Championship in Ely, Minn.; the Canadian National Championship, and the Michigan State Championship (seven straight times).

"I won everything there was to win," recalls Mathias on his decision to retire. He was undefeated in his final six years of Michigan races.

So why, after selling all of his dogs, is Mathias now going after the Big Apple?

Mathias, who is kept busy by his Tastee Freeze business in Paw Paw and as president of 20 Chicken Hut of Florida fast food franchises, is getting back into racing as an outgrowth of a film he did recently for a television outdoor series.

North Face Camping Equipment Co. of California is putting the 13-part "Search for Adventure" series together, with Mathias being highlighted in a sled dog piece entitled, "On the Comeback Trail."

North Face contacted Mathias after reading about his racing accomplishments. Mathias had already sold his dogs, but North Face got him a new team.

During the filming, it was decided to enter the Alaska race. The film was shot late last winter, starting at Traverse City and ending up at Jackson Hole, Wyoming.

Mathias has gone to Alaska to do "research on the race." He checked on equipment needs and clothing requirements for the grueling event which has taken up to 44 days to complete.

He also flew over part of the trail, and came back particularly impressed by Rainey Pass. He said it was a "eerily looking thing." It's only 30 feet wide in places and has rock walls which go up 1,700 feet in some spots. The trail was used to carry mail between Anchorage and Nome during the gold rush days.

Mathias is now back in Decatur getting his team ready. They're pulling a small car around now as part of the training. When the snow comes, Mathias is planning a couple of 250-mile runs across Michigan.

Mathias hopes to get his team up to the form of the 1974 one which set a world speed record by averaging 18½ miles per hour over a 26-mile course at Traverse City.

Mathias is being sponsored by North Face and the Backwoods Camping Equipment Co. in Kansas.

Outlining Hatchery Plan

Officials of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission will outline conceptual plans at a congressional briefing for a newly authorized federal fish hatchery 7½ miles north of Iron River, Wis., according to Jack Hemphill, FWS regional director, and Les Voigt, commission chairman.

U.S. Senator Gaylord Nelson along with representatives

James L. Oberstar, Minnesota's 8th district, and David Obey, Wisconsin's 7th district, are expected to attend the briefing set for Friday in the Holiday Inn, Superior, Wis., Voigt said.

After reviewing plans for the $5.2 million hatchery, the congressional and briefing delegation will inspect the Iron River site, according to Hemphill.

A service report states that the federal hatchery will have a scheduled annual production of 3.5 million fingerling lake trout. The fish-production operation will augment fish-stocking programs in the upper Great Lakes.

"This will substantially boost our efforts to re-establish self-sustaining lake trout populations in the Great Lakes," Hemphill said, adding that expenditures for recreational fishing in the lakes are currently estimated at "$340 million annually."

'Fire Is Not Always Bad'

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — About 3,000 acres of burned out Minnesota forest will be the laboratory for government biologists studying the resurgence of wildlife after a fire.

Karl Siderits, a wildlife biologist for the U.S. Forest Service at Duluth, says he expects the study to support his contention that "fire is not always bad."

The area being studied is on the edge of Roy Lake, at the end of the Gunflint Trail in extreme northeastern Minnesota. The area burned over in August.

.22 Ammo Recalled

DETROIT (AP) — The Winchester Division of Olin Corporation is recalling one day's production of potentially hazardous ammunition that has been on sale in scattered points in Michigan. The company said defective .22-caliber long rifle shells were produced in late June of this year and distributed in the Flint, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Owosso areas. The shells could damage firearms and cause personal injury, the company explained. The ammunition was sold under the "Wildcat" brand name and bears the serial number LF62PY on the upper right end panel of 5,000-round boxes, and on the inside tack flaps of smaller boxes.

Berrien Fishing Peaking

The best fishing of the year is underway on the St. Joseph River below the Berrien Springs dam.

"The fish are coming in now...they are jumping," said

Fish Ladder Tourist Spot

The fish ladder at the Berrien Springs dam should become a tourist attraction late this week.

Indiana & Michigan Electric, which owns the dam where the ladder is located, is moving the fence around the facility right up against the ladder.

It's also removing the gates on the dam, so interested persons will be able to watch salmon and steelhead move up the ladder. About the final seven steps will be in view. Up until this time, the retaining fence and ladder gates kept the leaping fish out of view.

"It will give people what they have been looking for," declares district Department of Natural Resources fish biologist Dave Johnson. "It's by far the best view you could have any place on the ladder."

The ladder was built last year with I&M and state funding.

Aldridge is expecting from 3,000 to 3,500 fishermen this coming weekend in the area immediately below the dam.

An indication of the growing interest in the Berrien Springs fishery is revealed by the fact that Fisherman's Haven, located near the dam, sold almost 1,000 daily fishing licenses in the past week.

On Sunday, Aldridge checked 700 fishermen with 59 chinook, 32 coho, 26 steelhead, 11 brown trout and 3 walleyes. Saturday's survey showed 900 fishermen

Big Chinook

Barb Ransbottom of Stevensville caught her first chinook and it was a lunker. While casting off the bank of the St. Joseph River with a tadpole lure, she caught a 41¾-inch chinook.

Petznick Wins

The winner in the big fish contest at B-J's Sports in St. Joseph was Robert Petznick of Baroda with a chinook salmon which was 42¾ inches long.

with 43 chinook, 26 coho, 32 steelhead, 11 browns, and two walleyes. A total of 100 anglers Friday had 59 chinook, 19 coho, 33 steelhead and 9 browns.

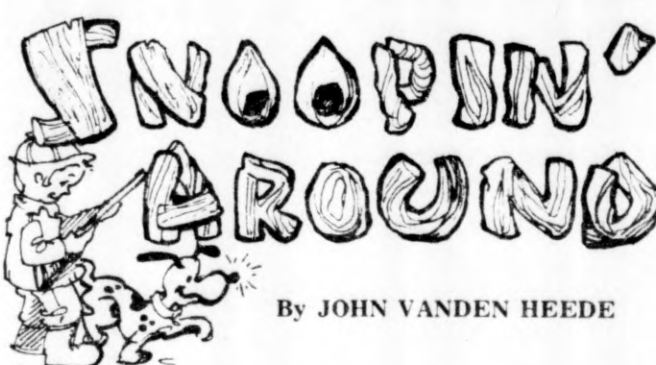

Aldridge says the best lure has been the J plug.

Downstream, some of the best fishing on the St. Joe has been in the Pipestone Creek area, according to a report by B-J's Sports of St. Joseph. A 23-pound chinook even jumped into the boat of a pair of out-of-state fishermen in that area.

Fishermen on the St. Joseph piers have been taking some steelhead on spawn. And Lake Michigan trollers picked up some lake trout close to shore last week.

Other good salmon rivers have included the Black and Kalamazoo.

Duck Hunting Success Good

Early-season duck hunters have been having good success in southwestern Michigan, according to a Department of Natural Resources report.

"We figure success was up from year, while the bird population was the same or in some cases at little less," notes district DNR wildlife chief Bill Bartels.

Opening day checks in some of the district's best waterfowl areas revealed kills of two to three ducks per hunter. That dropped to about 1.4 per hunter on Saturday, when pressure was about the same as opening day. "The ducks are wising up in a hurry," states Bartels. The hunter turnout dropped sharply Sunday.

Bartels said the increase in success, with the population being the same or smaller, was probably partly the result of the ducks being concentrated more because dry weather left a lot of potholes without water. The weather was also gloomy and wet on opening day, which made for better hunting than a year ago.

"The bulk of the kill has run heavily on mallards and teal, low on woodducks and almost non-existent on black ducks," continues Bartels.

"The thing that intrigues me is the very low kills on wood ducks, because there are plenty of them around. I really think hunters are being more selective. They can tell woodducks, and they are not going to take 70-point ducks."

The teal bagged have been almost evenly divided between the blue-winged and green-winged, and Bartels believes this is a result of green-winged ducks moving in from the north.

The population of 8,000 Canada geese at the Allegan state game area is also evidence that the waterfowl migration is underway.

Biologists running waterfowl surveys also found little opposition among hunters to the new state duck stamp.

Elsewhere on the southwestern Michigan hunting scene, squirrel hunters are finally beginning to get the edge with cover changes allowing better observation. Pressure has picked up, according to the DNR, and most hunters have a squirrel or two in their bags.

Archery deer hunting pressure has been light, but the DNR says whitetail numbers are good.

Hunting pressure is also low for raccoon. And put-and-take pheasant hunting continues to improve as the cover becomes more sparse.

The regular pheasant season will open Oct. 20.

DNR Offers Safety Tips For Waterfowl Hunters

Although last week's start of Michigan's 50-day duck season has many waterfowl hunters smiling, at least one of their colleagues is reserving his grin for awhile.

He's Jim Walker, a Department of Natural Resources recreational safety specialist, who frankly worries about hunters' well-being.

"More often than not," says Walker, "duck hunters go hunting in very small boats, which are packed with decoys, lunches, guns, equipment. They travel to deep water blinds and off-shore islands, traversing deep water in shallow-water boats in one of the worst seasons of the year for boating. In case of an upset, other boaters — who could be a potential aid — are just not out on the water."

In the last 10 years, Walker says 30 hunters have drowned and 22 others were injured in boating accidents. He's optimistic for a safe 1976 hunting season afloat and offers these tips for hunter-boaters:

Free Firewood

Michigan residents are reminded of this energy conservation tip by the Department of Natural Resources — free firewood is available by permit in all state forest lands. But only dead and downed timber may be taken and citizens must do their own cutting.

— Wear a life jacket or keep a "PFD" (personal flotation device) handy. In boats 16-feet or less in length, the law requires each person aboard to have a U.S. Coast Guard-approved "PFD".

— Don't overload your boat, but consider taking along an extra anchor and line, bucket for bailing, extra paddle and whistle or distress flares.

— Remember to check your boat's lights — carry an extra flashlight — as most duck hunters are afloat before daybreak and return after sunset.

— Sit up to shoot, but don't stand up. Be careful when reaching overboard for downed ducks — small boats capsize easily.

— If wading in marshes, be on the lookout for dredge cuts and sudden deep holes. Wear a flotation vest.

— Check the weather report before starting out and let someone know where you are going.

"Most importantly, water-bone hunters should always consider the rules of common sense," says Walker. "With due caution and observance of marine safety laws and the Golden Rule, accidents are less likely to occur."

Harold Leach Resigns From Hartford Board

HARTFORD — The resignation of veteran board member Harold (Jack) Leach was accepted "with regret" last night by the Hartford school board.

Leach, who has been on the board for 11 years, said was resigning because he has moved out of the district to Sister Lakes. He described his tenure as "a pleasure in most cases and at times a trial."

Leach recommended that Jeanette Weber, who ran unsuccessfully for the board last spring, be appointed to fill the vacancy. His term was to run until 1978.

In other areas, Supt. Gary Waterkamp reported during a recess that the state bureau of safety and regulation had investigated the accident which took the life of Tracey Heater, 10, but that no report had been received yet. Tracey was injured fatally Sept. 14, when a bookcase fell on her in the Red Arrow grade school.

The board and administration have said only that the accident was under "intensive investigation" since it occurred. The accident was not discussed during the regular meeting.

The board tabled action on a proposal to hire two school crossing guards. Cost of the program was put at $3,100 annually, which would be split between the school district and Hartford city. The board indicated it wanted a firm written agreement from the city before proceeding.

William Hartman, administrative assistant, announced that the district's fourth Friday enrollment, on which state aid is based, had declined from 1,729 to 1,636 this year. He said the biggest drop was a loss of about 60 students at the middle school.

Despite the overall decline, he noted there is still some crowding in the elementary grades, and pointed out that the district's kindergarten enrollment of 126 is the highest in nine years. Hartman said the situation will be eased when the district loses about 100 migrant students in the next few weeks.

The board also approved a system of reimbursement for students who drive to cosmetology courses in Sister Lakes and St. Joseph as part of the program offered through the Van Buren Skills Center. They will be paid $1 per day for one to 10 miles; $1.50 for 11-20 miles; $1.95 for 21-30; $2.20 for 31-40; and $2.50 for anything over 41 miles.

Waterkamp estimated that between 60 and 75 per cent of the mileage cost would be reimbursed by the state.

The board gave tentative approval for 10 members of the high school Spanish club to take a trip to Mexico April 2-9 during spring vacation. Cost was put at $332 per person, excluding meals.

A request by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yirchott that their son, Terry, be allowed to graduate with his class next June was also approved. Yirchott told the board that Terry will have completed all his required credits by the end of this semester, but that the family has to move to Arizona because of Mrs. Yirchott's health.

The board suggested that Terry go to school in Arizona, then transfer back to Hartford just before the end of the school year so he can graduate with his class.

Hartman was also given approval by the board to apply for bilingual education funds from the state. He said the district could receive $80 apiece for 94 eligible students.

The board set tuition rates for out of district students at $377 for the elementary grades, and $425 for secondary grades.

Bangor Board Hikes Pay For 4

BANGOR — The Bangor school board last night approved pay raises for its top four administrators.

Acting Supt. Fred Stap's salary was increased $3,000, from $22,000 annually to $25,000. His predecessor, Howard Beyer, had been receiving $25,900 annually last year before he was dismissed. A permanent replacement for Beyer has not been chosen yet.

Middle school principal

Walter Bonelli received a $1,525 raise from $20,475 to $22,000 and elementary principal Franklin McCarroll received a $1,400 raise from $18,100 to $19,500.

All salaries are for a 52-week year except McCarroll's which was 43 weeks.

In other areas, contracts for most phases of construction of an estimated $400,000 athletic complex for Bangor high school were approved. The low bidders and winners of the contract were:

Carlson Construction Co., for general construction, $174,500, an all weather track, $45,052.

The board formally accepted insurance payment of $19,434 for the mobile classroom unit and its contents that were destroyed in a fire this spring.

The board announced it is

It is also seeking bids on a heating system for the agricultural room of the new middle school.

Enrollment figures of 1,968

were announced for the 1976-1977 school year, 18 more than last year.

The board announced it is still studying pay raises for non-certified employees.

The board also said apublie hearing on the 1976-1977 budget will be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 8.

Watervliet School Budget Up 6%

WATERVLLET — The Watervliet school board last night approved a 1976-77 school budget of $2,086,994, about a six per cent increase over the 1975-76 budget of $1,965,155.

Budget approval came with the stipulation there could be some minor changes to be made public at its Oct. 25 meeting, along with action the board is scheduled to take then on administrative salaries for the 1976-77 school year.

The salaries were on last night's board agenda but action on them was tabled at the request of Board Member Alton Wendzel.

Increases in the budget are due to an 8.9 per cent increase in teacher salaries and fringes, increases in cost of materials, a $38,000 elementary grade compensatory education (reading and math) program new to the school this year and $5,000 in a CETA program the school did not have last year, according to Michael Williamson, administrative assistant.

In other action, the board formally gave its support to two issues on the state's November election ballot. Supported were Proposal C, to limit all state taxes and spending to 8.3 per cent of the combined personal income of the state, and Proposal D, to replace the flat rate state income tax with a graduated income tax for calendar year 1977.

The board also endorsed Republican Clarence Dukes for election to the state board of education.

The board voted to appropriate $1,300 towards the purchase of new robes for the high school choir and chorale after learning that a music department boosters' club raised $1,300 at a Bike-a-thon Saturday. The group has yet to raise another $1,300 towards the $3,900 purchase price.

It was announced that Susan DeYoung, a senior at Watervliet high school, will serve as the student representative this year to the school board. Miss DeYoung is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward DeYoung, 92 Beechwood circle, Watervliet.

Sewer Bill Error Found In Watervliet Township

WATERVLLET — The Paw Paw Lake sewer board has undercharged Watervliet township by about $8,000 for the township's use of the sewer system over the last two years, the Watervliet township board was told last night.

Township Clerk Barbara Tyler, during the meeting, and William Gaines, ordinance administrator, afterwards, said the undercharge resulted because sewer board employees misread two of three flow meters which measure the amount of waste water coming from the township into the treatment plant.

Supervisor Lyle Woodworth said the township will pay the arrearage.

The $13 million sewer collection and treatment system which serves Watervliet city and township and Coloma city and township went into operation in 1973.

Gaines in a telephone report said the error was discovered when the sewer board and the township started comparing quarterly waste water flow figures.

He said sewer board meter readers apparently were unaware that on two of the flow meters there is a 1,000 multiplier that must be applied to the meter reading. The sewer board employees were applying a 100 multiplier to all three meters, Gaines said.

In other action, Craig Rose of Rose Die Casting asked that his firm be allowed to hook into the sewer system. Rose said the company annually must get rid of some two to three million gallons of industrial waste water. None of it would be tainted by toxic chemicals, he told the board.

Woodworth suggested Rose meet with the sewer board to discuss hookup arrangements and fees.

The board referred to the township zoning board of appeals a request by William Smart that he be allowed to build a home on lot 249 of Fairview plot. The lot is on Lake street in the vicinity of Paw Paw lake's Fairview beach. It is currently smaller than allowed by ordinance for home construction.

The board delayed for further study a decision on which firm will carry insurance on township property; issued a reminder that the township dump is now open only on Saturdays; and announced that the transfer of responsibility for the ambulance service from the ambulance board to the fire board is expected sometime after the first of the year.

Paw Paw Lake Fire Is Probed

WATERVLLET — Investigation of a fire which claimed the life of a 12-year-old Illinois boy here early Sunday is continuing, according to the Berrien county prosecutor's office and the state fire marshal's office.

William Edward Hall, 12, LaGrange, Ill., perished in a fire that broke out in a summer house on Paw Paw lake's shoreline. Dr. William Berner, Berrien county chief medical examiner, said this morning that the boy died of "total body burns" suffered in the fire.

Five other people, including an older boy who had been sleeping in the same room as the victim, escaped injury in the fire.

John Smietanka, Berrien prosecutor, said this morning that his office, the Berrien Sheriff's department, Watervliet police and the state fire marshal's office are all involved in a continuing investigation of the fire. He said his department had not yet received a report this morning from the fire marshal determining what caused the fire.

Survivors of the fire were identified by police as Kenneth Arscott, who was reportedly in the process of adopting the Hall boy; his son, Kenneth John Arscott, 15, both of LaGrange; and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Herrmann, and their son, Joseph, 3, of Chicago.

Hartman was also given approval by the board to apply for bilingual education funds from the state. He said the district could receive $80 apiece for 94 eligible students.

The board set tuition rates for out of district students at $377 for the elementary grades, and $425 for secondary grades.

Harold Leach Resigns From Hartford Board

HARTFORD — The resignation of veteran board member Harold (Jack) Leach was accepted "with regret" last night by the Hartford school board. Leach, who has been on the board for 11 years, said was resigning because he has moved out of the district to Sister Lakes. He described his tenure as "a pleasure in most cases and at times a trial."

Leach recommended that Jeanette Weber, who ran successfully for the board last spring, be appointed to fill the vacancy. His term was to run until 1979.

In other areas, Supt. Gary Waterkamp reported during a recess that the state bureau of safety and regulation had investigated the accident which took the life of Tracey Heater, 10, but that no report had been received yet. Tracey was injured fatally Sept. 14, when a bookcase fell on her in the Red Arrow grade school.

The board and administration have said only that the accident was under "intensive investigation" since it occurred. The accident was not discussed during the regular meeting.

The board tabled action on a proposal to hire to two school crossing guards. Cost of the program was put at $3,100 annually, which would be split between the school district and Hartford city. The board indicated it wanted a firm written agreement from the city before proceeding.

William Hartman, administrative assistant, announced that the district's fourth Friday enrollment, on which state aid is based, had declined from 1,729 to 1,636 this year. He said the biggest drop was a loss of about 60 students at the middle school.

Despite the overall decline, he noted there is still some crowding in the elementary grades, and pointed out that the district's kindergarten enrollment of 126 is the highest in nine years. Hartman said the situation will be eased when the district loses about 100 migrant students in the next few weeks.

The board also approved a system of reimbursement for students who drive to cosmetology courses in Sister Lakes and St. Joseph as part of the program offered through the Van Buren Skills Center. They will be paid $1 per day for one to 10 miles; $1.50 for 11-20 miles; $1.95 for 21-30; $2.20 for 31-40; and $2.50 for anything over 41 miles.

Waterkamp estimated that between 60 and 75 per cent of the mileage cost would be reimbursed by the state.

The board gave tentative approval for 10 members of the high school Spanish club to take a trip to Mexico April 2-9 during spring vacation. Cost was put at $332 per person, excluding meals.

A request by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yirchott that their son, Terry, be allowed to graduate with his class next June was also approved. Yirchott told the board that Terry will have completed all his required credits by the end of this semester, but that the family has to move to Arizona because of Mrs. Yirchott's health.

The board suggested that Terry go to school in Arizona, then transfer back to Hartford just before the end of the school year so he can graduate with his class.

Hartman was also given approval by the board to apply for bilingual education funds from the state. He said the district could receive $80 apiece for 94 eligible students.

The board set tuition rates for out of district students at $377 for the elementary grades, and $425 for secondary grades.

In other areas, contracts for most phases of construction of an estimated $400,000 athletic complex for Bangor high school were approved. The low bidders and winners of the contract were:

seeking bids on laundry room and other home economics equipment for the new middle school.

It is also seeking bids on a heating system for the agricultural room of the new middle school.

Enrollment figures of 1,968

were announced for the 1976-1977 school year, 18 more than last year.

The board announced it is still studying pay raises for non-certified employees.

The South In 1976--Ford Country, Or Carter's?

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

Beneath the contest between Jimmy Carter and President Ford in the South is another struggle. It may determine the political direction of the New South and the chances for a new Republican majority.

By nominating a native Southerner for president, the Democrats have done two things own thing at the local level while ignoring the party's presidential ticket.

Ever since the Dixiecrats bolted the party in 1948, the once Solid South has been eroding for the Democrats. Dwight Eisenhower made inroads in 1952 and 1956, and Richard Nixon held some of the new ground in 1960. Barry Goldwater took five Southern states rights, but it spread to other issues on which Southern voters generally concluded that the Republican presidential nominees were more conservative, and therefore closer to their own traditions, than the national Democratic party.

Local Democrats, meanwhile, most of them just as conservative as any Republican, simply ignored the national party, or

Now, one of the New Southerners is heading the Democratic ballot.

"The South sees him the kind of presidential nominee they have been asking the Democrats for," said an early Carter backer. "For the first time they have a candidate who is nationally acceptable and whom they can accept and identify with."

If Carter makes the national Democratic party respectable to Southern voters, the main advantage the Republicans had in the South will be wiped out. And most of them know it. Ford workers say they are surprised at the way Ronald Reagan's conservative Republican backers are pitching in to save the Ford campaign in Dixie.

The kind of Southerners who are sticking with the GOP appear to be in large measure those who would have been Republicans all along if they had lived in another part of the country — businessmen, professionals, white collar workers, suburbanites.

This is a growing class in the South and could provide a reasonable base for a growing Republican party no matter who wins the presidency — if the GOP can adapt its approach and cultivate these voters.

On the other hand, one of the things which has stumped Ford's strategists is the way the rural South and the growing urban industrial working class is sticking with Carter.

Despite their conservative bent on social issues, these people are closely affected by the basic economic issues which have always been the strength of the Democratic party.

That basic Carter strength has not been lost on the Democrats of the old school. While Ford is picking up some Democratic support in the South, he is not getting it in the measure that Nixon, Goldwater, and Eisenhower did.

If this means embracing a liberalized New South in the person of Jimmy Carter, most of them seem willing to do it.

Ford's hopes of saving the South for the GOP lie in trying to convince Southerners that as a conservative he holds greater right to their loyalties, even though Carter was born and raised in their midst. And that is the heart of the strategy, that the South "will vote principles instead of geography."

Carter's hopes lie in the belief that the New South retains its traditional regional pride while it tolerates new ideas.

"We don't think Jimmy's out of the mainstream of the South," said Phil Wise, Carter's Southern coordinator. "A lot of the pride of the South is at stake in this race."

Some Carter supporters see his candidacy as a kind of vindication of the South, and this has made a lot of Southerners protective of Jimmy Carter.

After his Playboy interview appeared some Carter campaign offices received calls from people asking just which verses of Scripture he had been referring to in his explanation of pride and lust.

"Now these people know the Bible," said Dunn. "They weren't asking for their own instruction. They wanted the right verses to defend him with."

One problem Ford has in campaigning in the South stems from the very nature of Republican party growth in the region. It has been based largely on the appeal of a national ticket which sold itself and never built a local base independent of coattails.

Ford must necessarily depend largely on direct appeal from the candidate to the voter through media or through central telephone banks, both highly expensive.

Nevertheless, Ford has potential in some areas of the South, primarily because of the ideological appeal his campaign is trying to press.

Dixie Used To Vote For Local Democrats And Republican Presidents, But Now...

crucial to the future of the region:

—They have ended a long free ride for Republicans in the South in national elections.

—And they have made it possible for many Southern Democrats to stop doing their in 1964 despite a Texan heading the Democratic ticket.

In 1968 only Texas stayed with the Democrats. What George Wallace didn't win with his third party bid, Nixon got. And in 1972 Nixon took them all.

even denounced it while campaigning back home.

At the same time they continued to call themselves Democrats. Keeping their seniority in Congress and other benefits of national party support. They had the best of both worlds.

But a couple of things happened which threatened this comfortable accommodation. For one thing, once Southerners had dared to vote against the party of their fathers at one level, it was an easier step to the next. Southern districts began sending Republicans to Congress for the first time since Reconstruction.

Sensing a trend, some newcomers decided to enter politics under the new banner, and some lifelong Democrats, like Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who had first defected as Dixiecrats, completed the switch and became Republicans.

But just as the conservative mood of the Old South was leading it to what was seen as the more conservative party, the old patterns were being broken by the 1965 voting rights act, which brought thousands of new black voters onto the rolls.

Segregationists were no longer automatically winning elections. Blacks began to be elected to public office. And white New South politicians, able to draw from both constituencies, began to appear, men like Carter in Georgia, Reubin Askew in Florida, Dale Bumpers in Arkansas, Wendell Ford in Kentucky.

The South In 1976--Ford Country, Or Carter's?

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer

Beneath the contest between Jimmy Carter and President Ford in the South is another struggle. It may determine the political direction of the New South and the chances for a new Republican majority.

By nominating a native Southerner for president, the Democrats have done two things own thing at the local level while ignoring the party's presidential ticket.

Ever since the Dixiecrats bolted the party in 1948, the once Solid South has been eroding for the Democrats. Dwight Eisenhower made inroads in 1952 and 1956, and Richard Nixon held some of the new ground in 1960. Barry Goldwater took five Southern states rights, but it spread to other issues on which Southern voters generally concluded that the Republican presidential nominees were more conservative, and therefore closer to their own traditions, than the national Democratic party.

Local Democrats, meanwhile, most of them just as conservative as any Republican, simply ignored the national party, or

Now, one of the New Southerners is heading the Democratic ballot.

"The South sees him the kind of presidential nominee they have been asking the Democrats for," said an early Carter backer. "For the first time they have a candidate who is nationally acceptable and whom they can accept and identify with."

Despite their conservative bent on social issues, these people are closely affected by the basic economic issues which have always been the strength of the Democratic party.

That basic Carter strength has not been lost on the Democrats of the old school. While Ford is picking up some Democratic support in the South, he is not getting it in the measure that Nixon, Goldwater, and Eisenhower did.

The pride of the South is at stake in this race.

Some Carter supporters see his candidacy as a kind of vindication of the South, and this has made a lot of Southerners protective of Jimmy Carter.

After his Playboy interview appeared some Carter campaign offices received calls from people asking just which verses of Scripture he had been referring to in his explanation of pride and lust.

"Now these people know the Bible," said Dunn. "They weren't asking for their own instruction. They wanted the right verses to defend him with."

One problem Ford has in campaigning in the South stems from the very nature of Republican party growth in the region. It has been based largely on the appeal of a national ticket which sold itself and never built a local base independent of coattails.

Ford must necessarily depend largely on direct appeal from the candidate to the voter through media or through central telephone banks, both highly expensive.

Nevertheless, Ford has potential in some areas of the South, primarily because of the ideological appeal his campaign is trying to press.

Dixie Used To Vote For Local Democrats And Republican Presidents, But Now...

crucial to the future of the region:

—They have ended a long free ride for Republicans in the South in national elections.

—And they have made it possible for many Southern Democrats to stop doing their

in 1964 despite a Texan heading the Democratic ticket.

In 1968 only Texas stayed with the Democrats. What George Wallace didn't win with his third party bid, Nixon got. And in 1972 Nixon took them all.

The split began over civil even denounced it while campaigning back home.

At the same time they continued to call themselves Democrats, keeping their seniority in Congress and other benefits of national party support. They had the best of both worlds.

DROPOUT WINS MILLION: Robert Netto, 19, is congratulated by actor Telly "Kojak" Savalas Monday night after Netto became New York State's first Instant Lottery millionaire in a ceremony in New York City. Netto, a high school dropout from Watertown, N.Y., who earns $60 a week pumping gas, will receive $1,000 a week for the rest of his life and could get as much as $4 million. (AP Wirephoto)

But a couple of things happened which threatened this comfortable accommodation. For one thing, once Southerners had dared to vote against the party of their fathers at one level, it was an easier step to the next. Southern districts began sending Republicans to Congress for the first time since Reconstruction.

Sensing a trend, some newcomers decided to enter politics under the new banner, and some lifelong Democrats, like Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who had first defected as Dixiecrats, completed the switch and became Republicans.

But just as the conservative mood of the Old South was leading it to what was seen as the more conservative party, the old patterns were being broken by the 1965 voting rights act, which brought thousands of new black voters onto the rolls.

Segregationists were no longer automatically winning elections. Blacks began to be elected to public office. And white New South politicians, able to draw from both constituencies, began to appear, men like Carter in Georgia, Reubin Askew in Florida, Dale Bumpers in Arkansas, Wendell Ford in Kentucky.

This is a growing class in the South and could provide a reasonable base for a growing Republican party no matter who wins the presidency — if the GOP can adapt its approach and cultivate these voters.

On the other hand, one of the things which has stumped Ford's strategists is the way the rural South and the growing urban industrial working class is sticking with Carter.

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night approved holding a film series at the high school designed to help families meet problems such as divorce and drug and alcohol abuse.

The series of six films will be shown at the Coloma high school auditorium and will also deal with areas of developing individuality, family communication, discipline, and death.

The series is slated to run from Nov. 30 through March, 1977, and is being sponsored by the school system's counseling department, the Coloma Jaycees and Jayettes, the school's parent advisory committee, and area ministers.

Both individual tickets and season tickets will be sold. Prices will range from 25 cents for individual student performance tickets to $4 for a family ticket for all films.

Applications for tickets will be sent home through students soon.

In other areas, the board set Monday, Oct. 18, at 8 p.m. as the date for the school system's budget hearing. The meeting will be held at the school administration center, located off Boyer road.

The board approved advertising for bids for four new school buses, with bids to be opened Monday, Nov. 8, at 8 p.m.

The board approved granting diplomas to two former Coloma high school students, Randall Morris and Melody Sexton, who have completed the adult high school completion program. Marshall Badt, school board president, suggested the diplomas be presented to them during a future board meeting.

The board approved requesting $70,000 be transferred from the 1971 building and site fund to pay for a new gymnasium floor and a drainage system around the middle school.

An earlier request for $90,000 from the fund was rescinded.

Coloma Learns Work's Begun On Bridge Job

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night was informed that construction on the new Logan street bridge has begun and barricades will be placed at both ends of the bridge today.

Commissioner Robert Woolley told the commission removal of the bridge and installation of a replacement culvert will start soon.

The barricades will be placed near the bridge at Bank street and east of the city parking lot.

The work will be done by Milbocker and Sons, Allegan, the low bidder for the project, at $87,846. The city's share will be $18,638 while the state will pay the balance.

In other areas, the commission approved replacing the sidewalk on the east side of Paw Paw street, north of the railroad tracks.

The city will pay 40 per cent, or $1,022, of the estimated cost of $2,555. The property owners benefiting will pay the balance.

Woolley told the commission a traffic survey underway in the city has resulted with "alarming figures."

Woolley said the city has more traffic than he had thought, but he said he had no figures available last night. He said the full report would be made later.

It was announced fire hydrants would be flushed Oct. 28-29, between 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.

A Coloma Heights resident, Cliff Gerlach, appeared before the commission opposing the city's ban of Halloween trick or treat hours. Gerlach was accompanied by a second Coloma Heights resident.

Classes Still Open At Coloma

COLOMA — Registrations will be accepted until Thursday, Oct. 21, for adults interested in participating in adult education classes being offered at Coloma high school, according to Victor Wier, high school principal.

Wier said classes started Oct. 7 and include typing, bookkeeping, welding, speed reading, cake decorating, and psychology. Classes meet on Thursday evenings from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., are non-credit and require a minimum of $20 for costs, plus materials. Persons wishing to enroll in the classes being offered should contact Wier at the high school during school hours.

Calls Off Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld has canceled plans for trips to California, Washington, Texas and Colorado to avoid the appearance of political activity.

Hagar Township Okays Purchase Of Ambulance

The Hagar township board last night approved the purchase of a 1975 ambulance for $11,300 plus trade-in allowance to replace a 1966 ambulance in use by the Hagar township ambulance service.

The approval included using $3,200 from the township fire fund toward the purchase price.

The rest, or $8,000, was to come from donations raised by the Hagar township fire department, and the department's women's auxiliary.

The fire department operates the ambulance service in the township.

A $500 trade-in for the old ambulance will be allowed by the firm selling the newer ambulance, Dennis Distributors, Inc., of Flint, Mich.

According to Trustee John Bergstedt and Emiel Lycke, chairman of the drive to raise funds for the ambulance, the new ambulance will be placed into service early next week.

Last night's board approval to purchase the new ambulance ended renewed efforts to raise the funds to buy the unit launched last July.

According to Lycke, an additional $700 from funds collected by the various fund raising events will be used to purchase an encoder radio for the new ambulance.

The unit permits ambulance attendants to have direct contact with hospital personnel.

In a related area, the township board approved the purchase of necessary rescue tools for the ambulance for $47.82.

In other areas, the board approved the enforcement of charging double the permit fee to persons beginning construction before being issued a building permit.

The board set Monday, Nov. 8 as the meeting night for their November meeting, one week later than usual, beginning at 8 p.m.

Pointing Finger At Media

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, who already has announced his intentions to seek re-election, says he blames much of Detroit's poor image on newspapers, magazines and television. The mayor said he thinks Detroit's own media should accept a major part of the responsibility for the city's woes. Young said how Detroit sees itself will determine to a great extent how others see the Motor City. Young said he is particularly upset with prominent national coverage given the now infamous rampage by youth gangs at a Cobo Hall rock concert this past summer.

The board approved advertising for bids for four new school buses, with bids to be opened Monday, Nov. 8, at 8 p.m..

The board approved granting diplomas to two former Coloma high school students, Randall Morris and Melody Sexton, who have completed the adult high school completion program. Marshall Batt, school board president, suggested the diplomas be presented to them during a future board meeting.

The board approved requesting $70,000 be transferred from the 1971 building and site fund to pay for a new gymnasium floor and a drainage system around the middle school.

An earlier request for $90,000 from the fund was rescinded.

Hagar Township Okays Purchase Of Ambulance

The Hagar township board last night approved the purchase of a 1975 ambulance for $11,300 plus trade-in allowance to replace a 1966 ambulance in use by the Hagar township ambulance service.

The approval included using $3,300 from the township fire fund toward the purchase price.

The rest, or $8,000 was to come from donations raised by the Hagar township fire department, and the department's women's auxiliary.

The fire department operates the ambulance service in the township.

A $500 trade-in for the old ambulance will be allowed by the firm selling the newer ambulance, Dennis Distributors, Inc., of Flint, Mich..

According to Trustee John Bergstedt and Emiel Lycke, chairman of the drive to raise funds for the ambulance, the new ambulance will be placed into service early next week.

Last night's board approval to purchase the new ambulance ended renewed efforts to raise the funds to buy the unit launched last July.

According to Lycke, an additional $700 from funds collected by the various fund raising events will be used to purchase an encoder radio for the new ambulance.

The unit permits ambulance attendants to have direct contact with hospital personnel.

In a related area, the township board approved the purchase of necessary rescue tools for the ambulance for $47.82.

In other areas, the board approved the enforcement of charging double the permit fee to persons beginning construction before being issued a building permit.

The board set Monday, Nov. 8 as the meeting night for their November meeting, one week later than usual, beginning at 8 p.m.

Pointing Finger At Media

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, who already has announced his intentions to seek re-election, says he blames much of Detroit's poor image on newspapers, magazines and television. The mayor said he thinks Detroit's own media should accept a major part of the responsibility for the city's woes. Young said how Detroit sees itself will determine to a great extent how others see the Motor City. Young said he is particularly upset with prominent national coverage given the now infamous rampage by youth gangs at a Cobo Hall rock concert this past summer.

Coloma Learns Work's Begun On Bridge Job

COLOMA — The Coloma city commission last night was informed that construction on the new Logan street bridge has begun and barricades will be placed at both ends of the bridge today.

Commissioner Robert Wooley told the commission removal of the bridge and installation of a replacement culvert will start soon.

The barricades will be placed near the bridge at Bank street and east of the city parking lot.

The work will be done by Milbocker and Sons, Allegan, the low bidder for the project, at $67,646. The city's share will be $18,638 while the state will pay the balance.

In other areas, the commission approved replacing the sidewalk on the east side of Paw Paw street, north of the railroad tracks.

The city will pay 40 per cent, or $1,022, of the estimated cost of $2,555. The property owners benefitting will pay the balance.

Wooley told the commission a traffic survey underway in the city has resulted with "alarming figures."

Wooley said the city has more traffic than he had thought, but he said he had no figures available last night. He said the full report would be made later.

$50 Million For Data Processing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The legislature has given final approval to a bill appropriating $50 million for the data processing and computer systems that shuffle state government papers, pay its bills and its employees. State Budget Director Gerald Miller said he had ordered a stop on some data processing functions because the appropriations bill had languished in the legislature since May. The measure is a new way of funding the data processing systems, one which hackers say will give the legislature more control over how the money is spent. In the old days computer funds were included in each individual department's budget. Those individual appropriations were removed in May, with the promise that the overall $50 million bill would be a top priority in the fall. It took until Thursday to pass it, however, on a 67-27 vote of the House that sent the bill to Gov. William Milliken for his signature.

$50 Million For Data Processing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The legislature has given final approval to a bill appropriating $50 million for the data processing and computer systems that shuffle state government papers, pay its bills and its employees. State Budget Director Gerald Miller said he had ordered a stop on some data processing functions because the appropriations bill had languished in the legislature since May. The measure is a new way of funding the data processing systems, one which backers say will give the legislature more control over how the money is spent. In the old days computer funds were included in each individual department's budget. Those individual appropriations were removed in May, with the promise that the overall $50 million bill would be a top priority in the fall. It took until Thursday to pass it, however, on a 67-27 vote of the House that sent the bill to Gov. William Milliken for his signature.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Is Little Changed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed some scattered losses today, struggling to halt the steep decline of the past two weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was little changed from Monday's close in early trading today. But declines outnumbered advances by about a 4-3 margin in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers reported a continued reluctance to buy among traders unnerved by the market's steep drop of late.

Today's prices included TWA, down 1/8 at 9; Eli Lilly, off 1/8 at 55 1/2; and Texaco, down 1/4 at 26 1/2.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average tumbled 11.56 to 940.82, its lowest close in nearly nine months.

The loss brought the average's total decline for the past 10 trading days to 72.31 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-1 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index fell .53 to 54.32.

Big Board volume slowed to 14.62 million shares with many banks and other important investing institutions closed for Columbus Day.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped 1.24 to 98.72.

Tobacco

Company Hikes Price

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. has announced a 1 1/2 cent per pack wholesale price increase on its major brands — the second major cigarette manufacturer to do so in less than a week.

Brown & Williamson said Monday that the price increase will be on its Viceroy, Kool and Belair brands. The firm's premium deMaurier will go up slightly more than two cents a pack.

The increase brings the wholesale price of regular and king-size cigarettes to $13.50 per 1,000 — an increase of 75 cents.

The beginning of an apparent over-all price increase started last Friday with the announcement by R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., that it was raising the price on all its brands, except Salem Long Lights, by 1 1/2 cents a pack.

Vending machine company officials and retail outlet spokesman agreed there is little doubt that the increases will be passed along to consumers.

Most vending machine prices are expected to go up by a nickel.

Lorillard Corp. says it will announce a similar price increase next Monday on its brands, including Kent and True.

Spokesmen for other major American cigarette manufacturers — Liggett & Myers, Inc., Phillip Morris, Inc. and American Brands, Inc. — said they have the matter under consideration.

Reynolds said a variety of increased costs contributed to its decision to raise prices. A Lorillard official cited increased union demands and higher leaf prices.

STAMPS

FALKLAND ISLANDS — The use of postage stamps to publicize new coinage for a country is not a new technique. The latest to use this method is the Falkland Islands in the South Atlantic. Each new stamp in the set of five depicts one face of a new coin and a drawing of the fish, bird or animals appearing on the coin.

Carter Urging Aid To Wheat Farmers

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter urged swift, pre-election aid for American wheat farmers today after a campaign swing he called one of his best, and President Ford's worst.

The Democratic presidential nominee said he is intentionally tempering his campaign attacks on the Republican President, figuring he has made his point about what he calls discrepancies in Ford's account of U.S. foreign policy.

"I thought it was good to pursue those for a couple of days until somebody noticed it," Carter said Monday as he flew home from an eight-day campaign stint that included the San Francisco debate on foreign and defense policies.

"I think it was a good week," Carter said. He also said he considered it Ford's worst week of the White House campaign.

Carter said he plans to take two days off and devote his time to his family, not his campaign strategy.

Watervliet — A girl, weighing 7 pounds, 15 ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Reyna, P.O. Box 619, Monday at 1:52 p.m.

"I'm not going to talk to anybody in the next two days except my wife and my daughter and my mother and Billy Carter," he said.

Carter has not backed off his hard-line criticism of Ford, grounded on the President's statement that there is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe and that the administration pressed for laws to punish companies that cooperate with the Arab boycott against Israel.

The Democrat said Ford was wrong on both points and demanded explanations. But his strategists have expressed concern that too much of what they consider a successful thing might backfire. And Carter noted that he has not pushed such points as his charge that Ford was brainwashed about the Soviet bloc.

He told reporters that was not accidental. "Almost everything I do, I do intentionally," he said wryly.

Carter is due to take the road again Thursday for Rochester, Syracuse, and New York City; Detroit and Kansas City on Friday; Toledo, Youngstown and Columbus, Ohio, on Saturday.

He issued a statement today urging an immediate increase in the price support loan level available to wheat farmers, saying, "The evidence is that farmers are now lucky if they can get $2.60 a bushel" for their wheat, compared with $4.11 a year ago.

"Even more important, the prices now being offered farmers for their wheat are in many cases below the total cost of production."

With a bumper crop this year, Carter said prices are likely to stay low and that "the government has a great responsibility to provide some relief to farmers."

Carter said Ford should direct acting Secretary of Agriculture John Knebel to set "a loan level for wheat that will give farmers price and income protection and yet allow wheat to continue to move freely in world markets."

Carter did not say what he thinks the loan level should be or what such a move would cost.

"The current loan level of $1.50 per bushel is completely inadequate and unrealistic," he said. "The President should use the authority Congress has given him to establish a realistic loan level immediately."

Borden Getting Lemon Squeeze

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the bottle of ReaLemon on the grocer's shelf is contained not just a widely used flavoring but a marketing drama that has shaken the manufacturer and stunned some antitrust and trademark lawyers.

It might change marketing techniques too, because a Federal Trade Commission judge has ruled that Borden, Inc., owner of ReaLemon, must license others to produce the reconstituted lemon juice product.

The decision, which is being appealed to the full commission, is viewed by Borden as "an unlawful confiscation of a valuable property right and is beyond the power of the commission."

The judge, it maintains, doesn't understand the operation of the market place or the function of trademarks. But the administrative law judge, Daniel Hanscom, didn't arrive at his decision easily; it totaled 170 pages.

Borden insists that in ReaLemon it offers customers a high quality product, and that its strong position in the market is derived from the respect and allegiance of those customers.

Hanscom, in his decision, of Sept. 3, didn't see it that way. He found that Borden unlawfully maintained a monopoly position in the processed lemon juice industry, a position that sometimes reached 90 per cent of the market.

In doing so, he rejected Borden's contention that in measuring the market fresh lemons should be included along with processed lemon juice, a position that would have reduced Borden's relative position.

Hanscom found factors that he said were "strongly demonstrative of monopoly power," one of them being "the overwhelming dominance of the ReaLemon brand, and its acceptance over the years by the trade and the public as the premium brand."

Viewing that conclusion, other food marketers are wondering if widespread acceptance, traditionally considered a measurement of success, now might be considered a marketing offense.

Further observations by the judge perhaps added to that uncertainty. Demonstrating monopoly, he suggested, were:

"The concomitant relative impotence and small market share of competing brands except possibly Golden Crown recently in some metropolitan areas."

"The premium price commanded by the ReaLemon brand."

"The competitive necessity for other lemon juice brands to sell at substantially lower retail prices on peril of losing shelf space and being forced from the market."

"The exceptionally high profitability of ReaLemon lemon juice over the years amounting to three to four times the rate of return on assets realized by other firms in the industry group."

But Hanscom had other observations that tended to suggest that quality alone was not the reason for ReaLemon success. Borden's marketing practices, he said, hindered, restrained and even prevented competition.

Borden responded by saying the judge ignored the competition that exists between fresh lemons and frozen and processed lemon juice, and instead created "an artificial market definition" that led to monopoly claims.

The company said also that the judge's findings were inconsistent "in that they allege Borden obtain exceptionally high profits while selling at unreasonably low prices." It said it did not engage in anticompetitive practices.

Which State Poll Do You Believe?

DETROIT (AP) — Which poll do you believe?

That's the question you must ask yourself after checking the results of two surveys to gauge Michigan voters' support for either President Ford or challenger Jimmy Carter. A poll conducted by Carter pollster Pat Cadell gives the former Georgia governor a 51-42 per cent edge in Michigan with 5 per cent undecided.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Is Little Changed

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed some scattered losses today, struggling to halt the steep decline of the past two weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was little changed from Monday's close in early trading today. But declines outnumbered advances by about a 4-3 margin in the over-all count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers reported a continued reluctance to buy among traders unnerved by the market's steep drop of late.

Today's prices included TWA, down 3/8 at 9; Eli Lilly, off 1/8 at 55 1/2; and Texaco, down 1/4 at 28 1/2.

On Monday the Dow Jones industrial average tumbled 11.56 to 940.82, its lowest close in nearly nine months.

The loss brought the average's total decline for the past 10 trading days to 72.31 points.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-1 margin on the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index fell .53 to 54.32.

Big Board volume slowed to 14.62 million shares with many banks and other important investing institutions closed for Columbus Day.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped 1.24 to 98.72.

Tobacco Company Hikes Price

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. has announced a 1 1/2 cent per pack wholesale price increase on its major brands — the second major cigarette manufacturer to do so in less than a week.

Brown & Williamson said Monday that the price increase will be on its Viceroy, Kool and Belair brands. The firm's premium deMaurier will go up slightly more than two cents a pack.

The increase brings the wholesale price of regular and king-size cigarettes to $13.50 per 1,000 — an increase of 75 cents.

The beginning of an apparent over-all price increase started last Friday with the announcement by R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., that it was raising the price on all its brands, except Salem Long Lights, by 1 1/2 cents a pack.

Vending machine company officials and retail outlet spokesman agreed there is little doubt that the increases will be passed along to consumers.

Most vending machine prices are expected to go up by a nickel.

Lorillard Corp. says it will announce a similar price increase next Monday on its brands, including Kent and True.

Spokesmen for other major American cigarette manufacturers — Liggett & Myers, Inc., Phillip Morris, Inc. and American Brands, Inc. — said they have the matter under consideration.

Reynolds said a variety of increased costs contributed to its decision to raise prices. A Lorillard official cited increased union demands and higher leaf prices.

STAMPS

FALKLAND ISLANDS — The use of postage stamps to publicize new coinage for a country is not a new technique. The latest to use this method is the Falkland Islands in the South Atlantic. Each new stamp in the set of five depicts one face of a new coin and a drawing of the fish, bird or animals appearing on the coin.

Carter Urging Aid To Wheat Farmers

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter urged swift, pre-election aid for American wheat farmers today after a campaign swing he called one of his best, and President Ford's worst.

The Democratic presidential nominee said he is intentionally tempering his campaign attacks on the Republican President, figuring he has made his point about what he calls discrepancies in Ford's account of U.S. foreign policy.

"I thought it was good to pursue those for a couple of days until somebody noticed it," Carter said Monday as he flew home from an eight-day campaign stint that included the San Francisco debate on foreign and defense policies.

"I think it was a good week," Carter said. He also said he considered it Ford's worst week of the White House campaign.

Carter said he plans to take two days off and devote his time to his family, not his campaign strategy.

Watervliet — A girl, weighing 7 pounds, 15 ounces, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Peter P. Reyna, P.O. Box 619, Monday at 1:52 p.m.

"I'm not going to talk to anybody in the next two days except my wife and my daughter and my mother and Billy Carter," he said.

Carter has not backed off his hard-line criticism of Ford, grounded on the President's statement that there is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe and that the administration pressed for laws to punish companies that cooperate with the Arab boycott against Israel.

The Democrat said Ford was wrong on both points and demanded explanations. But his strategists have expressed concern that too much of what they consider a successful thing might backfire. And Carter noted that he has not pushed such points as his charge that Ford was brainwashed about the Soviet bloc.

He told reporters that was not accidental. "Almost everything I do, I do intentionally," he said wryly.

Carter is due to take the road again Thursday for Rochester, Syracuse, and New York City; Detroit and Kansas City on Friday; Toledo, Youngstown and Columbus, Ohio, on Saturday.

He issued a statement today urging an immediate increase in the price support loan level available to wheat farmers, saying, "The evidence is that farmers are now lucky if they can get $2.60 a bushel" for their wheat, compared with $4.11 a year ago.

"Even more important, the prices now being offered farmers for their wheat are in many cases below the total cost of production."

With a bumper crop this year, Carter said prices are likely to stay low and that "the government has a great responsibility to provide some relief to farmers."

Carter said Ford should direct acting Secretary of Agriculture John Knebel to set "a loan level for wheat that will give farmers price and income protection and yet allow wheat to continue to move freely in world markets."

Carter did not say what he thinks the loan level should be or what such a move would cost.

"The current loan level of $1.50 per bushel is completely inadequate and unrealistic," he said. "The President should use the authority Congress has given him to establish a realistic loan level immediately."

Borden Getting Lemon Squeeze

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the bottle of ReaLemon on the grocer's shelf is contained not just a widely used flavoring but a marketing drama that has shaken the manufacturer and stunned some antitrust and trademark lawyers.

It might change marketing techniques too, because a Federal Trade Commission judge has ruled that Borden, Inc., owner of ReaLemon, must license others to produce the reconstituted lemon juice product.

The decision, which is being appealed to the full commission, is viewed by Borden as "an unlawful confiscation of a valuable property right and is beyond the power of the commission."

The judge, it maintains, doesn't understand the operation of the market place or the function of trademarks. But the administrative law judge, Daniel Hanscom, didn't arrive at his decision easily; it totaled 170 pages.

Borden insists that in ReaLemon it offers customers a high quality product, and that its strong position in the market is derived from the respect and allegiance of those customers.

Hanscom, in his decision, of Sept. 3, didn't see it that way. He found that Borden unlawfully maintained a monopoly position in the processed lemon juice industry, a position that sometimes reached 90 per cent of the market.

In doing so, he rejected Borden's contention that in measuring the market fresh lemons should be included along with processed lemon juice, a position that would have reduced Borden's relative position.

Hanscom found factors that he said were "strongly demonstrative of monopoly power," one of them being "the overwhelming dominance of the ReaLemon brand, and its acceptance over the years by the trade and the public as the premium brand."

Viewing that conclusion, other food marketers are wondering if widespread acceptance, traditionally considered a measurement of success, now might be considered a marketing offense.

Further observations by the judge perhaps added to that uncertainty. Demonstrating monopoly, he suggested, were:

"The concomitant relative impotence and small market share of competing brands except possibly Golden Crown recently in some metropolitan areas."

"The premium price commanded by the ReaLemon brand."

"The competitive necessity for other lemon juice brands to sell at substantially lower retail prices on peril of losing shelf space and being forced from the market."

"The exceptionally high profitability of ReaLemon lemon juice over the years amounting to three to four times the rate of return on assets realized by other firms in the industry group."

But Hanscom had other observations that tended to suggest that quality alone was not the reason for ReaLemon success. Borden's marketing practices, he said, hindered, restrained and even prevented competition.

Borden responded by saying the judge ignored the competition that exists between fresh lemons and frozen and processed lemon juice, and instead created "an artificial market definition" that led to monopoly claims.

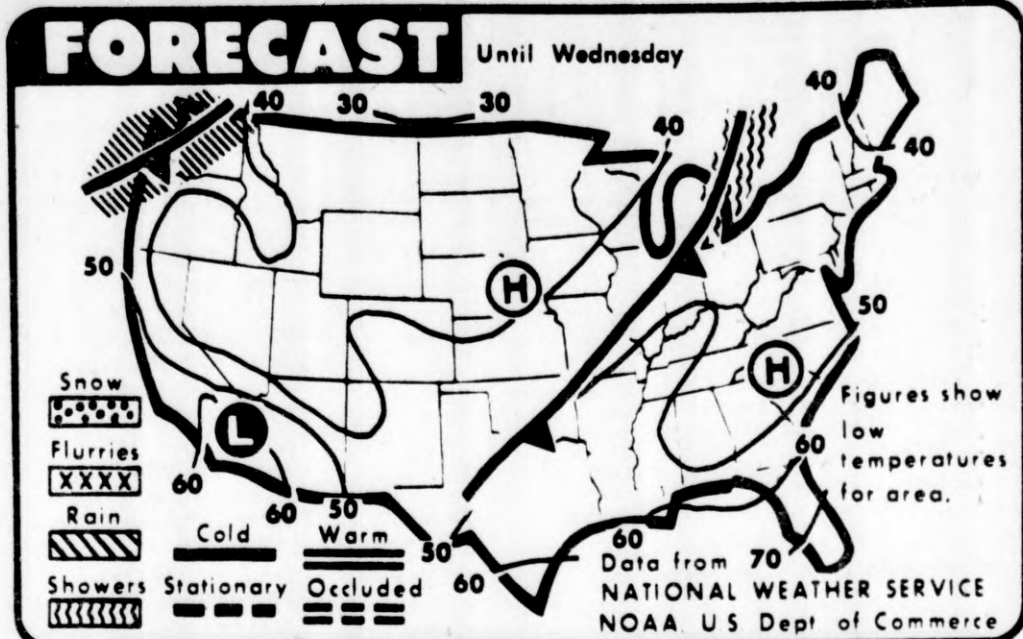

The company said also that the judge's findings were inconsistent "in that they allege Borden obtain exceptionally high profits while selling at unreasonably low prices." It said it did not engage in anticompetitive practices.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Guns, Ammo On 'Stolen' Roster

Guns and ammunition were reported as the loot in four thefts investigated Monday by Twin Cities area police.

Benton Harbor police said two handguns and a rifle were among items stolen in two burglaries in one block of East Empire avenue. Robert Schmidt, 180 East Empire, said a .38 caliber revolver, .22 caliber rifle and 125 rounds of assorted ammunition were stolen from his home. Police said a .22 caliber revolver, radio, portable organ and $30 in pennies were reported stolen from the home of Willie Mae Wilson, 170 East Empire.

Berrien sheriff's officers said 12 boxes of 12-gauge shotgun shells were stolen from the Berrien county dog pound, Huckleberry road, Berrien township. Officers said nearly eight gallons of gasoline were also missing from a pump near the pound.

Two 20-gauge shotguns and an unknown amount of ammunition were among goods reported stolen from the Gary Blough residence, 661 Park road, Bainbridge township, Berrien sheriff's deputies said. Also taken was about $10 in cash. Deputies said several rooms had been ransacked.

Berrien deputies also said $2,100 in furniture was reported stolen from the Richard Hill residence, 2910 Pagoda lane, Stevensville. The furniture taken from the garage included a sofa, two stereo speakers, a wrought iron table and four wrought iron chairs, seven other chairs, two pillows and two quilts.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said a 1966 Chevrolet pickup truck owned by Richard E. Parks, 532 Maiden lane, St. Joseph township was reported stolen. The truck was parked at Ted & Hop's Pro service station, Pipestone road at I-94, Sodus township. Parks told troopers.

Two citizens' band radios were reported stolen to Benton Harbor and Benton township police. Walter Clare, route 5, South Haven, told city police his $130 radio was taken from his car parked at K-Mart, 456 Riverview drive. Lannie Johnson, 1250 Highland avenue, reported his $250 CB was stolen from his car parked near his home, township police said.

Benton township police said a 10-year-old boy was taken into custody Monday on a charge of vandalism at an auto repair shop and was later turned over to his mother.

Police said Clem Doss, owner of Clem's Body Shop, 1414 Territorial road, reported he saw several youths breaking headlights of cars parked behind his shop and apprehended a boy about 5:40 p.m. The extent of damage to the cars was not reported. Police said the boy was to be petitioned to juvenile court.

Another incident of auto vandalism was reported yesterday to Benton Harbor police. Cass Bridgman, 1761 Roberts avenue, Benton township, told police three tires on his 1968 Buick were cut while it was parked in the 900 block of Broadway.
